MEAT MARKET WINDOW HAS ATTRACTIVE DISPLAY

The windows of the Independent Meat Market on Main street are the cause of many glances this week. One of the display windows has a large dressed hog lying on the shelf. Three rows of red cranberries run down the back of the hog and an apple in the forehead and by either cheek of the animal makes one think of the old English Christmas feasts, so aptly described by Charles Dickens. The other window has several slabs of pork with the rind taken off, and the meat carved so as to make it look like huge chunks of fat, with a cranberry in each fold.

MRS. EMMA MAY STOWELL DIES FRIDAY AT ENGENE

Mrs. Emma May Stowell passed away at the Pacific Christian hospital in Eugene on Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. She was 62 years old at the time of her death and is survived by her husband, Ulysses Stowell, of this city; three sons, Howard Stowell, Wepaskiwin, Canada; Clarence Stowell, Donald, Canada; and John Stowell, Medford; one daughter Mrs. LaVerne Potananche, Ponoka, Canada, and 17 grandchildren.

REQUEST REGISTRATIONS FOR DRAMA TOURNAMENT

Plans are already being made at the University of Oregon for the fourth annual tournament in which the first ten high schools of the state which apply for entrance are invited to come to the campus with one-act plays and compete for the state championship. No play may be more than 35 minutes in length of performance. They are all held at the Guild theatre on the campus and are open to the general public.

Many more high schools applied for entrance in the tournament last year than could be accommodated, and it has been requested that registration of the high schools be made with Miss Mozelle Hair at the Extension division of the University not later than February 15.

Previous winners of places in the tournament have been Eugene, Milwaukee union high, Henley high in Klamath county, Roseburg high, and Jefferson high in Portland.

ENGINEERS STUDY FLOOD PROBLEMS AFTER RAINS

Very little damage was caused by the high water which flooded the country last week, and which tied up the traffic over the Pacific highway to Eugene for several hours when the river left its banks and crossed the pavement near Judkins point. Some cord wood, which was piled in low places floated away and some fences were damaged. The shoulders on the highway were loosened in a few places but were soon repaired. The flooding of the highway again near Judkins point brought several of the state engineers here for an investigation as to possible means of preventing future repetitions of the same thing. They are now considering raising the highway several feet and placing cross drains under the roadbed to drain the water on the south side of the road.

Santa Claus paid his yearly visit to Gray's store on Monday, where he met and talked with many of the boys and girls of Springfield about their Christmas wishes and desires. He was very particular to find out whether or not the boys and girls had been good during the past year. One small girl hastened to inform the old fellow that she had run away once during the past year, but that she was not going to do so again, and that she would be a good girl from now on.

After getting acquainted with the boys and girls, Santa Claus passed out a stick of candy to each.
