THE WORLD SERIES

Again we are confronted with the phenomena of the World Series. No game ever before has held the undivided attention of an entire nation for so long a period. From 1884, when Providence won laurels as the World Series winner, right up to 1928, when the crown went to New York, interest has been intense in every corner of the land. And now everyone is asking: What team will bring home the bacon in 1929? Philadelphia? Chicago?

Since the inauguration of the World Series, many things have happened to captivate the fancy of a curious world. Radio, the modern miracle. The development of aviation. The epic-making flight of Lindbergh and the astounding feat of the Graf Zeppelin. The growth of the motion picture and the invention of the "talkies."

There are a thousand more things to do than there were in the old days. And so perhaps many of the old diversions are being forgotten. But one thing has an eternal charm. Baseball will never lose its place in the affections of the multitude. The World Series of 1929 is looked forward to as eagerly as was the World Series of 1909. Other things may change—but the heart of the American is still the heart of a boy who knows that one of the most important things in the world is to keep right on playing.

No, Sir! Nothing's going to distract us from the World Series!

MAN—DON'T SHOOT

Rain has been falling and the deer season is opening. Every year in this county one or more persons have been shot for a deer. In practically every case the shooting has been due to carelessness. Deer hunters are supposed to look and see if the animal has horns—why not look and see if he has two legs and walks upright.

This shooting promiscuously into the brush at every movement never has killed any deer but has ended the lives of many men. If it keeps on deer hunting will be curtailed by law. The hunters owe it to themselves and to the fellow hunters to be careful, and if they feel that they are nervous and will shoot every time a chipmunk makes a noise in the brush, they had better stay home and put in the winter's wood for exercise.

A creek near Cottage Grove which has been dry in summer for years has suddenly begun to flow even before the previous rains. The only change in the terrain in the vicinity has been the building of a golf course. Does that mean it has become wet territory or that tears are being shed over the kind of shots being made on the course?

Crops for the most part have been normal or better in this part of the Willamette Valley. With the harvest this fall should come more prosperous conditions for winter and spring. Taking everything into consideration, the Willamette Valley is just a little better place to live in than most parts of the world.

Prisoners in the Allentown, Pa., jail are so fond of prunes that the authorities threaten to remove this fruit from the bill of fare. The jail birds were caught making liquor from prune juice.

A Chicago man is praising the service of a New York hotel at which he recently stopped. Sending his pants to be pressed the valet returned with them a $10 bill in one of the pockets.

Springfield has not made any boast recently about a great growth in population. Yet our school enrollment increase shows a much greater percentage than most of the boasting cities. That should be evidence that we are gaining and compare favorably with the other communities.

Tom Kelly, an eccentric Chicagoan who died recently, left his $2,400 diamond ring to his two nieces. His will stipulated that the two ladies must shoot craps for the ring, which will be done as soon as one of them recovers from an illness.

What looks dangerous may prove otherwise, and vice versa. After crossing the Atlantic seven times in a submarine during the war, Dennis Bradley, of Wilmington, Del., was drowned while trying to swim a small creek.

Myrtle Lambert, a New Jersey girl, has been disowned by her father because of her persistent habit of riding freight trains. He said: "I have knocked her cold several times, but I can't knock this foolishness out of her."

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH THE LUMBER INDUSTRY OF OREGON?

(Siuslaw Oar)

Since the log rafting industry has started here on the Siuslaw and the timber product of this section is being sent to Gray's Harbor to be cut up, several newspapers have been asking the question, "What is the matter with Oregon mills?"

The question is a good one. What is the matter with the mill here at Florence which has been idle for fifteen years? This mill is owned by the same company which owns 30,000 acres of fine Douglas fir on the Siuslaw. It is well equipped and has a capacity of 150,000 each shift.

What is the matter with the mill at Cushman, capacity 60,000 daily, which closed down for lack of logs when there were upwards of 4,000,000 feet of fine logs in the Siuslaw river? These logs are now going out in rafts to Grays Harbor. They are said to have been sold for $11.00 per thousand at the boom.

What is the matter with all the large timber owners on the Siuslaw? It is not known, at least locally, that any of them are making any attempt to market their timber, although the general verdict of well-posted loggers is that the timber is ripe and should be cut now.

There are no resident sawmill men who have capital to operate a mill of any capacity. Our people are simply hand-tied so far as doing anything to open the great forest reserve to the world in the shape of lumber.

Shipping out logs in rafts may start up the logging industry. The milling will be done in another state. Oregon loses this part of the payroll. We must be satisfied, it seems, with the crumbs which will fall to us in return for producing and preparing the logs for somebody else's mill.

That the attention of other newspapers has finally been attracted to these conditions may stimulate some interest among Oregon capitalists. If they have no concern there's nothing left to be done but turn our timber product in the raw over to the more enterprising state of Washington. Will we or won't we?

GET PROPAGANDISTS!

(Oregon Labor Press)

President Hoover has called for and is going to get an investigation of "big navy" propaganda, if, as and when inspired by corporations that build ships.

That is as it should be. We do not want the question of national defense decided on a basis of partisan views furnished by financially interested persons.

There can not be too much vigor in the suppression of vicious propaganda which makes national defense a source of profit to private corporations which seek to exploit the state that charters them.

But while the investigating is going on, why not add another field. Why not dig into the business of those organizations which urge no navy, or a very tiny navy and which are related in one way or another to foreign and sometimes hostile interests? How many little navy and pacifist organizations tied by one string or another to the soviet propaganda machine are there? And what others are there?

Would it not be well to clear the whole field of paid propaganda and leave the arena entirely free to those who speak out of unpaid conviction for the good of America?

REBEKAH LODGE PLANS MORE PENNY SUPPERS

Plans for the penny cafeteria to be held at the I. O. O. F. hall tomorrow night have been completed and the local Rebekah Springfield lodge announces that they will sponsor a penny cafeteria every month during the winter and early spring months.

The ladies assure everyone of a good meal at a reasonable price and invite all to attend the supper, which is scheduled to commence promptly at 6:00 p. m. Friday evening.

OBSIDIANS INITIATE; PREPARE FOR WINTER

H. E. Maxey was one of the party of Obsidians who spent the week-end at their cabins above Lost Creek ranch, initiating a group of people into membership in the organization.

The candidates were given instructions in mountain climbing, trail blazing, following a trail, the proper method of finding a trail after it has been lost, the various kind of trails that are being used, the proper equipment for overnight hikes and for longer trips, care for injured people while on the trail and many other vital things which often arise to stare one in the face when alone or in a small crowd far from the beaten highways.

Some time was spent in cleaning up the cabin sites, in gathering up a stock of fuel for the winter outings, and in the construction of foundations for winter sports which will begin shortly after the first fall of heavy snow.
