"SATURDAY'S CHILDREN" HAS COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE IN PLOT

Interesting glimpses of New York life among the working classes for the "atmosphere" of Corinne Griffith's First National picture, "Saturday's Children," by Maxwell Anderson, co-author of "What Price Glory," which is promised as the attraction at the McDonald in Eugene, starting today. Miss Griffith has the role of a stenographer in a big business concern and there are several office and shipping room scenes, shots of Fifth avenue as seen from the top of a bus, interiors of a typical Harlem flat and a cheap boarding house, and views of Central Park on Sunday with a band concert in full blast. The comedy and drama of every day life with its economic and domestic problems are realistically portrayed and the plot furnishes considerable food for thought on the subject of companionate marriage. Miss Griffith is surrounded by an exceptionally good cast, including Grant Withers, Charles Lane, Anne Schaeffer, Albert Conti, Marcia Harris, Alma Tell and Lucien Littlefield.

One of the finest all-star casts ever assembled for a feature motion picture is to be seen in the First National-Vitaphone production of "The Squall," which comes to the McDonald theatre on Sunday.

The principal roles in this screen version of Jaan Part's sensational and daring stage play are played by Joyce as the mother, Richard Tucker as the father, Myrna Loy as Nubi the seductive gipsy maid, Loretta Young, Carrol Nye, Nicholas Soussanin, as the fierce gipsy leader, Knute Erickson, Harry Cording, Zazu Pitts as the whimsical servant girl, Marcia Harris as the destructive gossip, George Hackathorne as the silly, whimpering nephew, and numerous others in lesser roles.

Thousands of Women never bother about going to so-called "special sales" because ... it is often inconvenient to leave their work at the advertised hour.
... the "special bargains" are often the wrong shade or size.
... they can buy what they want exactly when they want it in our store without fighting "bargain crowds."
... experience has taught them that our everyday low prices are as low, and often lower, than so-called "sale prices."
