P. T. A. Council Postpones Meeting

Monthly Meeting Featured by Many Interesting Events Last Friday

The meeting of the P. T. A. District Council of Lane county, which was to have been held at Springfield on Saturday of this week, has been postponed until some later date, probably some time towards the end of the month, according to Mrs. R. P. Mortensen, president of the local organization. The change in dates was made in order to make it possible to have Mrs. Charles E. Roe, national field secretary of the P. T. A., and Mrs. Brice, state president for Oregon, present at the meeting.

There are now approximately fifty fully paid members of the local group, according to an announcement made Friday at the meeting of the P. T. A. at the Brattain school. A contest for new members has been participated in by the pupils of the three schools, and the first prize of five dollars was awarded to the Brattain school. The second prize of three dollars was awarded to the Lincoln school, and the high school was given the third prize of two dollars.

Cigarettes Discussed
Mrs. Allen Basford's class entertained the members at the meeting with a Hiawatha program, which consisted of music, pictures and recitations. The fifth grade gave a Francis Willard program, and Principal Wood made a talk on "Cigarettes." He declared that there were many violations of the state cigarette law being permitted in Oregon.

Mrs. Walter Laxton was elected vice-president to fill the vacancy caused by the removal from the city of Mrs. Lum Anderson. Mrs. Anderson is now residing on a farm outside of Springfield.

The matter of play apparatus for the Brattain school was taken up and discussed, but no action taken. The piano at the library will be moved to the Brattain school soon.

Lengthy discussions as to the manner of entertaining the county meeting here took up so much of the time that the delegates to the state convention were unable to present their reports. They will be given at a later meeting. The delegates were Mrs. R. P. Mortensen and Mrs. George Prochnow.

STUDY DAIRY INDUSTRY IN LANE COUNTY TO DETERMINE COSTS

H. E. Selby, farm management investigator of the Oregon experiment station, and an assistant are in Lane county this week taking the first records in a cost and economic study of the dairy industry in the county. County agent O. S. Fletcher is assisting the experiment station workers in selecting about forty dairymen who will cooperate in the work.

The work in Lane county will be part of a statewide study of the dairy industry, the most important farm enterprise in Oregon, with the possible exception of wheat raising. The investigation will be one of the most comprehensive cost studies ever made. It is planned to obtain reports from about 500 farmers each year, distributed approximately 200 in the Willamette valley, 100 in the coast regions, and 100 in Eastern Oregon.

Objective Stated

Objectives of the study as set forth in the project outline are to determine (1) costs of producing dairy products in the different regions and for various types of dairy herds, (2) means of reducing costs so that increasing competition can be met successfully (3) regions of the state where dairying can be encouraged on the basis of comparative costs, prices, markets, etc., (4) types of dairy farming that are most profitable and factors in the internal organization of a dairy farm that are most important, (5) the economic place of dairying in Oregon agriculture.

The work will be carried on entirely with federal funds that are made available by the Purnell act for use in this state.

All information obtained from the dairymen will be kept strictly confidential, no individual figures being published or divulged.

Information Confidential

The dairymen who cooperate in this work, however, will receive for each year individual summaries of the reports for their own farms as well as summaries of the averages for all farms covered by the study. They will also receive the complete report that will be published when the project is completed.

GALAXY OF STARS AT NEW McDONALD SHOWS

With a complete background of the legitimate stage, "His Glorious Night," which opened at the McDonald yesterday as a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer dialogue feature, starring John Gilbert, presents an interesting study in personalities.

To begin with, the story comes from the pen of one of Europe's most prolific playwrights, Ferenc Molnar, whose sophisticated writings have made him an international figure in the theatre world. "His Glorious Hour" is a screen adaptation of his famous play "Olympia." Then there is Willard Mack, noted New York playwright, actor, producer and director, whose splendid adaptation of the play, adding a modern touch to the lines, greatly enhances the value of the comedy-drama in entertainment values.

Katherine Dale Owen plays opposite Gilbert in the new feature and the supporting cast includes Nance O'Neil, Hedda Hopper, Doris Hill, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Richard Carle and Tyrell Davis.

With the greatest cast of stars that ever contributed to the making of one motion picture, "The Hollywood Revue," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's huge musical extravaganza, comes Sunday to the McDonald. Stars of the stage and screen stars of vaudeville, opera and radio stars, to say nothing of the large dancing chorus of beautiful girls, are features of this entertainment.

Marion Davis gives one of her famous male squerades, assisted by a chorus of six-footers, and she sings and tap dances.

John Gilbert and Norma Shearer give a version of "Romeo and Juliet." Conrad Nagle makes his debut as a singer.

Beasie Love gives generously of her talents.

Joan Crawford ravishes the eye and sings a crooning melody.

William Haines and Gwen Lee are there with one of the famous Haines gags, to which Karl Dane and George A. Arthur lend a few deft touches.

Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, two famous comedienne, do their stuff.

Charles King of "The Broadway Melody" fame, introduce new songs. "Ukelele Ike" is seen and heard in a new medium.

Natacha Nattova startles with new hair raising leaps and bounds.

The Albertina Rasch Ballet give some of their eye-filling dances.

The Bronx Sisters and others also take part in this spectacular show.

You owe it to Yourself to Know About Rest-Haven

THIS beautiful memorial park, which, when completed, will be one of the show places of Eugene and vicinity, is now in the "investment stage" of its development. Property in the Park is being sold only on an investment basis.

The re-sale of sites for actual use will begin some time in the early Spring. The re-sale operation will be conducted by the Rest-Haven Company, with no cost to the original purchasers. Under no conditions, however, will the property listed for re-sale be offered for less than double the original price.

Even at re-sale prices, sites in this modern Memorial Park will be far less than similar property in other cities.

The plan for the financing of the Park is no experiment. It has been used in the hundreds of Memorial Parks developed during the last ten years. In every case it has worked out to the entire satisfaction of the original investors, whose profit has ranged from 100 up to 300 per cent, in a period of from six months to two and a half years.
