

GOOD FISHING FOUND
ALONG UPPER MCKENZIE
BY LOCAL SPORTSMEN

Fishing on the upper McKenzie river is very good for this season of the year according to local anglers who have made trips there during the past few weeks. An example of the catches which are being made was exhibited at the Independent Meat Market the first of the week when 15 redsides caught at the mouth of the Blue river were displayed by three fishermen, George Cox, L. May and E. E. May.

The cool condition of most of the summer has caused the fish to feed more during the day than in the mornings and evenings as is usually true.

CHAMBER DELEGATES ARE INVITED TO CANAL MEET

An invitation to the Springfield Chamber of Commerce to send representatives to a meeting to be held at the Benton hotel at Corvallis on September 10, at 6:00 o'clock for the purpose of discussing further the canalization of the Willamette river was received here this week by Chamber officials. Senator Charles McNary will attend the meeting and will discuss the possibilities of bringing about large transportation on the Willamette river between Springfield and Portland.

At a meeting in Eugene last week, Senator McNary told the Eugene chamber of commerce committee that the canalization of the river was now possible if concerted action was taken by those people who would be benefited. He declared that he must have a large amount of factual material to use in Washington and that the various beneficiaries of the service must unite in their campaign to push such work if they expect it to be carried forward. The matter of determining possible tonnage for the river barges must be accurately handled and only actual facts be used in urging the work, otherwise the other solons at Washington will doubt the necessity of such work.

This Week
IN WASHINGTON
BY RADFORD MOBLEY
AUTOCASTER WASHINGTON BUREAU

(Special to Springfield News)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(Auto-caster)—A 4-H club's use is to help the young farm idea to sprout. It should never try to hold the older folks through its young members. They have their own agencies which have their own part in the far-flung scheme of state and federal extension systems.

This was the policy laid down a year ago by federal officials deeply interested in the proper development of the 4-H club. It isn't fair to the youngster and it isn't fair to his elders, to use him to reach them, it was said. How has this advice worked out when applied to the practical realities of advising farmers on crops, combatting the drought, increasing his poultry revenue, weeding out his stock?

The best answer, says George L. Conway, the department of agriculture expert who keeps his finger on the pulse of extension work in every state, lies in the demand for home economics and county agricultural agents.

In nearly every state in the Union, the director of extension work is going to add from one to six home economics experts; provide additional funds to enable state directors of 4-H club work to keep in constant contact with the work; and to put on new subject specialists.

A feature in the interest this year in marketing specialists. Two-thirds of the states are adding these men to give local advice as to how to take full advantage of the vast federal farm board program. The contact of these specialists with the boys and girls of the 4-H clubs is expected to furnish one of the best avenues to success in the farm board's plans.

Not only is the budget for this year in extension work more extensive as regards to allotment of federal funds, but every state is expected to increase its expenditure. So insistent has the demand become that a special $1,000,000 appropriation was asked of Congress and was granted just before the session ended. This brings the federal expenditure for the work to more than $4,000,000 for the fiscal year just beginning. With the state funds added, the total for the country will be far from $10,000,000.

Washington offers few contrasts for visitors which equal that between the dry-as-rust figures being ground out by the census bureau as a result of the enumeration just ended and the army of workers who do the grinding. There is nothing dry-as-dust about one of the long card-punching rooms in the bureau, for nearly every one of the 6,000 or so temporarily employees who do the routine work of compiling the figures is a flapper apparently a year or so short of college.

Because Director W. M. Stewart felt youth was a requisite for the alertness and speed needed, an age limit of 35 was set for these employees. As a result the age limit appears to have been 20. Hall after hall in the ugly temporary shacks of the bureau blossoms with rows of sprightly youngsters, most of them feminine. But for all their youth Director Stewart is highly pleased with the speed and accuracy thus far displayed.

meant destruction to many grain farmers, will be a boon to many others if, as is expected, it halts the advance of the borer. Only $125,000 remained of the corn-borer fund for use this year and it will be exhausted by the end of the year. Many moths of the borers died before coming out during the drought and others did not lay the usual number of eggs.

The army and the navy have been so bitterly engaged in a controversy over which branch of the service shall control coastal air defense that the President has been asked to intervene to settle the matter and Charles Lindbergh has been called in as youthful arbiter. The fight is of long standing, but was renewed recently when the army discovered that the navy has equipped planes for fighting as well as for scouting in Hawaii and Panama. The army has contended that its air forces shall do the fighting from land, and the navy has been permitted to have only scouting planes on a land base. The navy has replied that such a distinction is impossible, asking whether a navy plane must seek an army flyer when an enemy is found over land.

NO-HOST PICNIC IS HELD HERE FRIDAY

More than seventy people attended the annual no-host picnic and social gathering which is sponsored by the local residents and held Friday at Swimmer's Delight.

CLARA BOW COMES IN
"TRUE TO THE NAVY"

"Clara Bow personifies the joy of living, the exuberant spirit of youth, the vitality of radiant well-being, the exhilaration of clean, quick-thinking, flashing movement, and vivid beauty. In her, people find release from their worries; she is refreshing because she is natural in every part she plays."

That is the estimate of Clara Bow, whose newest starring romance, "True to the Navy," will open a two day run at the Colonial theatre Friday made by H. P. Schulberg, the first producer in Hollywood to sign her to a long-term contract. Schulberg is today general manager of West Coast production for the Paramount-Publix Corporation. When he Clara Bow, Fredric March in the Paramount Picture "True to the Navy" first discovered Clara Bow he was an independent film maker.

Many people, recognizing in Miss Bow the powers and capabilities of a great dramatic actress, have written Paramount executives protesting because Clara Bow isn't presented in dramatic roles.

To these questioners, Schulberg answers, "Because Clara Bow typifies youth and is youth itself, we feel that it would be an error to try to make of her a mature woman of the world. We attempted this very thing in 'Children of Divorce' and in 'Ladies of the Mob,' and were subjected to a barrage of complaints from Bow fans."

"On the other side of the ledger, we have records of 'It,' 'The Fleet's In,' 'The Wild Party,' 'Dangerous Curves,' 'The Saturday Night Kid,' and now her latest hit, 'True to the Navy.' Later, we will undoubtedly present Clara Bow in a diversified series of characterizations, but, for the present, as long as youth must be served, we will keep her pictures after a pattern of which 'True to the Navy' is representative."
