

LIMITS PLACED ON ROAD LOADS

County Court Orders Reduction to Prevent Damage During Season of Rains

Load limits on five Lane county roads have been ordered by the county court to prevent damage during the rainy season. Other roads will be added to the limit lists as need is seen, according to members of the county court.

Another order has been issued by the county court on the Prairie road between Eugene and Junction City but this will not be in effect unless high water blocks the Pacific highway between these cities.

In the past at times of high water on the Pacific highway between Junction City and Eugene heavy through-state and interstate truck traffic has been using the Prairie road and has caused much damage. If the Pacific highway is flooded this winter at any time the court order will take effect immediately, it is announced.

A limit of 10,000 pounds including vehicle and load is ordered for the market road between Georgetown and Franklin, the road between Fern Ridge and the Territorial road and the road between Vaughn and Notl. The market road between Coyote bridge and the foot of Cantrell hill is under a 5000 pound limit ban.

The Swing Log road south of Crow and the Briggs Hill road at Hadleyville have limits of 10,000 pounds as has the Reik Lane road south of Crow.

NEW OREGON SKYLINE TRAIL MAP IS OUT

Copies of a revised illustrated folder map of the Oregon Skyline Trail have just been received by the regional forester, Portland, Oregon.

The Oregon Skyline Trail, 250 miles long and one of the show trails of the Northwest, runs from Mount Hood to Crater Lake, along the crest of the Cascade Range. It was laid out and posted first in 1921 by the U. S. forest service; since then it has been resurveyed in places and reposted to avoid existing roads where possible and to place it more nearly on the actual Cascade divide. Forest officers state that apparently the Oregon Skyline Trail is perhaps better known in the east than it is to Oregonians.

Over 250 lakes are found along this trail varying in size from a quarter acre to several miles in area. The larger one from the north are, Clear, Olallie, Marlon, Elk, Waldo, Odell, Crescent, Diamond, and Crater lakes. In addition to Mount Hood, nine major snow peaks are along this highly scenic route. Mt. Jefferson, Three Fingers Jack, Mt. Washington, North, Middle and South Sister, Diamond Peak, Mt. Bailey, and Mt. Thielsen.

Along the route of the trail there head and flow off to the west, branches of the following important rivers: Salmon, Clackamas, Breitenbush, Santiam, McKenzie, Willamette, Umpqua, and Rogue. To the east flow branches of the White, Whitewater, and Metolius rivers.

The folder has a detailed map with the Skyline Trail, camping places, primitive areas, and State game refuges shown in red and details of streams, peaks, elevations, connecting trails and roads shown in black, with other important data such as a log of the entire route.

On the back of the map is printed information needed by the camper and traveler. This includes paragraphs on trail terminals, condition of trails, methods of travel recommended, camps and accommodations, supplies, fishing, camping permits, and other data in which the hiker is interested on such a trip. The folder is illustrated with 11 half-tones of scenes along the trail.

Copies of this folder are free and may be secured from forest supervisors at Portland, Albany, Bend, Eugene, Roseburg, and Medford, or from the regional office, Portland, Oregon.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS—MAKE THEM YOURSELF

More than one hundred useful home articles, suitable for Christmas gifts, are completely illustrated and described in the new booklet, "You Can Make It for Profit," prepared by the National Committee on Wood Utilization of the Department of Commerce.

Among the articles suggested in the book, which would make valuable gifts for adults, are men's clothes stands, sewing stands, storage chests, glove boxes, handkerchief or jewel boxes, dressing tables, book and magazine stands, modernistic reading tables, tabourets, and fireplace bookcases. And then there are toys for children, such as game tables, child's desk, bunny bookcases, chest for toys, miniature kitchen cabinets, children's tables and chairs and a dog-rocker.

In addition to the articles listed above, there are illustrated many other articles of practical value, including Christmas tree stands, various kinds of garden and outdoor furniture, poultry nests and drinking stands, racks for canned goods and vegetables, tool chests, clothes basket stands, bathroom utility cabinets, and breakfast tables and benches.

Elaborate machinery and tool outfits are not required to execute the plans contained in the new manual. On the other hand, according to the committee, a few simple tools found in practically every home will be sufficient to construct the articles.

In giving suggestions for marketing the articles made for profit, the bulletin points out that most of the articles will find a ready market because they cater to the needs of individual homes and do not compete with factory made merchandise.

"You Can Make It for Profit," may be obtained from the Portland District Office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, located at 215 New Post Office Building, Portland, Oregon.

Fined for Intoxication—Glenn Jones, Springfield, was fined $25 in police Judge Bryson's court in Eugene Monday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication. Unable to pay the fine he is serving out a jail sentence.

NOTICE OF FINAL ACCOUNT—Notice is hereby given that J. F. Berger has filed in Court his final account as administrator of the estate of William H. Herbert, deceased, and that said account will come before the County Court in the Court House in Eugene, Oregon, at ten o'clock A. M. of January 5, 1932, for examination and allowance. All persons objecting thereto should file their objection as required by law and appear at said time and place stated. J. F. BERGER, Administrator. S. D. ALLEN, Attorney for Estate. (D 10-17-24-31)

Years' Work Told By Farm Council

Grange cooperating with the county agent.

Farmers were saved three cents per pound, or a total of $306.67, on chlorates purchased through the county agent.

Horticulture—An effective campaign for control of cherry fruit-flies was conducted.

