

HOMECOMING BIG AFFAIR AT OREGON THIS WEEK

University of Oregon, Eugene Nov. 14—(Special). — Everywhere on the University of Oregon campus, students are preparing for what will prove to be the most auspicious home-coming celebration ever held in Eugene. Under the direction of a student directorate headed by Keith Hall, Marshfield, many sub-committees will use the coming week as the final opportunity for rounding up the minute details of the occasion, which occurs next Friday and Saturday, November 15 and 16. "Home to Honor Oregon" has again been accepted as the slogan for the home-coming event this year.

Large Group Expected

That the home-coming will bring to the university campus the largest crowd of alumni ever to assemble here for any one occasion has been verified by Jeannette Calkins, secretary of the alumni association, who estimates the total will reach 2000.

When the thousands of graduates pour into Eugene for the event, they will be greeted by symbols of welcome all over the campus. A huge arch with Neon signs will be placed at the entrance of the campus on Thirteenth street.

One of the most colorful of the numerous events scheduled for the week-end is to be the traditional rally and parade Friday night. James Raley, Pendleton, is in charge of the event. The famous noise parade of old is to be revived this year, when steam rollers, excavators, automobiles, trucks, horns, sirens, rattles and every piece of noise manufacturer imaginable will shoot its way down the line of march.

Dance Friday

Following the rally festivities in the downtown district, the Journalism Jamboree will be held in the Army under the direction of the students in the School of Journalism of the University.

The world's premiere of "Ed's Co-Ed," the campus movie, will be shown at the McDonald theatre at 11 p. m. at a midnight matinee.

CLARA BOW SEEN IN "THE SATURDAY NIGHT KID"

A splendid vehicle is provided for Clara Bow, the "It" girl in the picture, "The Saturday Night Kid"—her third all-talking production, which comes to the Fox McDonald Theatre for a three day run beginning today.

The play deals with the lives of the lads and lassies who earn their living at the big department stores of the metropolis. The "It" girl herself is "The Saturday Night Kid." It is a role that calls for a full range of the emotions. She rages, she pouts, she loves. She wears coy costumes and formal ones.

James Hall, who played opposite Miss Bow in "The Fleet's In," and Edna May Oliver, character actress of the New York stage, provide the leading support for the flaming haired Brooklyn actress.

The idea of making a picture with the legend of the Flood as its theme, is compelling and fascinating. The producers, looking about for a story which would enable them to make a picture that would have a tremendous popular appeal, were given a scenario by Darryl Francis Zanuck, entitled "Noah's Ark." In it they discerned possibilities for a magnificent, spectacular production. That was three years ago, ever since Warner Bros. have been at work on "Noah's Ark." On its first showing it was hailed as one of the most impressive pictures ever made. It comes to the Fox McDonald Sunday for four days.
