NEXT GOVERNOR IS UP TO YOU

The election of a Republican candidate for Governor tomorrow will see Governor Norblad, Harry Corbett and Charles Hall strong favorites over the field. In Springfield the battle will be between Norblad and Hall. Both men have campaigned, some here and both have strong followings.

Either of the three men would make good governors. Governor Norblad, being in office and conducting it aparently satisfactorily, is believed to have the edge. But an election, like a horse race, is never won until it is over.

Senator Ed Bailey and George Wilbur, of Hood River, will fight it out for the Democratic nomination. Bailey will carry his county by a large majority, and has a very good chance of the nomination.

The campaign has been carried on with little excitement, but that does not mean that there should be few votes. Everyone should vote, whether they have strong preference for certain candidates or not.

Earl Hill, of Cushman, is a Republican candidate for the legislature. Western Lane has not been represented in the legislature in the last 27 years. Mr. Hill is a successful merchant and a good roads booster. Among the three to be chosen one can make no mistake by voting for Mr. Hill.

If the money to be spent in building a tramway to Mount Hood was expended on roads to make the Three Sisters and Mount Jefferson more accessible to outdoor lovers, the state would be better off. Climbing mountains in a tram somehow is not in keeping with the western mountaineering conceptions.

California should be induced to open an automobile license bureau in Oregon. It is an inconvenience for so many of our people to have to go to California for a license. It takes out some of the profit also between the three dollar variety and our own. The next legislature should remedy this.

Affairs of state, and politics waited a few minutes while Governor Norblad marveled at the cream line on some of the Springfield Creamery's milk in a local meat market window. A good product always commands attention in Springfield as elsewhere, and from the highest as well as the lowliest.

Christian Cagle, famous army football player, seemed to have a queen up his sleeve that the war department did not know about. Refused a discharge from the army to coach football he played this pretty card and won. His marriage two years ago fooled even the intelligence department of the army.

A man left his wife and eleven children in New Hampshire to cope with a young woman pastor. We would say that this is a case of perversion instead of conversion.

Those who claim the world owes them a living should present an itemized bill of personal services rendered.

Watching some dancers we would say that there lots of unskilled laborers in this country.

A lot of candidates will know tomorrow just how much the people think of them.

People who complain about their home town are usually doing the least to improve it.

A drunken passenger tried to take the controls from a pilot in New York the other day, while the plane was 3,000 feet in the clouds. Booze sure gives confidence to some fellows. If it had been Oregon moonshine he would have been convinced he could fly without a plane.

Old age pension acts will be asked from the legislatures of Oregon and Washington by the Loyal Legions of Loggers and Lumbermen. If the mills do not run better than they have lately, these pensions will have to start early in life.

A hundred automobiles in 30 minutes passed Ninth and Main streets on Sunday evening. Joy riding shows no falling off despite rumors of hard times.

"Thugs kill bartender" says an Illinois headline. That is what we call butting into the prohibition agents' business.

Gliding is like coasting on a sled. Lots of fun going down, but hard work carrying back to the top of the hill.

The Way of Life by BRUCE BARTON

WHEN'S THE TIME TO MARRY?

I once did my very best to prevent a marriage. It was immediately after the war. The young man came out of the army without a job. He owed me some money, which was incidental. I would gladly have loaned him more to get a start in business, but when he asked for a loan to finance his marriage, I refused.

"You're crazy to get married now," I said. "There are enough difficulties in keeping a marriage happy without adding worries about money. You have not yet demonstrated that you can make a success of one life, yet you propose blithely to undertake the responsibility of two. Wait awhile till you have more judgment and some savings. Then you can start right."

Thus I spoke out of my aged wisdom; and he looked at me pityingly, and borrowed the money elsewhere, and was married at once.

Recently I visited his home. He has three children. He owns his house. He has a responsible position and money in the bank. All in all, it is as happy a family as one would want to know.

I have also visited in the home of a successful man of fifty. He did not rush into matrimony. Far from it. He accumulated money, and, carefully on his guard, he looked over the whole feminine sex for many years.

Thus insured with wealth and wisdom, he proceeded at the age of forty-seven to pick himself a foolish and empty-headed little girl. Already the marriage shows signs of strain; it surely cannot last.

Earnest articles are written about the necessity for making marriage difficult. Young people should be compelled to wait, they say, until they have funds and experience.

It seems a sound argument, and yet such restrictions would have prevented the marriage of Thomas Lincoln and the birth of Abraham. They would have kept penniless Hawthorne from contracting one of the finest marriages of literary history. They would probably have postponed, if not prevented, most of the happiest unions that have taken place since the beginning of the world.

So having been a watcher of weddings for many years, I find myself less impressed with the judgment of maturity and more confident of the impulses of youth.

For what is mature judgment, anyway, but the total of our disappointments and worries, our burned fingers and our fears?

Maturity has judgment which is the wisdom of age, but youth has instinct which is the wisdom of the ages.

BARNES CIRCUS COMING TO EUGENE, MAY 21

The Al. G. Barnes Circus is coming to Eugene on May 21.

Advertising agents representing Al. G. Barnes Circus have posted pictorial bills in this vicinity announcing the coming of this popular show. Advertisements will be found in our columns in this issue. The management of the circus announce the following new features:

Two gorgeous spectacles of Oriental magnificence entitled "Persia" and "The Pageant of Peking," in which approximately one thousand people take part.

Miss Mabel Stark, outstanding animal trainer of the world, will send ferocious jungle-bred tigers through thrilling routines in the steel arena.

Sensational aerial and acrobatic troupes have been imported from Europe, and the Gretonas in their high-wire act will be a revelation to patrons of the Al. G. Barnes Circus.

"Cherie" and her living models—thirty youthful girls from Hollywood—present graceful and artistic reproductions in white marble of world-famous masterpieces.

Miss Babe Letourneau, "queen of gymnasts," will thrill with her aerial specialty from the dizzy heights of the white top.

A special congress of clowns have been gathered from the four corners of the earth.

These are just a few of the many new and improved features with the Al. G. Barnes Circus for 1930.

Two performances are given daily at 2:00 and 8:00 p. m. The doors are open one hour early for the inspection of the biggest traveling zoo on earth and the signal wonders of the menagerie.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lax, dry evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at Flanery's Rexall Drug Store.
