SPRINGFIELD INVITES THE COUNTY

The Springfield chamber of Commerce has sent out a call for a meeting of delegates from other chambers, service clubs, grange and farmers' union here Friday, November 1, to take action on the dedication of the new bridge.

While Springfield might have gone ahead and staged a celebration at the dedication similar to the airport dedication, it is felt that this bridge belongs to the people of Lane county and the state, even if it is at this city's front door. The plan is to give the representative organizations of the people a voice in arranging the program. It will be their bridge dedication to make of it what they will.

MCKENZIE HIGHWAY BRINGS SETTLERS

A local real estate dealer reports that he made seven sales in the last few months to people who entered the Willamette valley via the McKenzie pass. They were sold on Western Oregon when they got as far as Springfield. The importance of having the McKenzie highway oiled and in good condition means more to us than we realize. Tourists that have come from north or south and want to settle in Oregon are usually located before they get as far as the head of the Willamette valley, but those who come via the sage brush are greatly impressed by the emerald country.

San Mateo county, California, shipped seven million dollars' worth of flowers to all parts of the United States this year. That's a thought for Oregon. There are some kinds of very beautiful and popular flowers grown here that might be developed into a great industry.

Have you a reputation as a fast and reckless driver? If so it will be difficult you to clear yourself when misfortune overtakes you in the form of an automobile accident. That's something to think about.

Ishbel MacDonald daughter of the visiting premier from England, came over to this country to see a baseball game and a movie show, so she says.

Next deer season we advise the game commission to equip all the bucks with red hats so the hunters will be sure to shoot at them.

The chain stores are not putting as many merchants out of business as the people to whom the friendly merchant gives credit.

They should keep the smart Mr. Shearer in Wall street to look after the lambs.

Pantages and Fall are found guilty—money does not always thwart justice in this country.

Since Lindbergh is married he has a hard time keeping on the front page.

Now that the world series is over the baseball fans can get back to work.

WISE RULES

The New York State Conservation Department has made eleven wise rules for the prevention of hunting accidents.

As men take to the field and wood, these rules deserve wide circulation. They are sensible. All hunters, in every part of the country, would do well to follow them. We print them herewith.

"Never carry loaded guns in automobiles or other vehicles.

"When afield hunting birds, keep abreast of and know the exact location of your companion.

"In loading never point a gun in the direction of your companion.

"In climbing over stone walls and fences, first break or unload your gun.

"A bird quartering to the right in the vicinity of your hunting companions should never be fired on by a hunter on the extreme left and vice versa.

"Never leave a loaded gun standing against a tree or lying on the ground where a dog may get at it.

"Always keep your gun pointed away from your companions when you stop to talk.

"In handing a gun to a person for inspection, be sure it is unloaded.

"Never shoot in the direction of your companions because you consider yourself a good marksman. You are taking a dangerous chance.

"Carry a gun pointed down to the left. If you shoot lefthanded walk at the extreme right of the party.

"At all times be careful."

Two preachers who criticised a Los Angeles court were fined for contempt. Examination of them by the court revealed that they had not the slightest proof for their assertion about the case being tried in court. Occupying a pulpit does not excuse one from contempt—justice demands a court and jury be free from false criticism during the progress of a trial. A preacher in his pulpit should be as accountable as an editor at his desk when he discusses the conduct of a court.

After ten years in Russian soil eighty-six bodies of American soldiers, who participated in the Archangel campaign, are in their way home to a final resting place—grim evidence that there was once a world war.

A senator would pass a law punishing the buyer as well as the seller of moonshine. Seems to us if he drinks it that is punishment enough.

CIGARETTE-CANDY WAR ENDS

Business has watched with interest the lively skirmish between the makers of Lucky Strike cigarettes and the candy industry. It has been a war of words to be sure, but still a costly war, for words printed on advertising pages of magazines and newspapers are expensive.

But has the cost been so great after all? The Department of Commerce tells us that the sales of candy went up 3.32 per cent in the first half of 1929 as compared with the first half of 1928, and that the nation's estimated candy bill of 1928—more than $340,000,000—will be exceeded in the current year. The consumption—perhaps we should say the inhalation—of cigarettes continues to grow. In July, 1928, the country collected taxes on 9,700,000,000 small cigarettes, and in July, 1929, on 10,700,000,000.

On the figures the advertising battle has been won by both sides.

But it is significant perhaps that the public is no longer being told to "reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet." The advertising of that cigarette no longer intimates that the products of a rival industry are harmful.

It is fair to guess that the candy industry welcomes a quiet. No business likes to have millions of people told every day to avoid the goods it sells.—Nation's Business.

REST-HAVEN PARK DEVELOPMENT WORK BEING COMPLETED

Many Springfield people have invested in sections in Rest-Haven Memorial park, south of Eugene, and will be interested to know that the entire system of roadways, approximately a mile and a half in length, encircling the first two areas of the park to be developed, are now graded, graveled and surfaced. The landscaping and seeding of "Sunrise" area is practically completed.

The disposal of the available tracts in the park which are now in the first or investment stage, has been progressing very favorably, according to Charles Wiper, manager of the park. The first unit was sold out in September at $100 for each section. The second unit was then put on the market at $110 per section and it is expected that this entire section will be sold out by the end of the week. The third unit of the park will then be put on the market at $115 per section.
