Water Rumor Is Branded False

Investigation of Willamette Park Facilities by Health Officer Made This Week

Fallacious rumors which circulated about Springfield and vicinity to the effect that the swimming pool at Willamette park was unfit for use were rapped this week by Dr. R. C. Romig, county health officer, who visited the park and inspected all sanitary conditions. He also took a sample of water from the river at that place and will have a test made of it. The rumor implied that drainage from a septic tank was being run into the river just above the swimming pool. The investigation made this week proved that the septic tank was fully 70 feet from the river, and that none of the overflow ever reached the river.

Golfers Drop Oakway Matches

Defeat of Wm. Moyer by Ralph DeMott Is Greatest Surprise of Tournament

Ralph DeMott's victory of two up over William Moyer in the championship flight at the Oakway golf tournament last week-end proved the greatest surprise of the entire tournament to date. Moyer had been leading with one up at the end of the first nine holes.

Elmer Pyne and Donald Toomb both lost their matches in the first flight. Pyne being defeated by Dick Miller, and Toomb by L. E. Greenwood.

Both Toomb and Pyne then dropped to the second flight where Pyne succeeded in defeating Grover Richardson.

FEWER LAMBS RAISED; HAY, HONEY PRICES FALL

Fewer lambs are being raised in the 13 western range states than for the past two years, according to figures reviewed by the market news office of the Oregon State college extension service. The 1932 lamb crop in these states is about 13 per cent under 1931, and about 4 per cent below the 1930 crop. This year's crop is still larger than the 1929 lamb production by about 1,400,000 head.

The poor range and feed situation that existed last fall and winter is blamed for the reduction this year as it resulted in heavy losses of ewes and lambs during the winter and early spring. This summer, however, ranges are holding up better than for several years in the west, and as a result lambs have not been forced out of producer's hands by feed shortage.

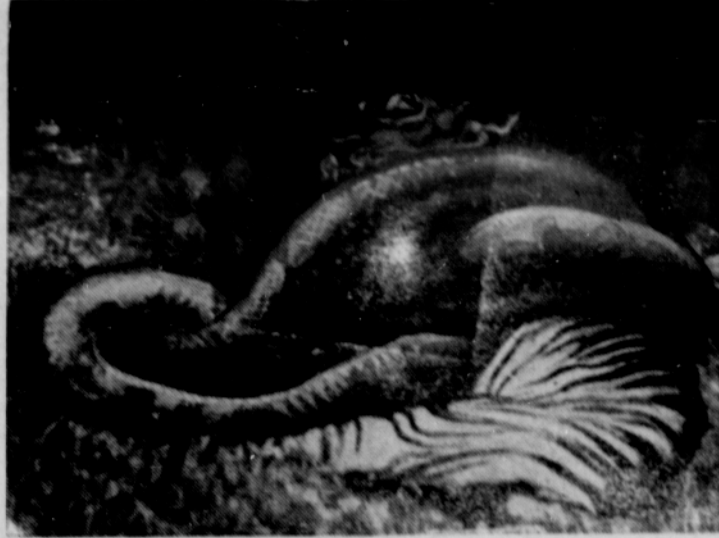

The average value of U. S. No. 1 alfalfa at leading domestic markets during July was $11.50 per ton, compared with $15.25 in the corresponding month last year, and $20 for the preceding five years, 1926 to 1930 inclusive. A strong holding tendency on the part of many growers has been noted this season as they are reported unwilling to sell at current bids, hence fair amounts are being stacked. Receipts at the Kansas City market for July totaled only 206 cars compared with a seven-year July average of 642 cars.

The honey crop in the United States this year seems to vary more widely than usual even within individual sections, according to reports gathered by the market news office of the Oregon extension service. In Oregon the main flow is well started east of the Cascades, and with hot days and cool nights the prospects are for a good yield. Demand is reported inactive and so far prices are no better and sometimes lower than last year. Indications are that the plains area and most of the clover belt will have a good crop of honey.

Olympic Games Gay With Color

Flags of all nations, whose teams are competing in the Olympics at Los Angeles, flutter from the flagstaffs as the games get under way. Photos show three of the U. S. girl swimmers, Madison, Krawls and Hoffman—and the great Paavo Nurmi, "Phantom Finn," all champions—and a section of the flagstaffs and a part of the crowd.

