IN THE RADIO STUDIOS WITH ALBERT ZUGSMITH JR.

DID YOU KNOW—

That President Hoover has addressed the radio audience 22 times in the 14 months that he has headed the nation? Coolidge in his seven years of office broadcasted but 37 times while the present chief executive has sent his voice over the ether waves 45 times in the last five years.

That Harry Swan, WABC character actor, once broadcast a drama in which he took all eleven parts?

That Merle Johnstone, the Columbia system saxophone expert, maintains the female of the species learns to play the "blues horn" twice as fast as the male?

That the height of Henry Burbig's (CBS comedian extraordinary) ambition is to play "Hamlet" in Eskimo dialect?

That Ozzie Nelson's orchestra, which has been on the air only three months, is leading Rudy Vallee, Will Osborn and others of broadcasting fame in a popularity contest being run by a New York newspaper, by several thousand votes?

That those visiting a transmitting station are advised to check their watches at the door so that their timepieces don't get magnetized by the apparatus within. A magnetized watch is just as liable to gain a couple hours a day as it is to lose a few hours the next day.

That Amos of "Amos 'n' Andy," is now the proud father of a five-pound baby girl. Floyd Gibbons insists that it should be named "Kingfish."

That Rudy Vallee uses a glass megaphone when he broadcasts from his night club, so that his feminine admirers may see all of his face?

When the Prince of Wales decided to learn how to play the banjo, he commandeered the services of none other than Harry Reser, who leads the Colquhoun Club Eskimos on the NBC network.

That a farmer in Rhode Island with no previous technical experience built a twelve-tube receiver with which he has heard broadcasts from over 700 stations in 52 countries in all five continents? His six children are acquiring a foreign accent by mimicking announcers of far-away lands.

Believe it or not, but Bob Ripley receives over 1,000,000 fan letters a year. And the bottom has dropped out of the waste-paper market!

The smallest broadcasting station in the world, WPRC, has been carried in the left-hand of Ed Cohan, director of technical operations for the Columbia system, from Times Square to their studios on Madison Avenue. Its aerial is a hollow brass pipe, one inch in diameter and three feet long, which when carried in its bag looks much like a soldier's pack and rifle. Soon I guess, we'll be opening our wallets and talking out our personal broadcasting station to radio the wife that we'll be late for dinner tonight.

Old lady: If you really want work, Farmer Gray wants a right hand man. Tramp: Just my luck, lady, I'm left-handed.

Tilly, you were entertaining a man in the kitchen last night, were you not?
That's for him to say, ma'am. I did my best.

Film Producer: You now dash into the burning building, fling Miss Whatersname over your shoulder, clamber out with her through the roof, and then escape along the telegraph wires, still holding her.

Exhausted Actor: Here, dash it, I've just done that.
Producer: Of course you have. That was the rehearsal.
