Masked Marvel to Meet Vasil Tsacoff; Ladies to Be Admitted Free Friday

Herb Owen, Eugene sports promoter, has three good reasons this week for expecting a larger crowd than usual at his weekly wrestling program tomorrow night.

First, this has been designated as ladies night and all members of the fair sex will be admitted to show free of charge. There are absolutely no strings tied to this offer says Owen.

Second, the main even is a very unusual one with two wrestlers matched and a third held in readiness if needed to fill out the evening's program. Only one of the principals in this match is known. He is Vasil Tsacoff, Bulgarian, who will meet an unidentified man who wrestles with his face covered under the title of the Masked Marvel. This personage has agreed to wear the Bulgarian two out of three times in one and one-half hours. In case the Bulgarian gets too much Walter Achui will be in the Army ready to enter the ring.

Third, a humorous offering of five wrestlers all scrapping together in a special event will be offered. Participants in this battle royal will include Speedy Jones, Vick Potter, Louis Welkum, Art O'Reilly, and Puncho Avery. The rules of this match provides that they can all tackle one man or pair off and the first three to be pinned to the mat will be eliminated. The two winners will then have five minutes to rest and will try for the best two out of three falls. The time limit for this feature of the event has been set at 30 minutes.

MAIN STREET LOOKS AT BROADWAY BY ERNEST CAMD JR

An Old Bread Line

Recently we chronicled the Fleischmann Bakery as being the first to maintain a bread line, dating back about fifty years. That fine piece of charity, however, is far from being the oldest bread line here. The other day it came to light that Trinity Parish is still running one that is exactly 139 years old.

It appears that in 1792, John Leake willed the interest on $5,000 for bread to be distributed by that famous Episcopal church, and through all those years the will has been complied with. The dole is being distributed nowadays by Rev. Edward H. Schleuter, vicar of St. Luke's Chapel, one of Trinity church's affiliates.

No "Hands Off" Signs

One of the most attractive free shows here is maintained in the Daily News building on East 42nd Street. It is, curiously enough, an exhibition of machinery and "ro-bots." And children especially are invited to stroll through the exhibit and handle everything to their heart's content.

Children are simply mad about the place. My own youngster, 6, went there with a pal a couple of years older and revelled in the various gadgets. One thing shown was a telephone. She took down the receiver, dialed her number and saw the machinery she set in motion get her the connection and then, ten feet away, her pal answered the call and talked to her.

Other things are automobile models, steam engines, elevators, riding stairs and all kinds of things like that. After a child has spent a few hours in the place she comprehends a lot more about modern conveniences than she ever did before.

Sales People

One of the curious things visitors here observe quickly is the detached air with which sales people in the big stores wait on customers. In the better stores there is never any attempt made to force a sale. The idea seems to be that if that particular customer walks out, there will be a new one in before many minutes.

One result is that women here thoroughly enjoy shopping, more so than in any other city in the world. In London, one cannot escape from a shop after one has entered it without buying something, or being forced to listen to high pressure selling from everybody in the place, clear up to the owner.

Horse Cars

New York City was probably the last place in the whole country to stop running horse cars. The last line was on Fulton Street, a few blocks from Wall Street and it took the car about half an hour to go the half mile between terminals. Of course the line was operated merely to hold the franchise.

The other day one of the big department stores celebrated its fifty-ninth anniversary and part of the celebration was to get the street car people to run a horse car on 59th Street, on which the store is located. The car ran all day and took in thousands of nickels from people who enjoyed the "novel" experience.

To stop the car one pulled a cord tied to the driver's leg, who thereupon pulled a lever that operated the rear door.

How a Town Put Many Men to Work

By Caleb Johnson

The way to end unemployment is to put men back to work. Unemployment is a problem which affects everybody in every community. It is up to all the people of each community, therefore, to take part in every intelligent effort to find jobs for those who need them.

Any community, of any size, can organize for unemployment relief on the Green Bay plan. In that town of 40,000 population, in one month more than 1,000 men and women were put back to work. Some of them had not had a job for two years. There were 1745 out of work when the united effort began. At the end of a month 1023 of these had been placed in permanent jobs and the rest all had either temporary or part time jobs, so that there was nobody out of work in Green Bay except those unable to work, and the "floaters."

The Green Bay campaign started by the mayor issuing a proclamation that all the whistles in the city would blow from 7:30 to 7:32 on the morning of the drive's start, and all the bells in town would ring. The fire and police departments used their sirens, and all autos came to a stop and blew their horns for two minutes. At 10:30 reports were broadcast over the local radio station of the drive's results.

Noon lunches, radio talks, and preparatory newspaper stories told the town that Green Bay would have jobs for half of its unemployed within three hours. A captain was assigned to each of the 500 city blocks, asking each resident for a pledge of two hours' work weekly at forty cents an hour.

As soon as the block drive was over, every employer in the town was personally contacted by phone, letter or personal call of the unemployment committee's chairman. These men were urged to keep the same number of men they had on the payroll in 1929, if necessary by staggering the work, shorter hours, and so forth. The result was that over 700 men were called back to their old jobs.

In spite of the fact that mild weather killed the usual snow-shoveling and street-cleaning jobs, the plan was successful. Every home, store and shop in the town was visited. A registration system and check-up of addresses served to distinguish "floaters" from the resident unemployed.

