

SCANDALS RIVAL DAYS OF TWEED

New York Amazed at Revelations of Irregularities on Part of Judges.

New York.—A small, quiet man who likes to fish and play golf has assumed command in New York's latest investigation into charges of judicial irregularities and political graft on a scale unknown since the days of the Boss Tweed scandals.

He is Ildor J. Kressel, fifty-two, Austrian born and a former United States assistant attorney general, who has a record for digging up evidence which various embarrassed individuals had hoped would remain hidden.

A former law partner of William Travers Jerome, Kressel has become special counsel to Referee Samuel Seabury in the investigation of minor courts, particularly charges of the purchase of judgeships, from the Bronx to Battery Park.

Three Years of Inquiry.

For three years the headlines of New York newspapers have shouted their story of political and judicial investigations in a dozen major scandals, involving bribes amounting to more than $100,000 and defrauding of taxpayers to the extent of from $5,000,000 to three times that sum. Since the Queens sewer case, which resulted in the sentencing of Maurice E. Connolly, president of the borough, to a year's imprisonment on charges of graft in the construction of sewers, the investigations have extended to a shortage of county clerk fees, the padding of the street cleaning department pay roll and now the magistrates and other courts. As a result:

Five judges have resigned or been removed. They are Albert H. Vitale, who was removed from the bench on charges of borrowing $20,000 from the late Arnold Rothstein, gambler and gangster, killed in the Park Central hotel, and of discharging a burglar friend of Rothstein arraigned on robbery charges.

Loan to Tammany Leader.

George F. Ewald, who resigned after an investigation had revealed his connection with a practically worthless mine investment concern, and also that his wife had given $10,000 to Martin J. Healy, Tammany hall leader, as a loan.

Bernard Vause, county judge, who was found guilty of using the mails to defraud and sentenced to six years in Atlanta penitentiary.

Francis X. Mancuso, general sessions judge, who was forced to resign because of his connection with the City Trust scandal, in which Frank H. Warder, state banking superintendent, was convicted of receiving almost $100,000 in bribes.

Francis X. McQuade, who resigned as magistrate because, he announced, of his connection with the New York Giants baseball club, at a time when an investigation was being made into his political activities.

County Judge George W. Martin virtually relieved himself from further service pending outcome of an investigation for evidence of mail fraud in three companies in which he was interested.

Coffins for Parents in Room of Paralyzed Son

Helpless Virginia Man Has Gazed Two Years on Grim Death Reminders.

Luray, Va.—Two coffins awaiting their owners' deaths, occupying the same room where lies a paralyzed former fireman on the Norfolk & Western railroad, are intensifying tragic events connected with the family of J. D. Ruffner, a farmer of this county.

For a long time the coffins, made for Mr. and Mrs. Ruffner, have been in their home. The farmer and his wife are both more than eighty years old. In order to avoid "confusion" at the time of his death, Mr. Ruffner says, the coffins were made. A local undertaker furnished them according to Mr. Ruffner's specifications.

J. C. Ruffner, the paralyzed former railroad man, is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruffner. For two years he has occupied the same room where the death reminders are kept. He can neither move nor speak; only stare at the receptacles.

Tragically has trailed the Ruffner family for years. Another son of the aged couple a number of years ago shot and killed his uncle. He served only a short time in prison. This was followed by another member of the Ruffner family shooting and killing their son-in-law, Mark Walker. This killing was committed within 100 feet of the coffins and the paralyzed fireman's room.

Later Noah Fox, a relative of the Ruffners, was shot and killed within 100 yards of the "coffin room." Fox was slain by his son-in-law, George Riley, who was acquitted of the crime in the Page county court.

Pay Big Rewards for Lost Articles in Paris

Paris.—One million francs was the sum paid out in rewards in 1930 for recovery of nearly 200,000 articles lost in Paris, many of them the property of American tourists.

The authorities say that Americans on vacation lose their belongings with astonishing facility. And they pay the biggest rewards.

A packet of diamonds worth millions of francs, thousands of umbrellas, the manuscript of a novel on Paris written in English, law-ers' briefcases, documents of handbags, diplomatic documents, these were a few of the widely assorted objects lost and found.

The exact total of articles found was 180,000, but there was other property of negligible value which was not docketed. To store the huge mass of stuff the police had to extend their premises at the Surete-Generale.

The police say that people are far more absent-minded now than twenty years ago. In 1910, for instance, the total number of objects found was 85,000.

This absent-mindedness is not peculiar to Paris, say the authorities, for the same state of affairs exists in all the big capitals of the world.

Life of Early Texas Indians Told by Shells

Austin, Texas.—Shell heaps more than a mile long have been uncovered by Dr. J. E. Pearce, heading an expedition of the University of Texas.

Doctor Pearce concludes from the location and position of the shell heaps that they are the refuse of Indians of early Texas tribes living along the coast of the Gulf of Mexico when Columbus made his voyage.

The investigations are being made in co-operation with the Rockefeller foundation. Along the coast from Corpus Christi to Matamoros, Mex., the explorers have uncovered remains of early Indian villages. These depended largely on the sea for food, decorations, weapons and pottery, shells fashioned for each purpose being found in large quantities.

Hunter Tells of Being Treated by Bear Family

Berwick, Pa.—William Temple, veteran Benton hunter, returned from the woods with a bear story by which he stands firm in guaranteeing the authenticity.

Temple said that while hunting on North mountain he stepped into a clearing just as four bears, two adults and two cubs, appeared. The larger bears charged, he said, and he fired, killing one of them.

The other bear continued on, stepping over the body of its comrade, to pursue Temple, who took refuge in a tree. The bear and the cubs stood guard around the tree until dark, when they disappeared.

London Women Hold Theater-Going Record

London.—Three women hold the theater-going record of London.

Two thus far have had a box for "Bitter Sweet" more than 60 times and still keep booking it.

Another saw "Peg o' My Heart" 83 times before it closed and still has a habit of going to at least nine shows a week.

Napoleon Wanted Australia

Paris.—A curious map now in the possession of the French Geographical society, reveals that Napoleon Bonaparte once planned to invade Australia and annex it to France.

The map is covered with notes written by Napoleon and contains the outline of his proposed attack. Prince Roland Bonaparte, descendant of the emperor, presented the map to the society.

LOCAL CHILD'S BIRTHDAY IS FRIDAY, THIRTEENTH

Does Friday the thirteenth mean good luck, bad luck, or is it just an indifferent day?

This question may be bothering Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gabriel of this city who became the parents of a baby daughter at the home of Mrs. Gabriel's parents in Portland on Friday, March 13, 1931.

When their daughter's hair turns to silver she can look back over her life and make her own decision.

Constant Cold Protects Your Health and Budget

There's really no need for spending an hour or more every day buying food... It's much handier—and a great deal more economical... to do it all at the same time once or twice a week. Nor need you worry about left-overs.

You can't get left with "leavings" because an electric refrigerator keeps food perfectly over a period of days. Electric Refrigeration means CONSTANT cold always under the 50 degree danger line. There is never any appreciable change in this steady cold that wont let foods spoil.

Go in today and investigate the advantages of Electric Refrigeration. Your dealer will be delighted to demonstrate.
