

FOUR TO NAVIGATE ON LOWER ROGUE

Dr. Rebhan, M. R. Irish, Veltie Pruitt and Prince Hefrith Now on Attempt

TAKE MOTION PICTURES

Four Men Start Trip Grants Pass to Ocean Gold Beach Monday

Navigation of the Rogue river, from Grants Pass to the Pacific ocean at Gold Beach in two row boats, and the filming of motion pictures of the heretofore unattempted trip is the ambition of four prominent Lane county sportsmen who shoved off from the Josephine county city Monday.

The intrepid boatmen who seek this unusual record are Dr. W. C. Hebban, Springfield physician, Veltie Pruitt, pastor of the First Christian church in Springfield, and director of music at the Eugene Bible college; M. R. Irish, retail grocer, and Prince Hefrith, prominent McKenzie river boatman.

The boat voyage will be one of 80 miles and those making the trip expected, when they left, to spend most of a week on the water. They will carry along some food, but will live off of "fruits of the land" so far as possible, stated Dr. Rebhan.

Some of the wildest country in the entire state will be visited during the run which will take the men across Josephine and Curry counties. It is almost impossible to get an automobile down to the river anywhere between the two terminals of the trip, the men stated, and they expected to see very few people during the voyage.

Mrs. Rebhan and Mrs. Irish will drive an automobile to the mouth of the river at Gold Beach to meet the boatmen when they complete their trip.

A complete record of events as they happen will be kept by means of motion picture cameras and equipment taken along. Just before leaving Dr. Rebhan assured his friends that plenty would happen and that they would be given an opportunity to see these films after the return of the fishermen.

A party of Springfield men composed of H. G. Harrington and his two sons, Harry and M. G. Harrington, returned from across the Cascades with limit catches of rainbow trout taken in a very short time.

Most of the fish brought home by the local party were 15 inches long.

WILD COUNTRY FOUND ON UPPER WILLAMETTE

Barnell and Huntly, it seems were satisfied to catch a large number of smaller fish in the creek, but Dr. Dow and Mr. Puckett had designs on larger ones. They therefore set out in quest of a lake which they had heard about, one which has been stocked and which is seldom fished.

Inclement weather did its best to dissuade the two, but they finally reached their goal with the aid of two horses. The wind and rain blew so much, however, that the men could not fish after they found the secluded lake which has not been named.

SCHOOLS ASK FOR BOOK DONATIONS

Patrons Requested to Leave Them at Schools or Swarts Market, Buy New Texts

Patrons of the Springfield grade school who have not already donated to the district, the books which their children will not be using this year, are urged to do so before the opening of school next Thursday, September 17.

The books may be left at the school houses or at Swarts' Meat Market.

The district has purchased all of the newly adopted texts in reading, also the geographies for the fourth and sixth grades, but there is a shortage of all other texts and as the law only provides for an expenditure of $1.50 per pupil for free text books, it is only through donations this year that free books in all subjects will be available.

Many patrons of the district have books in their homes which are not to be used further, by themselves, and in many instances they agreed last spring to donate them to the district. Several have been uncertain as to what disposition to make of them during the summer months while the schools have been closed.

The donation of the books very shortly will be a great benefit to the principals in determining their status in regards to the free text law.

High schools are not affected by the new law which was passed at the legislative session last winter.

GAME COMMISSION OUTLINES PLANS

Oregon's wild life program, involving expenditures of $5,000,000 in the next ten years, was released by the Oregon State Game commission yesterday.

Oregon now has embarked upon the most comprehensive plan of fish and game development ever attempted. The program already in full swing, is to raise streams, lakes, fields and forests to the ideal for fishing and hunting as rapidly as humanly possible. The stream and lake survey, by which the game commission expects to get the real fact-basis for fish planting, is the first ever started in any state. The same procedure has been launched on game so that scientific game management will make Oregon the outstanding wild-life state of the Union.

"To make Oregon Famous for Fun" is the heading of the 27 page outline which states that the commission's purpose "is to develop Oregon's wild life to the utmost, knowing no limits in its endeavor, save those of science and good economics." More than 40,000,000 of Oregon's 63 million acres are non-tillable, the report says, and "in this magnificent paradise nature has provided exceptional food and shelter for abundant wild life."

Fish and Game Big Asset—Figures of the U. S. Biological Survey are quoted to prove a present annual income value of $20,000,000 from Oregon's wild life and the commission declares that "Oregon's wild life should be at least a $100,000,000 asset." An estimated average annual income of $500,000 from hunters' and anglers' licenses and other licenses and fines, during the next ten years, is to be expended to secure "the saturation point in fish and game. The program is being organized and conducted in accordance with the best known business procedure in combination with practical experience and ability in fish and game propagation, distribution and protection. This program is not something to be realized only after long delay, but its effects are to be seen at once in more fish in the streams and more game in the uplands. The best talent both world-wide and regional, has been engaged. Every element of operation based upon any other consideration than fitness, has been discarded, the report declares.

Student Pilot Is On Long Flight

Cross-Country Trip Made By Plane From MacManimann School at Springfield

Jim MacManimann of the Springfield School of Flying and one of his advanced students, Bill Bodley who has had over 100 hours of flying, made a cross-country trip to Baker the past week.

Leaving Thursday morning at 7:00 they flew over the McKenzie pass and the Three Sisters. The day was clear and flying over the Sisters was the most beautiful sight ever seen. Mr. MacManimann said. The reflection of the sun on the glacier was spectacular. The altitude reached going over the pass was 8000 feet. They had to climb about 6000 feet before getting above the smoke line.

The route taken by MacManimann and Bodley took them over Prairie City, the John Day country and Prineville. In the John Day country they saw an immense forest fire. It had burned over six or eight thousand acres burning on a ten mile front.

The return trip was made by way of Pendleton and Portland, through the gorge. Rough air was encountered and they climbed to an altitude of 11,000 feet in order to get above the 70 mile wind that they had to buck.

The trip going up took approximately 3 hours and 45 minutes and gave them ample time to take in all of the scenery. Returning they stopped at Pendleton to re-fuel and in spite of the rough wind made the trip from Baker to Portland in 4 hours.

Bodley was making the trip in order to get cross country flying experience and did practically all of the flying, being relieved by MacManimann only during the rough spots through the gorge where the flying was hard work and they relieved each other for the rest.

FOOTBALL TEAM TO MEET FRIDAY

High School to Open Season With Grants Pass High There September 26

LETTERMEN TO RETURN

Start Practice Immediately; Entire Schedule Has Not Been Completed

Full football activities at Springfield high will get under way here Friday at a mass meeting of all players and others interested in the sport which has been called for 2:30 by Norval May, high school athletic director. May has been back in the city for the past week and has been checking over athletic prospects, both from the position of players and schedule. He has already talked with most of the players on last year's squad, but is calling the meeting at the high school gymnasium so that he may meet others interested in this sport.

Immediate practice will be the program this year, says May.

The first of these will probably be held Saturday or Monday depending on the boys themselves. Many of them are working and cannot take the time off right now.

Two fast games have already been assured the fans right at the opening of the season. The first game on this year's schedule will be at Grants Pass with their high school aggregation on September 26. The following Friday, October 2, will bring a contest with one of the greatest rivals of the local school, Eugene high. This game will be played on Hayward field at the university.
