COMMUNITY SERVICE

Whether for pleasure or deadly earnest the drug store stands ready to serve the community day or night. Maybe it is, in a storm or bitter cold, it is all in a day's work for the druggist to render this service that can be found no place else.

Such a service is an asset to the community—a definite convenience. It is therefore the community's interest to give the druggist the patronage he needs to keep up the good work.
