JOHN KNOX QUILTS FACULTY AT H. S.

Illness of Father in California Causes Science Teacher to Resign Post

SUCCESSOR NOT NAMED

Voters of Waltherville Accept Budget Monday; 30 More Student to Come Here

John Douglas Knox, astronomist and lecturer, employed by the school board last spring to fill the vacancy although several are being considered according to Swarts. This combination of science and Spanish is a rather difficult one to fill and is more so this late in the season. Every effort is being made by the board members to find some equally competent instructor to succeed Knox. The board prefers to employ another man for the high school faculty if a satisfactory one can be found.

Budget is Passed

Assurance that the Springfield high school attendance will be increased by approximately 30 outside students was given Monday evening after the resident taxpayers of the McKenzie high school district at Waltherville approved of the proposed budget 44-15.

This budget provides principally for the levy of a tax to raise necessary funds to operate a school bus taking the high school students of that district to Springfield and return daily.

The action of the voters at Waltherville finally settles the long undecided question as to where these students would attend school. Ever since it was announced last spring that the Waltherville high school was condemned and that the school would not be continued this year there has been considerable speculation as to the final action which would be taken.

Decision to send the students to Springfield was reached after a series of conferences with the local school authorities had been held. Considerable opposition arose, however, and several families stated that they would send their children to schools in the adjoining high school districts. The approval of the budget, which is primarily a matter of finances for the transportation system, removes all doubt as to the action to be taken and local school authorities are now making arrangements to accommodate the increase in attendance.

Classes at both the grade schools and at the high school will meet for the first time Thursday, September 17, with regular instruction beginning on the following Monday.

RAILROAD PLANS FOR HEAVY TOURIST TRAVEL

Re-establishment for the first time since last May of the company's now-famous cent-a-mile transportation fares, September 3, 4 and 5, has led to the prediction of extraordinary travel on all parts of the Southern Pacific's system from Portland to El Paso and from San Francisco to Ogden, Salt Lake City included.

Pre-sale inquiries to Southern Pacific agents tend to indicate the anticipated record travel, according to Fred A. Smith, local agent for the company.

A 12-day return limit from the first date of sale is being authorized in connection with the "Dollar Day" sale. This, added to the fact that the sale just precedes the Labor day week-end, is expected to enhance the value of the bargains to the traveling public.

Travel to the much publicized Fiesta de Los Angeles, September 4 to 13, and to the California State Fair at Sacramento, September 5 to 13, is expected to be unusually great due to the cent-a-mile round-trip fares.

The roundtrip fares will be based on three-fifths the cost of the usual one-way ticket. Tickets under the plan will be good on all trains, coach or Pullman.

DRY FARM PAYS SPRINGFIELD MAN

Exceptional Melon and Tomato Yields Now Being Harvested Near City

A good example of the high quality fruit and vegetable crops which can be produced in Lane county without irrigation may now be seen at the B. S. Prather ranch three and one-half miles east of Springfield on the Jasper road. Mr. Prather came to Springfield two years ago from Molalla where he had made pronounced success with dry vegetable and fruit farming. He purchased a 20 acre tract and immediately put it under cultivation.

First Year Good

Last year he had a very successful season, despite the unsatisfactory weather. The spring was late and the fall rains started early.

This, the second year, sees three and one-half acres of tomatoes, two acres of cantaloupes, two acres of watermelons, 100 peach trees, several apple trees, a strawberry patch, several varieties of stalk berries, and a considerable acreage of both field and sweet corn, all crowded onto the small tract and all producing exceptional crops.

Tomatoes, watermelons, and cantaloupes have and continue to be Mr. Prather's specialties. His peach crop will be something for later years, he says. He set out 100 of the trees this spring and they are all growing and average about five feet in height.

Peaches Do Well

"There will be a few peaches on the trees next year, but the crop will not become very heavy until the two years after that," says the farmer.

There were 4000 plants in the tomato fields. A very low percentage of these have died. Most of the missing hills are attributed to the work of moles which cut the roots underground. Break O' Day and Burbank's Golden Treasure, are the varieties grown this year. It is expected that more than 1000 bushels of these will be harvested and sold this season.

Honey Rock and Luther Burbank's Golden Treasure varieties are included in the cantaloupe patch. The Honey Rock melons are now ripe, but the others are a smaller variety and ripen later.

The watermelon patch contains four varieties: Camp Clark, Sugar Stick, Tom Watson, and Honey Giant. The earliest of these just now getting ripe. The later varieties will keep coming on until October. The Camp Clark melon is an importation from Missouri. The Sugar Stick melon is a smaller variety. It has a light colored shell. The Tom Watson melons are the long heavy and dark ones. Several of them measure over two feet in length.

Has No Sales Problems

Sales problems do not worry Mr. Prather.

"If you have a good product the public will come to your place to get it," he says. "And they do, for he makes no attempt to dispose of his crops other than to those who drive out to his place. He has followed this method for several years and has had no difficulty in disposing of his produce."

Alarm System Installed

Just a warning, however, to those who would visit the melon patches without first seeing the owner. Mr. Prather has an intricate alarm system worked out which warns him whenever any prowlers enter the fields. He sleeps in the center of the watermelon field during the ripening season and has already caught parties attempting to make raids on his property.

SEEK WINTER ROAD INTO OAKRIDGE

Six Miles of Surfacing Necessary to Keep Upper Willamette Road Open

BRIDGE ABOUT FINISHED

Dedication for Structure at Hell Gate Canyon Planned for September 26

Whether or not the new upper Willamette highway will be open to travel this winter will probably be decided today at a meeting of the state highway commission which is being held in Portland. The entire membership of the Lane county court is in Portland today to discuss with the commission the possibility of immediately graveling a six mile stretch of the new road which would then make winter driving over the road possible after wet weather arrives.

Construction work on the highway has been completed to the new bridge across the Willamette river near Oakridge and all but about six miles of this has been given a base surface coat.

The bridge itself will be completed shortly after the middle of this month and a tentative date for dedication has been set for Saturday, September 26. Elaborate plans are being worked out for this event and a large caravan of motorists from lower Willamette valley cities will attend the ceremonies.

At the present time motorists drive up along the river on the south side and ford the stream this side of the new bridge and then continue to Oakridge on the old road. If the county court members are successful in reaching a satisfactory agreement with the highway body they will use their rock crusher now in that vicinity and spread a layer of the gravel on the six-mile stretch making it possible to drive to the new bridge, cross over and then continue into Oakridge on the north side.

According to C. P. Barnard, county judge, it will require 5000 yards of gravel for the one rough surfacing.

If the surfacing is done travel on the highway will be restricted to light cars during wet weather to prevent damaging the roadbed.
