PORTLAND RATE LOWER THAN EUGENE

That Portland already enjoys lower electric rates than other communities in Oregon and there is no real reason why some self seeking politicians in the metropolis should make it an issue in this campaign is apparent from a report made by the Oregon public service commission.

The surprising part of the investigation made by the commission is that Portland's rate is lower than any of the municipal owned electric plants in Oregon, even Eugene.

Following is the figures relative to Portland and Eugene:

LIGHTING—30 KWH
Portland area	$1.65	Eugene, inside	$1.75
Portland, less taxes	1.43	Eugene, outside	1.93
LIGHTING—45 KWH
Portland	$2.48	Eugene, inside	$2.20
Portland, less taxes	2.14	Eugene, outside	2.42
LIGHTING AND RANGE—200 KWH
Portland	$5.19	Eugene, inside	$5.60
Portland, less taxes	4.48	Eugene, outside	6.16

ROADS

The newest thing in road construction is to build them of iron. The first iron highway of importance is under construction in Sangamon county, Ill., near Springfield. An iron trough is laid on the flattened highway surface, the corrugated sheets of the bottom of the roadway being welded to the iron curbing at either side. This trough is partly filled with a layer of sand mixed with a mastic binder, to form a cushion for the surface, which may be concrete, brick or some other paving material.

Road building in America is still a new art. Old methods useful in horse-and-wagon days are useless for motor roads. In time the ideal road will be discovered and used everywhere. Meantime, every new idea is worth trying out.

Phil Metschan, republican candidate for governor, has a plan to assist the lumber industry. He was in Washington, D. C., in behalf of the lumber tariff and is convinced the east and middle west does not understand the industry and its importance to this country. If elected Mr. Metschan proposes to call on the governors of all the lumber producing states to appoint a commission to wait on congress for further lumber protection and also to inform the eastern people as to its importance. This would be a constructive step toward putting lumber up among the other basic products of the country, and it is only through cooperation that it can be accomplished. Sixty per cent of our Oregon income is from lumber so it is to our interest to support a man who recognizes his duty toward lumber.

Oregon's football team looks like a winner this year. The way they smeared Drake at Soldiers field would give even a Chicago gunman a thrill.

The independent movement in the political campaign will likely result in the election of a governor by the minority. Popular government is always defeated by such a move. No matter who wins the majority of voters must be ruled by someone they do not want.

Autumn time and typical Oregon weather is here. An appreciation of our good weather is a topic on which we can all agree.

WHERE TO START

One morning a very unhappy young man lay-laid me outside my front door.

He is twenty-two years old, and an idealist. The men in the plant where he works use coarse language, their crudeness grates on him. Also, his job is dull.

"I read biographies," he said. "Great men have all had an aim. I seem to be headed nowhere. I haven't found myself."

Readers, what would you have said to that boy?

I said that most of the men whom we read about in biographies did not have any great purpose. A few, such as musicians and painters, had a talent that could not be mistaken. The great majority, of whom Lincoln is the classic example, were just as discouraged in youth as my young friend. They did not know where they were going, but did not quit. They simply plugged ahead and, usually to their own surprise, won out.

I said, in the second place, that all men are crude and all men are wonderful. The pure saint has secrets in his heart that make him blush, the worst man has moments of splendor.

Man is the noblest of all creatures, and the most tragic—a little higher than the animals, a little lower than the angels. With all his crudeness, he does his work, sacrifices for his young, and face blind fate with courage.

"Don't criticize men or judge them," I said to the lad. "Like them. Sympathize with them. Laugh with them. God will do the judging."

Finally I said that, while it might do the younger man good to change his job, I doubted whether it would. He is in a fast-growing industry which has made fortunes and will make many others.

I told him about a friend of mine who was driving through the Kentucky mountains. Wanting to get to Cincinnati for the night, he asked directions of a native.

"Go down this road about ten miles, and take your right turn," the native began. Then he stopped, and spat. "No, I think you'd do better to go the other way and take your first left." He spat again, thought deeply, and then, in a sudden burst of confidence, exclaimed: "Tell you what, neighbor. If I was aiming to go to Cincinnati I wouldn't start from here."

Most of us want to arrive, but we'd like to start from somewhere else. Maybe I'm wrong, but I have come to the conclusion that it doesn't make much difference where one starts, that all businesses are good and all are bad, all are dull and all are thrilling.

And that the important thing about getting somewhere is not studying maps or wondering about other roads. But starting, right here, where we are.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the large, dry evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at Flanery's Rexall Drug Store.

STREET LIGHT BROKEN IN ACCIDENT ON MONDAY

The ornamental street light post at the corner of Fourth and Main streets was completely broken off at the base at 7:30 Monday morning when Edward P. Severson drove his light Ford roadster into the pole while trying to pass the truck being driven by Pratt Holverson. When making out their reports of the accident Mr. Holverson admitted that he was turning into Fourth street from Main without giving any signal, and Mr. Severson likewise admitted that he was attempting to pass the truck in the intersection. The truck was not damaged, but the front of the Ford was damaged.

The light poles in this city belong to the Mountain States Power company and the two men will have to deal with them in replacing the broken one.
