ADVENTURE DRAMAS CAPTURE PUBLIC FANCY

Outdoor action dramas have captured the public taste. "The Virginian," Paramount's first outdoor romance with dialog, has set the country ago. Now Paramount has brought forward its second outdoor talking romance, "The Light of Western Stars," a Zane Grey story with Richard Arlen, Mary Brian and Harry Green. It will show at the Colonial theatre, starting Sunday for three days.

An up-and-coming cast, a great production, and a story that is brimful of fast melodramatic action interspersed with sure-fire comedy, and the whole knitted together with a strong romantic theme, has everything a moving picture should have for straight-from-the-shoulder, honest-to-goodness entertainment. "The Light of Western Stars" has all of these things, and, in addition, it is inspiringly spectacular, filmed on a big, imposing scale.

Zane Grey's stories are the outstanding tales of western life today. The novels have been read by millions and, in silent form, such pictures as "The Wanderer of the Wasteland," "The Call of the Canyon," "The Thundering Herd," and "The Vanishing American" were gems of the screen world. With dialog, Zane Grey is, without doubt, one of the greatest authors writing for the screen.

The newest thing to take the country by storm is the Radio Garden of Fans. Followers of Rudy Vallee are being called "Daffydils" by radio columnists. Those who place Will Osborn on the throne are termed "Weepin' Willows." Fans who adore Smith Halley are given the title of "Buttercups." "Lovers of Jan Garber's music are called by the nom-de-plume of "Cardenias."

Evidently the chap who named the Guy Lombardo fans, "Pansies" did not know that Lombardo's admirers are recruited mainly from the underworld of Chicago and New York.

If you think Ray O'Hara's languorous tunes are the height of something, then you're a "Shamrock." Folks who tune in on Neil Golden more often than others are termed "Goldenrods." And a "Cauliflower" is just another name for the cohorts of the inimitable Bernie Cummins.

If you're "that way" over the sappy strains of Ozile Nelson's band then you're nothing but a "Geranium." Those that adore the white-hot Bert Lown orchestra belong to the "Hollyhock" family.

And I know you—you're "Petunia" about Don Bigelow. Don't blame me, I didn't name them, I'm just telling you.

CIRCUIT COURT UPHOLDS WOOD STEALING VERDICT

You cannot always steal wood and get away with it even in this county where there is such an abundance of the natural fuel. Fred J. Parker of Eugene was recently tried in justice court and found guilty of stealing a cord of wood from Martin Neilson near Westfir. He appealed the decision to the circuit court last week which sustained the verdict of the lower tribunal.
