Have you ordered your Beach Pyjamas? If not, you're lost, for no fashion-wise feminine bather is without them this season, you know.

And how are they as to color? Gay and the most vivid imagination can paint them; more bizarre than any Oriental ever dreamed they could become in the days of their creation.

Now and then, of course, one finds something striking, yet conservative, one of the nicest of these being the pyjama set illustrated—an original design by FRANCES CLYNE. Tea rose pongee in the foundation fabric, with a three-quarter beach coat of the same color bordered in beige and varying shades of rose.

Smart combinations of flame and chartreuse with a touch of black; sailor blue with red; citron yellow with King's blue and an accent of parakeet green are among the novel combinations used.

Art and Fashion Join Forces

One of the interesting developments of the current season is the union of contemporary French artists and leading couturiers of Paris. This group of French moderns has turned to the decorative arts and endowed us with a marvelous collection of designs for silk prints known as "Impressions Decoratives." And in turn, the couturiers have created a group of brilliant models expressive of each design and the particular flair of each designer.

The prints—all of which show the French understanding of piquante and delicate modernism, form perhaps the finest collection of group of truly artistic patterns that it has ever been our good fortune to receive in one season. And much of the popularity of silk prints is credited to the work of this group.

The Secret of Many a Small Foot
Optical illusion, you may call it—but continuity of color effect in hose and shoes does tend to give a longer effect to the foot, while a sharp contrast in color between shoe and stocking gives the impression of a smaller shoe!

Who sees a soul in such a body set
Might love the treasure for the cabinet.
Ben Jonson.

One should never need to say "Exercise!" to women in the outdoor season. After long winter days with little athletic activity except for those fortunate who are able to "go in" for winter sports, most women are weary and bored with activity, and with the enervating, stagnant air of many overheated houses. They long to be out of doors once more, breathing in the fresh, fragrant air and moving with free joyousness to rid their bodies of the torpidity and laxness which they seem to have acquired during the winter.

Still, some women need to be reminded—the women whose spring duties, house-cleaning and clothes problems, etc., take up so much interest and time. To those women, then, I say "Exercise!" Forget your home cares or, if you are a business person, your office, for a part of each day, or a day in each week. Get out into the country and walk, with your friends, with your husband or children. Walk and breathe deeply and enjoy the outdoor freshness all about you!

If you are a golfer, play golf. If your game is tennis, play tennis. Begin it early and get ahead of the others who are waiting for mid-summer to come. The courts are prepared now and the time is ripe to begin.

But if you are one who does not care for tennis or golf, and who does not wish to be out of doors—do go out and work in your garden! Health and beauty await you early and late in the garden, before the flowers have even begun to think of blooming and up until the time they taste the first frost of fall. The work you can do there—if you do not overdo it—will be well invested, since it brings double returns for beauty.

For the women who have no gardens there are still other exercises. Indoor setting-up exercises are always good, but at this season they should be taken out of doors. Fresh air is quite as important as the exercise which accompanies it.

And if you do not care for plain, unadorned gymnastics, you can "skip rope." This is the finest of all exercises for improving the lines of the body and for building general beauty. An indefinable charm radiates from the healthy active body—vibrant with the joy of "just living" which follows as a result of constant exercise.