PIONEER "NIGHT CLUBS" NO PLACE FOR SISSIES: MEN WERE REALLY MEN, HAD TO GET IN EARLY HONKY TONKY, ACCORDING TO RECORDS

Hollywood, accustomed to swank supper clubs where the music is sweet and low, and the light soft, has learned what night life is like where men are men.

"Hell's Bells," a notorious honky-tonk of California's more virile years, was reconstructed as a setting for "Vanishing Frontier," a story of Old California, starring—Johnny Mack Brown, and featuring Evelyn Knapp, Zasu Pitts, Raymond Hatton and J. Farrell MacDonald. And Hollywood gasped when it learned what the "good old days" were like in "Hell's Bells."

Much of the action of "The Vanishing Frontier" coming to the Fox-McDonald tomorrow and Saturday is set in the vicinity of "Hell's Bells," and the woman owner of the honky-tonk has an important part in the action. The story of the picture deals with a Robin-Hood type bandit, who robs the rich to aid the poor, but who, when he is convinced justice will be done, is ready and willing to join the side of justice.

TIGER THE VILLIAN OF 'BRING 'EM BACK ALIVE'

Frank Buck, author, adventurer and wild animal maestro whose camera record of his own book, "Bring 'Em Back Alive," is the latest screen sensation, claims that the man-eating tiger who is the villain of his jungle drama will make all the hard-working badmen of the movies green with envy when they see him fight his way through the RKO-Radio picture made by the Van Beuren Expedition.

This ferocious jungle beast whose sole concern is today's dinner, acts and fights with rare unconcern. He has no managers, no publicity men, no assistants and no doubters. He wrote the piece, plays the star part, and directs himself. All his lines are impromptu, with no regard for the cameraman's feelings. During the course of the picture he lists among his adversaries a giant crusher python, a twenty-foot crocodile, a neat but not gaudy black panther and a bull water buffalo.

Before he was run down and brought to book by Buck and his assistants he had attempted homicide four times, suicide twice and murder, mayhem and highway robbery too many times to try to keep track of.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive," directed by Clyde E. Elliott, comes to the Fox-McDonald theatre Sunday for three days.

At Triangle Lake—Mr. and Mrs. Sig Moe spent Sunday at Triangle Lake.

To Move Soon—H. G. Becker and family will leave Monday for Oakland, California, where they will make their home.

ELECTRIC TESTER MAY BE USED WITH PEARS

New Device to Measure Maturity Found by Research Man at Oregon State

A farmer to succeed has long had to be a "jack of all trades" from economist to chemist, and now he will have to add a bit to his electrical ability if a new device for testing maturity of pears announced by the Oregon Experiment station comes into general use.

Not so many years ago the college research men took most of the guess work out of picking pears by devising a "mechanical thumb" by which the change in pressure needed to puncture the pear as it approached maturity could be measured. This has served well ever since, but has its limitations, particularly in that it is of no use in measuring the changes that take place in fruit during storage by which it might be told when they near the end of their storage life.

As an improvement on this mechanical tester, James C. Moore, formerly with the U. S. department of agriculture, began experimenting with an electrical device with which to measure the resistance to electric current in pear tissue. He found that this resistance changes markedly as the pears reach the proper stage for picking, and that it will also measure the progress of maturity in storage.

Working as assistant horticulturist at the experiment station this past year, Moore has continued his experiments in cooperation with Medford pear growers who are much interested in the project. Though handicapped by drought in his field work last year, Moore has carried his investigations to the point where a preliminary report has been published as an experiment station bulletin.

Moore has perfected an electrical device which gives accurate readings with pears, while it is compact enough to be easily portable for use throughout an orchard district.

Double Bill Is Offered Fans

Another exceptionally good wrestling card is being lined up this week for Lane county fans by Herb Owen, Eugene promoter, at the county fairgrounds Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

This will be another double main event card with Cyclone Mackey of Galveston, Texas, and Don Hill of Wichita, Kansas, being assigned the closing match of the evening. George "Wildcat" Pete and Joe Farrell will be the opponents in the first match.

This Mackey fellow is gaining a large following among Lane county fans and is making a clean sweep of defeating all opponents. It took him two evenings to conquer Pete, and he had but little difficulty later in winning from Walter Achu, the Oriental wrestler.

Donald Hill is no set-up as a wrestler, either, having given "Wildcat" Pete such stiff competition that it was finally decided to pit the two together again with the championship at stake. Both have contributed new life to the sport interest of the county and are expected to draw a large house Friday.
