SUNSET TRAIL PAGEANT SHAPING INTO MONSTER WESTERN PERFORMANCE

Eugene, Oregon, July 18 (Special) —The Sunset Trail Pageant, to be staged on Hayward field July 25, 26 and 27, will be the most elaborate outdoor performance ever seen in Oregon. It is declared by those who have seen early rehearsals of the huge show. A cast of 1500 is now working nightly on the event, which will depict the development of the Oregon country from the early, almost pre-historic Maya days, on through the present to a vision of the future.

One of the outstanding features of the event will be the huge stage itself, which will be 240 feet long and 80 feet deep. It represents a scene in a forest in Oregon, with tall mountains in the background. It rears over 35 feet in the air, and will give the appearance of a whole mountain side covered with majestic fir trees. In one of the most impressive scenes two large trees will be felled, with real lumberjacks swinging axes and handling saws.

The pageant will be offered each evening, and starting promptly at 8:20, will last for an even two hours without a break. Seating capacity of 10,000 each night has been arranged for, and indications are that almost capacity crowds will be present each evening. The event is to be fully covered by the press of the state, as a special "press box" to hold 50 news-writers each evening, has been constructed in the center of the huge stand.

Outstanding dramatic and musical talent of the state has been drawn on for the pageant. Mrs. Doris Smith, of Portland Rosaria fame, will direct the performance; John Stark Evans, professor of music at the University of Oregon, will have charge of the chorus; Mrs. Mildred LeCompte Moore will direct dancing, while in the cast will be Marshall NDana, associate editor of the Oregon Journal, who will have the leading role of pioneer; Nancy Thielken, noted mezzo soprano, will sing as "Squaw," and Sidney Dixon, popular radio tenor from station KJR of the National Broadcasting company of Seattle.

Entries from all over the State are pouring in for the Pioneer and industrial parades, the former to be held Friday and the latter Saturday.

The air circus is already assured of at least 50 planes present to participate in races, stunts and other features. This will be an event on Friday and Saturday afternoons.