The Department of Wisconsin of the American Legion adopted the Green Bay plan, which is working with great success in that state, and in other cities throughout the country. It is not a self-operative plan, by any means, and calls for co-operation on the part of all the civic elements in a town, grouped around the Legion Post as a working nucleus. The working body consists of the Legion's unemployment committee; local newspaper publishers; the mayor; local organized labor executives; manager of local radio station; presidents of the service clubs; chamber of commerce president; advertising club president; heads of industries; bank executives, and so on.

Cards bearing the official seal of the City of Green Bay were used to identify workers, who were given introductory letters. Employment was provided for men and women regardless of legion affiliation, race, color, or creed. Unemployment was the only qualification. Willingness to work was the only test.

Any town can do what Green Bay accomplished. It calls for organization and effort. Your Legion post is a natural nucleus. If there is no post in your town, one of the 30,000 branches of organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor is the rallying point.

This plan calls for no discussion, no argument about theories or politics. Nobody can object to giving work to those who are not working now. The effort is repaid in more than moral satisfaction. It means that those now hoarding money will spend for normal necessities when the spectre of unemployment is removed.

In communities where civic activities are small, where the population chiefly serves an outlying agricultural district, this plan may be widened to take in the farms. There is room on the land for those men who cannot find work in the town. In these instances, heads of agricultural organizations such as the Grange, etc., may be added to the working committee.

Groups of farmers may pool together to pay for the services of a laborer, who can work one day or more on individual properties. A letter used by the Green Bay committee puts the case in concise language: "Dear Fellow Citizen: "The Green Bay Unemployment Relief Commission thanks you sincerely for assisting to overcome the great burden of unemployment in our city this winter, by hiring a man to do your chores. This man will report at once to begin this work in your block. Please treat him as a fellow-citizen asking not charity, but merely the opportunity to earn a living for his family. Find things for him to do. You are entitled to his help in all of the reasonable little jobs about your property, and he will be glad to be assigned to these tasks. If other work comes up requiring painters, paper hangers, carpenters, won't you please call the City Hall and this Commission will send the proper, dependable man to do the work—a townsman out of work at the time. Let's do as much of this work this winter as possible. Let's create jobs and overcome unemployment in our own city and bring Green Bay back to normal. We must all help. We must not let unemployment spread farther nor wreck our community health and happiness.

"Do not engage anyone except 'The Man in the Block' to do snow shoveling or other small jobs this winter. Do not pay any wages to anyone who does not show you his card from this commission. You agree with us that we should keep this work for our own townsmen, and married men first. THE MAN WHO COMES TO DO YOUR WORK MUST HAVE A CARD FROM THIS COMMISSION UPON WHICH WILL BE THE SEAL OF THE CITY OF GREEN BAY. Pay nobody else. The rate is 40 cents an hour. The agreement is not less than two hours a week, for the winter months. Your man will collect once a week on Saturday.

"Again we thank you for assisting us to relieve distress in our city, and won't you please continue to co-operate with your city, by having all of the work possible such as modernizing, improving, repairing, painting, cleaning, paperhanging, plumbing, etc. DONE THIS WINTER and done by men obtained from the CITY HALL."

McKenzie Valley

Interesting figures were given by the driver of the McKenzie high school bus, Ranold Chase, to the high school board in their recent meeting regarding cost of operating the bus.

A drive of some 30 miles each way or 60 miles a day is necessary owing to the Y-shaped location of the district. Forty stops each way are necessary in gathering the students, in required stops, as at railroad crossings, and stop streets, or 80 stops per day. Cost of operating has been very small, less than 120 gallons of gas per month has been used since beginning the term.

The most pretentious celebration in the McKenzie valley of the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth was that of the Leaburg community where a splendid evening program was preceded by a community dinner which was attended by members of nearly where there are no farm organizations, the county agent will select rodent control supervisors if there is sufficient local interest. These supervisors will be appointed by the county court and given authority to poison squirrels on neglected land at the expense of the owner.

Official notice to all persons having charge of land in Lane County to take steps to exterminate gray digger ground squirrels on their property within 30 days from March 3 is published elsewhere in this issue.

The county agent has prepared a supply of poison barley for sale to farmers of Lane County at cost. This poison barley may be purchased at the office of the county agent and from dealers in all parts of the county. The charge is 40c for a five-pound bag.

Places in Springfield and tributary territory where poison barley will be for sale are as follows: Springfield, Irish-Murphy Feed store; Jasper, Bauer's store; Fall Creek, Brewer's store; Lowell, Blair's store; Dexter, William's store; Trent, Wood's store; Waverlyville, Sylvester's store; Vida, Payne's service station; and Marcola, Price's store.

GRAY DIGGER FIGHT STARTED IN COUNTY

Control Supervisors Will be Appointed; Poison Bait to be Distributed by Stores

The annual campaign against gray digger ground squirrels is expected to get well under way during March, according to County Agent O. S. Fletcher, who directs the fight against these pests.

The Lane County Agricultural Council has adopted gray digger ground squirrel control work as one of the county wide projects to be cooperated in by all farm organizations of the county during 1932. It is expected that subordinate granges, farmers union locals, and community clubs will cooperate in the campaign.

Farm organizations in communities where ground squirrel control is a problem are expected to nominate one rodent control supervisor for each school district covered by these organizations. In communities every family in the district.

Ulla Brendell of Vida is again deputy assessor in McKenzie and Mohawk districts.

The fee for the license is $2 for the male and $3 for the female. A penalty of 25 cents will be collected during March, 50 cents in April, 75 cents in May, and $1 June to December inclusive.
