There is danger in delay;
Come, come gather then the rose,
Gather it, or it you lose.

There are so many problems of the hair that it is difficult to begin even to classify them correctly. The first, and perhaps most prevalent, is dandruff. Dandruff, contrary to current opinion, is not an exaggerated condition of dry scalp. Dandruff is an actual germ disease which has become tremendously widespread since women frequent barber shops as they do. And it is a disease that must be checked promptly is one is to preserve the health and beauty of the hair.

The most sanitary methods in the world does not seem capable of preventing the spread of dandruff. Fortunately, it is sufficiently disagreeable to manifest itself at once, and the only remedy for it is to attack the cause, the tiny long-lived germs which prosper and multiply as rapidly.

There are two kinds of dandruff—one, the dry dandruff (Sicca) and the other—far more virulent and difficult to check—oily dandruff (Oleosa), where the glands emit an abnormal amount of oil. This condition reveals a red, irritated scalp.

In treating oily dandruff, frequent shampoos are advisable. A medicated scalp food will serve to nourish the weakened hair roots and restore normal, healthful activity to the glands.

After this, the actual dandruff corrective may be applied, left on over night, and the hair shampooed the following day.

Dry dandruff may be treated in exactly the same way, except that a weekly shampoo will be adequate. It is important to remember that dandruff lotions must be medicated. Alcohol, which is very often a base used in inferior correctives, will not aid the condition.

Next on the list of hair problems is excessive oiliness, another highly unpleasant condition, and here is a simple home treatment which I am sure will find very effective:

Separate strands of hair into parts and brush common salt into them. Go over the whole head carefully, shaking the salt into the uncovered scalp, and follow with a good herbal shampoo. Be sure to wash the hair and scalp very thoroughly, using several rinse waters, or better still, a good rubber spray, and lather two or three times. Hot oil treatments are excellent, but be careful not to have the oil too hot for comfortable application. Very hot oil has been the cause of much hair trouble.

Falling hair can best be corrected through scalp food and scalp stimulation.

COMMUNICATION

We are being held up on the new bridge by fears that the proposed fill for the west approach would increase the flood waters over the adjacent bottoms.

The engineers, who have studied the matter claim it will not materially increase the high water, and not at all a few feet from the fill. On the other hand we have those who fear that it would, with all their voluminous evidence they did not prove it to the court. The judge could not tell from the evidence what might be the effect. He did not "Choose to speculate." It is true that the state did not submit sufficient technical evidence, nevertheless the question stands out clearly in two opposing elements: Education, trained minds, experience and skill against doubts, fears, prejudice and ignorance. Which would be our safest guide?

The fall of the watershed in West Springfield is less than 2 inches per 100 feet, and water will not rush through brush, fences around buildings, and much other debris on this grade from a few inches to a foot or so a second. Obstructions in slow flowing water creates but little disturbance. The water flows rapidly around with the void below. Is it not a little disconcerting to note the objects to the bridge fill going ahead building, more buildings forming without objection or protest, yet deny the whole State of Oregon the same privilege. It seems to me that it is illustrative of blind selfishness that we should not permit to lead us any further.

REGINALD DENNY IN "HIS LUCKY DAY" AT McDONALD THEATRE

Reginald Denny, the popular screen comedian, is being seen and heard at the McDonald Theatre, where his latest talking screen production, "His Lucky Day," is now showing.

The picture is said to be the best ever made by this well-liked Universal star. Denny, with a logg stage training behind him, is proving to be an ideal talk-film star, and to his comedy gags and situations, he adds comedy lines, dialogues and inflections that make his new comedies veritable laugh riots.

"His Lucky Day" was directed by Eddie Cline, from an original story by John B. Clymer and Gladys Lehman. Pretty LoRayne DuVal, a newcomer in heroine roles, is the feminine appeal in this production. She is very attractive and has a pleasing voice.

One of the most perfect demonstrations of the Vitaphone ever shown on the screen is "Stark Mad," the remarkable all-talking picture which not only is completely told in dialogue but which includes all the weird sounds encountered in the mysterious Carracas jungles of Central America, which furnishes the locale for the story. The doleful baying of bloodhounds is heard throughout the picture, and the maniacal laughter of a madman at large in the forest.

In no other picture ever made have the possibilities of the Vitaphone been utilized more completely or more successfully, and "Stark Mad" is said to constitute a veritable triumph of the talking picture.

The all-star cast assembled for this great production includes H. B. Warner, Louise Fazenda, Jacqueline Logan, Henry B. Walthall, Lionel Belmore, Claude Gillingwater, Andre Beranger, John Miljan and Warner Richmond, and was directed by Lloyd Bacon. The original story by Jerome Kingstons was the basis of the scenario written by Harvey Gates.

"Stark Mad," Warner Bros.' latest 100 per cent all-talking picture, comes next Sunday for four days to the McDonald Theatre.

Mr. Barnell also emphasized the fact that electric rates are now much lower for those who have ranges on their meters.
