NATION CELEBRATES LIGHT'S GOLDEN JUBILEE

Much interest is being shown in the nationwide observance of the 50th anniversary of the first electric lamp during October. Light's Golden Jubilee, which is a marvelous tribute to that great American benefactor, Thomas A. Edison, is in the hands of a general committee headed by President Hoover, and including nationally prominent figures from every line of endeavor.

The sponsor of Light's Golden Jubilee have the united support of the electrical industry of the world, an industry that is privileged to bring the comfort of electricity into more than 19,999,999 homes. Henry Ford, who terms Light's Golden Jubilee "The Greatest Opportunity of the year for all of us," will contribute mightily to the success. Community, business and civic organizations throughout the land, showing the spirit of a universal tribute in which every wide-awake organization or city should have a part, are planning Edison meetings or community festivals.

This celebration on the fiftieth anniversary of the invention of his incandescent lamp, gives all people an opportunity to participate in expressions of appreciation of the benefits that have been derived from his many inventions and applications of scientific research and development.

There is hardly any modern invention that does not owe its usefulness to Edison's genius. The telephone, wireless telegraphy, the motion pictures, the dictaphone, the radio, the phonograph, the dynamo for the distribution of light, power and heat, and the multiplex telegraph—all these and many more of the inventions that contribute to our comfort, our convenience, our pleasure, and our general well-being, were either developed by Edison or were made practical by the application of his inventions and discoveries.

LARGE MULE DEER BROUGHT TO CITY

A mule deer, weighing over 300 pounds, was brought to Springfield Monday by William Rodenbough and Archie Davis, who had been on a five day hunting trip in Eastern Oregon. The deer was killed by Mr. Rodenbough in a canyon near Unity. The men stated that it required two days to bring the carcass out of the canyon to the trail before they could begin the homeward trip; Davis also bagged a mule deer while on the trip. His was somewhat smaller than that bagged by Mr. Rodenbough. Mr. Rodenbough is having the head of his deer mounted so that he can show it to his friends.

The men both declared that the deer were plentiful in Eastern Oregon this year. The said that they saw fifty which they could have shot and at least that many more which they jumped before seeing. The men both plan to return to the Eastern part of the state next year for the hunting season.

MISSING BOY'S FATHER WELL KNOWN IN CITY

The father of Billy Tuffs, 7, missing Grants Pass boy, was well known to old timers here in Springfield. The boy's grandfather was formerly mill superintendent here, and his father grew up in this community.

Billy is the son of Max Tuffs, a merchant in a small town near Grants Pass. He has been missing since last Sunday evening, when he was last reported seen riding in an automobile in company with a man and a woman. No demands have been made for money, and the boy's father thinks that relatives of the boy have decoyed him away from him. His mother is said to have been in Portland when the child disappeared.
