Often the very simplest motifs prove to make the most pleasing decorations. In spite of the most sophisticated sort of prints a simple polka dot or a striped material still pleases us. An embroidery design consisting of dots and simple lines of hemstitching may be chosen to ornament the most expensive of French lingerie and rickrack braid which depends on the very, very old motif of a zigzag line still pleases the twentieth century eye.

Rickrack braid has been revived for spring. It may be the forerunner of a revival of interest in braid generally. Cotton rickrack is used on linen and cotton dresses and silk rickrack on silks of the rougher, dull-sur-facéd sort. It is usually applied as

FORGER OPERATES IN CELL; Suspend Prison Guards
 Thomaston, Maine.—Three guards in the state prison here have been suspended as a result of the discovery that Joseph Maltis, noted forger of New Hampshire, who is doing a four-year term for forgery, has been conducting a wholesale forgery business while behind the bars. Maltis flooded seaboard cities with letters ordering goods to be delivered to the prison. A Philadelphia firm, Stearns & Co., delivered some rugs and chairs to an astounded fellow convict of Maltis in one of Maltis' clever orders. The guards say they have been innocent dupes. They have relayed Maltis' letters along a Philadelphia-Maine line and during his career, "inside and outside," Maltis has collected $30,000 on forged orders.

BIG MARKET FOR CORN OPENED UP

Lifting Restrictions on Use of Dextrose Solves Surplus Crop Problem.

New York.—That decidedly larger quantities of refined corn sugar will be produced and that many more millions of bushels of corn will consequently be used in 1931 than in any previous year in the history of the refined corn sugar trade is the prediction of experts as a result of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde's recent ruling in which he placed a new administrative interpretation on the federal food definition which for 25 years have restricted the uses of refined corn sugar as an ingredient in the preparation and packing of food products.

Of the total annual corn crop of approximately 2,750,000,000 bushels, about 275,000,000 bushels, representing 10 per cent, goes to the primary or "cash" market. Thus the price of corn is based not on the whole crop but on the small percentage that finds its way to immediate cash channels.

Better Prices for Corn.
 Under Mr. Hyde's ruling, almost immediately this "cash corn" will be increased according to the most conservative estimates by 20,000,000 bushels. It can readily be seen that this increase in demand for corn by industry will result in better prices for "cash corn" and will be reflected in better prices for corn for all purposes. It is also further pointed out that with the stigma officially removed from the uses of refined corn sugar (dextrose), preserves, and the innumerable canned products, the demand for industrial purposes may grow to the extent that the United States will no longer have a surplus corn crop, and the problems of export will solve themselves.

The average number of bushels of corn which have gone directly into the manufacture of refined sugar for the past several years is estimated at 5,550,000 bushels. This has been converted into 130,000,000 pounds of dextrose. Under the new decision, corn products officials declare the demand for refined corn sugar may be increased 400 per cent, and that the next year may see the production of 520,000,000 pounds. Accordingly, as a means of relief to the farmers throughout the corn belt, Mr. Hyde's action will be far-reaching in its effects.

Enlarge Production Facilities.
 Shortly after the announcement of the removal of the restriction, officials of the larger refineries took steps toward planning the enlargement of the productive facilities. This entails the new building plans over a period of time, the extension of equipment and additional employment, thus bringing prosperity of a substantial character to the districts in which the refineries are located.

The governors of seven states in the corn belt have already signified their commendation of Secretary Hyde's ruling in officially removing the stigma which has been placed on refined corn sugar and thereby permitting corn farmers to receive assistance in times of temporary depression. They are Gov. Henry S. Caulfield of Missouri, Gov. Clyde M. Reed of Kansas, Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana, Gov. Arthur G. Benson of Nebraska, Gov. Louis L. Emerson of Illinois, Gov. John G. Richards of South Carolina and Gov. John Hammill of Iowa.
