GIVE MEIER A CHANCE

The people have spoken. They desire Julius Meier for governor. Breaking away from both of the regular parties they give the independent candidate a big vote. Joining forces with the rest of the world the people of Oregon voted for a change.

We did not support Mr. Meier and we can not agree with his announced policies. However, we think that he should have a fair chance of showing us what he can do. Everyone should now give him support to make his a harmonious and efficient administration.

When his policies are tried then we can judge for certain whether they are for the benefit of Oregon. Let us who have been against him withhold our criticism, because he is the duly elected governor of Oregon, until after he has had a chance.

ONE CHANGE FOR THE BETTER

There are many who believe that any change in manners and customs must be a change for worse. There are others especially among the young folks, who eagerly welcome any change, regardless of its origin or its morals. Every-body realizes that social, economic and normal conditions have changed greatly all over the United States in the period dating from the beginning of the war. Doubtless some of the changes are improvements as certainly some of them seem to be to the thoughtful as recessions from older standards.

One change, however, seems to us definitely for the better. That is the change in attitude to each other of city people and country people. Country folks no longer regard all city people as stuck-up snobs, nor do city people think of the folks who live in small towns as uncouth bumpkins. The reason for this is that city and country people today dress alike, have the same standards of schooling, eat the same sort of things, ride in the same kind of cars over the same good roads, see the same movies, hear the same things over the radio, read the same magazines and books, and so are beginning to act alike, for the first time since rivalry between rural and urban points of view began.

We believe that is a good thing. We believe that we shall never become a completely unified nation until all sectional differences and prejudices have been wiped out. And if that means modifying old standards, then let us modify them.

The lumber industry could be helped by the people of Oregon even more than any tariff could make it prosper if wood was used in all things it is best adapted to. Every day one can see construction on buildings out of steel where wood would answer the purpose. In this wet climate iron rusts fast and deteriorates more quickly than wood. Iron in many cases is not as permanent as wood although it may seem so. Oregon people should utilize wood wherever it is best adapted instead of sending their dollars elsewhere for iron.

Several hundred men will be employed in the county on six or eight road jobs by the highway department this winter. It is a wise policy to carry on as much work as possible under weather conditions. If the winter is open like last season then not only will employment be given, but much will be accomplished to advance road work beyond the point where it will interfere with travel next summer.

ARMISTICE DAY

At 11 a. m. on November 11, 1918, the cannons ceased to roar on the battle fields of war-torn France. The war was over by agreement. The American battle cry, "Hell, Heaven or Hoboken by Christmas" was fulfilled. Each year now many nations celebrate Armistice day and next Tuesday we will observe the 12th anniversary of the event.

Armistice day marked a turning point in the history of the world. It means freedom in many countries where success of the enemies would have meant oppression under the iron heel of German militarism. Few people, outside of those who served overseas, realized the danger of the real German army,—many minimized it as a menace to the United States. But the power behind this war machine, if it had been successful in Europe was sufficient to have changed much of the map of the Western hemisphere as well as eastern.

Armistice day is a day of deliverance from German dominance. It should be a day of thanksgiving and rejoicing for us all, not merely a time when ex-servicemen get together to swap stories of the World war.

The move to organize all relief work in Springfield with headquarters at the Community hall should receive the support of everyone. Systematic relief will accomplish more than promiscuous giving. It is up to everyone to help a little to make the movement successful.

Halfway of Life
by BRUCE BARTON
ASH TRAYS AND BUZZERS

Years ago I had an appointment with a corporation president. The secretaries, door men, and general factotums in the greater man's outer office made it clear that their boss was Some Pumpkins and that I was assuming a great deal in asking to see him.

When I finally worked my way through the last of them and stood in the president's private office, I saw in the corner a red-faced, bald-headed man seated at a plain wooden desk. His coat was off and his sleeves were rolled up to reveal a pair of solid, hairy arms.

"Ah, Mr. Barton," he said, "would you mind standing on guard beside that door? My tailor has just sent me over a pair of cooler pants, and I want to put them on."

So I stood guard while he stepped out of one pair of pants and into another, chatting sociably all the time.

I was reminded of this incident by the remark of a friend who was recently transferred from the branch office to the New York headquarters of a certain business.

Some of the men in the organization were jealous of his promotion, and he has carefully watched his step. "The president gave me my choice of two offices," he told me. "One was a grand room on the executive floor. The other a queer little dump two floors below. I took the little office. It will be perfectly all right until I show that I need something better. I have enough problems at the beginning without the additional handicap of a luxurious office."

An office manager who has watched men come and go in a big corporation tells me he can predict just about how long a new man will last. "If his first requisition is for a lead pencil and a blotter and some ink, I put him down as permanent. But when a man sends me an initial requisition for an ash tray and an electric buzzer I notice he never stays over a year."

Napoleon was quite a trial to his courtiers because he did not pay more attention to the trappings of his office. When Bourriene was telling him that he must do so and so or the older reigning families in Europe would not recognize him, he had the sure answer of a man who knows his strength.

"If it comes to that I will destroy them all," he exclaimed. "Then I shall be the oldest sovereign among them."

Generally speaking, those who like lots of fuss are light weights. The surer a man is of his own capacity the less he cares for externals—including all fancy trappings and the criticism of the uninformed.

NEARLY KILLED BY GAS —DRUGGIST SAVES HER

"Gas on my stomach was so bad it nearly killed me. My druggist told me about Adlerika. The gas is gone now and I feel fine." Mrs. A. Adamek, etc., as mixed in Adlerika, helps GAS on stomach in 10 minutes! Most remedies act on lower bowel only, but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing poisonous waste you never knew was there. Relieves constipation in 2 hours. It will surprise you.—Flanery's Drug Store.