Cherry fruit-fly control was discussed and planned at a special meeting held in Eugene on May 26, and discussed at a regular meeting of Willakenzie Grange on May 18th.

Notices of emergence of fruit-flies and directions for spraying were mailed to all cherry growers of the county and given to the press.

Fifty-nine prune growers attended two demonstrations on prune root-borer control held on July 21. Control of brown rot of prunes was also discussed and urged at these meetings.

Control of brown rot of prunes was discussed and urged in two circular letters mailed to prune growers and in articles given to the press during August.

Five pruning demonstrations were conducted during November with an attendance of 119.

Fertilizers containing nitrogen increased yields of strawberries in two demonstrations on light soil.

A demonstration was started on October 1, 1931, to test various kinds of fertilizers and methods of applying fertilizers on strawberries.

Dairying—During the year ending September 30, 549 cows on 16 farms were tested in the herd improvement association for production. The association was reorganized and a new year's testing started during October. Eleven dairymen have approximately 400 cows to test.

Problems in connection with the control of infectious abortion in dairy cattle were discussed at a special meeting on March 23 and interest in abortion control was promoted throughout the year. Dairymen in the extreme southwestern part of Lane county were assisted in organizing an abortion control area. All but four of the cows in this area have been tested.

Rodent Control—Three tons of poison barley were mixed and used in an effective campaign against gray digger ground squirrels.

Eighty-three farmers were appointed by the County Court as rodent control supervisors upon request of the county agent. Sixty-eight of these supervisors were nominated by 23 cooperating farm organizations.

Fourteen rodent control supervisors poisoned squirrels on 83 tracts of neglected land containing a total of 9,834 acres at a total cost of $190.59, and an average cost of 1.937 cents per acre. In addition, six farmers poisoned squirrels on 1,280 acres of Government land, so that in all, squirrels were poisoned on 11,114 acres of neglected land.

Poultry—Sixty-five poultrymen attended two poultry culling demonstrations conducted on August 24 with the assistance of H. E. Cosby.

Ways of improving the quality of eggs and of keeping them from deteriorating on the farm were discussed at all poultry meetings held during the year.

Poultry organizations of the county were assisted in conducting three special meetings during the year.

Turkey production and marketing problems were discussed at a one-day turkey institute held in Eugene February 3 that was attended by 129 turkey growers.

Problem: confronting turkey growers in the spring of the year were discussed at meetings held in Cottage Grove and Junction City on March 19 and 20.

Sixty Lane county turkey growers took part in the Lane county section of the tour of the Northwest Turkey Breeders association held on August 20. Arrangements for this section were made by the county agent.

Statistical Summary—Received 3,333 office calls and 591 telephone calls in regard to farm problems.

Wrote 2,693 individual letters. Mailed 17,366 copies of 72 circular letters.

Made 302 farm visits. Devoted 164 days to field work and 129 days to work in office.

Traveled 14,921 miles by automobile and 235 miles by other means.

Specialists from the Oregon Agricultural college cooperated a total of 67 days with the Lane county agent.

Twenty-five demonstration meetings were held, and the county agent or cooperating specialists spoke at 122 meetings with a total attendance of 5,242.

The number of days devoted to various projects was as follows: horticulture, including truck crops, 42; dairying, 34; miscellaneous, 31; legumes and forage crops, 30; rodent control, 29; poultry and organization, 22 each; weed control, 18; marketing, 14; general livestock, 12; community activities, 10; farm management, 9; cereals, 8; agricultural engineering, 7; and potatoes, 5.

CHRISTMAS RATES ON S. P. RAILROAD

Authorized for both the Christmas and New Year periods, cent-a-mile offerings of transportation will be made by Southern Pacific company for the benefit of holiday travelers throughout Oregon and other parts of the west, according to announcements today by Carl Olson, agent for the company here.

At the same time, Mr. Olson revealed, the company has completed arrangements whereby the special low-fare excursion tickets may be given this year as a new kind of Christmas present.

Prepaid tickets, purchased under the plan, will be delivered to persons at all places on the railroad's Pacific lines, extending from Portland to El Paso and from San Francisco to Ogden, Salt Lake City included, he said.

The first series of excursions, Mr. Olson announced, will be conducted December 22, 23, 24, and 25, to be followed by another December 30 and 31, and January 1. Return limit for both excursions will be January 5.

Dr. Danford Returns—Dr. S. A. Danford, druggist physician, has returned recently from a business trip to Merced, California, where he inspected work of the Health Institute which he started there and which he continues to direct. He recently opened a similar business in Eugene.

FARM PAYMENTS REPORTED GOOD

Federal Loan Association Secretary Says Lane Borrowers Meeting Debts

$1,250,000 NOW OUT

More Than Eighty-five Per Cent of Farmers Pay Notes When Due Says Ayres

Despite the so-called hard times there is only a slight increase in reports of delinquent payments of obligations of the Lane county federal farm loan association, says W. A. Ayres, secretary.

"More than eighty-five per cent of Lane county farmers who hold federal farm loans are meeting their payments promptly when due and if conditions do not get any worse or the present situation does not last too long I see no reason now why this should be reduced," Mr.

Ayres said.

Of the remaining approximately fifteen per cent about two-thirds are more than 30 days behind in payment. There have been no foreclosures and there are no indications of any such steps being taken at present, the secretary said.

The association in Lane has outstanding a little more than $1,250,000 in loans on farm property at the present time. There are but few loans being made now and it has been about two months since the last application was approved, Mr. Ayres says.
