FOUR-L MEETING WELL ATTENDED, RAY DANIELS TALKS ON EMPLOYMENT

Whatever pinch of hard times we may think we are feeling in this section, it is only temporary and local—such is the opinion expressed by Ray Daniels, of the 4-L headquarters in Portland, in a talk at the monthly meeting of the 4-L held in the W. O. W. hall here Monday night. Mr. Daniels pointed out that the trend of financial securities showed that over the country business was good.

The title of Mr. Daniels' address was, "Employment and Unemployment From an Economic Standpoint." He explained what may seem to some to be a paradoxical situation wherein prosperity may seem to reign yet there is in places an apparent aggravated condition of unemployment, to be merely the maladjustment of employment arising under the situation caused by the machine age. The machine has brought in its wake an age of specialization and the need for younger labor, the speaker pointed out. Men must be quicker of body and mind under the present system than before because the installation of the increased use of machinery has speeded up processes, he said. The only solution Mr. Daniels offered for the unemployment of older men was specialization.

The meeting Monday night was well attended and an excellent program was given. The little Gott twins gave a vocal duet, Margaret Jarrett's piano solo was also much enjoyed. Others on the program were: a piano and bell duet by Florence May and Barbara Barnell, a minuet recited by Ruth Chambers in costume and danced by Ruth Chambers and Janice Fndtner, and a reading by Pearl Heltzerbrand.

Refreshments were served. Thorval Nystrom was in charge of refreshments.
The topic for next month's meeting has not been definitely decided, but several tentative subjects have been suggested by W. P. Tyson, local president of the 4-L. Among these are: "Insurance for Workers as Prevention from Want in Old Age" and another possible topic, "The 4-L as Related to the Community." Mr. Tyson extends an urgent invitation to all members of the community to attend the meeting and he is especially desirous of a good turnout of business men.

National Guard Inspection Tonight

Urgent Invitation Extended by Members of Company For Attendance

An urgent invitation and request is sent out by members of the Headquarters company, 1st Battalion, 162 Infantry of the National Guard to the citizens of Springfield to attend the annual inspection to be given tonight in the Armory over Eggmann's store at 8 o'clock. Major A. M. Jones, 7th Infantry Vancouver barracks will be the inspecting officer.

It is as much in the interests of everyone in Springfield to have a good showing made by the local company as the members themselves. C. A. Swarts (lieutenant of the company) points out and this showing will be added greatly if a good crowd will be out to the inspection. It makes a much better impression on the inspecting officer if he sees that the community is back of its National Guard unit. There are 25 men in the Springfield unit including two officers, C. A. Swarts is first lieutenant and Walter Gossler second lieutenant.

Major Jones is on an inspecting tour over the state. Tuesday night he inspected the Eugene unit and Wednesday night he was at Corvallis. After the different companies over the state have been inspected comparative ratings are made. Last year the local company made a high rating and it is the desire of the local men to retain this good standing.

Besides being a patriotic asset to Springfield, the National Guard is an economic asset, Swarts has pointed out. During the past two years the local unit has caused $8944.59 to come into the community. Tonight is the time for the people here to come out and witness the military proficiency of its Guard and to aid in the manifestation of that proficiency by giving the men the confidence which comes with the assurance of the support of their community.

"Why Lane County Homes Should Be Built of Wood"

The following article is one of a series in the Prize winning essay contest sponsored by the 4-L Employee Wood Promotion committee of Springfield. HELEN DAVIS

The great state of Oregon has more standing timber than any other state in the Union, and in Lane county with the total acreage of 452,192 acres. It has more timber than any other county of the state.

The manufacturing of these vast forests into lumber provides employment for a large number of men. And by using the lumber in building houses and barns we help create a demand for the finished product, and in this way help to give steady work to those employed.
