

Airport to Offer Children's Day

Special Ride Rates Effective for Children and Teachers at the Municipal Field.

Saturday and Sunday of this week will be children's day at the Springfield airport according to Lee Inman, manager, who is planning special events for these two days to celebrate the completion of the new modern gasoline filling station at the airport and the graveling of the runways there.

Special rate of $1.00 will be offered to all school children and teachers for rides on these two days only. This will be the flat rate for all children regardless of weight, he says.

As a special inducement to motorists to visit the field to get acquainted with the new service station, which is in reality a civic enterprise, they are going to sell five gallons of gasoline for $1.10, according to Mr. Inman.

Many things have been happening at the municipal airport during the past few weeks, and those who have often wondered just what is being done on there with the funds voted for the improvement of the airport at the time of the school election last spring should drive out to the field and they would be convinced that the administration committee is actually doing things, and that they are doing them as economically as is expedient.

Some of the work included is the completion of the filling station with a modern filling pit for the use of airplanes; the graveling of two runways, the entrances to the service station and the runway to the filling pit, most of which is now completed; and the moving of the administration building to the edge of the field adjoining the highway. This will be painted next week by the oil company it has been announced.

BAPTIST GROUP SEEKS CLOTHING FOR INDIANS

Members of the Baptist Missionary society decided at their meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. D. Horton to gather clothing and other useful articles for distribution among the Navajo Indians of Arizona this winter. It was pointed out that the sale of rugs by this tribe has fallen off to such an extent that they are now unable to support themselves.

Mrs. Frances Zachery was appointed chairman of a committee to gather clothing and she asks anyone having things to contribute to leave them at the Baptist church or bring them to her home.

GOOD FISHERMEN FAIL TO CATCH LIMIT ON TRIP TO HIDDEN LAKE

Fishing just isn't what it used to be pine Oswald Olson and George Prochnow, both of whom left this town early Sunday morning for Hidden Lake in the high Cascades with great hopes of returning that evening with more fish than they could carry. They came back with seventeen fish of the size usually caught in this popular lake.

It wouldn't have been so bad for the two if they had not boasted only last week that they always caught their limit whenever they went to the lake.

"I guess we went at the wrong season of the moon," said Prochnow, in explaining their lack of the limit catch.

MILLION IN ENDOWMENTS ASSURED WILLAMETTE U.

The million dollar endowment sought by Willamette University at Salem was assured last week when a group of ten men affixed their names to a note of a bank there, secured the necessary funds needed, and assumed personal responsibility for the debt. This action was the last step in the raising of a fund of $1,743,000 of productive endowment for the school which is 17 years older than the State of Oregon.

Two of the heaviest contributors in the early part of the campaign were E. S. Collins of Portland and R. A. Booth of Eugene, both of whom contributed $50,000 each to the fund. The success of this endowment campaign brings $350,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation. This places Willamette in third place in the list of denominational schools in the United States in amount of endowment per student.

The institution has property valued at $2,500,000, all of which is entirely free of debt.

WEEK-DAY BIBLE SCHOOL CLASSES STARTED MON.

Committees in each of the three Protestant church, Methodist, Christian and Baptist, are starting work this week to raise their annual funds for the support of the week-day Bible school which is being conducted in the schools of this city by Miss Goldie Smith of Eugene. Miss Smith has held classes here for several years and began her work here this year on Monday. Regular classes are held in the grade schools and any child who cares to may enroll. The matter of taking this extra work is, however, optional with the individual student and his parent.

The three churches annually appoint committees to raise the funds needed for this work which has the sanction and approval of C. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction, and other high officials in educational circles.

LANE COUNCIL ADOPTS PROGRAM OF WORK FOR DEMONSTRATION AGENT

"Landscaping," "Dramatics and Recreation," and "Winter Gardens and the Year-Round Food Supply," are the three new projects added to the program of the home demonstration agent, Gertrude L. Skow, for the year October, 1930 to October, 1931, as adopted Monday at a meeting of the Home Economics committee of the Lane County Agricultural Council.

The offerings during October, November, and December are Nutrition, Clothing, and Christmas gift suggestions. Nutrition includes either of two sub-projects; namely "Food and Its Relation to Weight," which requires two full days and one-half day meetings; and "The School Lunch," which require two meetings, one with homemakers, where sandwich recipes will be demonstrated, and one with teachers to discuss hot-dish recipes for cold months. Clothing will be centered around the topic, "New Clothes for Old" with present styles analyzed and old garments remodeled to be made useful. The agent is assisting with the sponsoring of a dramatics training school to help local people in directing community plays. This school will be held in November in Eugene.

After Christmas the emphasis will go to house furnishings and landscaping. Demonstrations and lectures on living rooms and kitchens are being offered. Three meetings will be given to each of these subjects. One demonstration of the transplanting of native shrubs by a trained forester, and two illustrated talks on the use and selection of shrubs will be available for those desiring the landscaping project.

During late spring and summer canning, planning for the year-round vegetable supply, winter garden possibilities, and storage will be stressed.

Tells of Picture Making The art of taking pictures was demonstrated and explained to the students at the Lincoln school at an assembly period on Monday by H. H. Hall of Eugene who is doing demonstration work for the Eastman Kodak company along educational lines.
