

NEW CASCADE ROAD PLANNED

Forest Service Seeks Funds for Highway from Belknap Springs to Clear Lake

WILL JOIN SANTIAM ROAD

Plan Work in Two Five Hour Shifts on Basis of Five Day Week Says Supervisor

A new road from Belknap Springs to the McKenzie river to its source at Clear Lake is being sought by the forest service, according to P. A. Thompson, supervisor of the Cascade National forest.

The new road will join the Santiam road at Clear Lake making loop trips possible for tourists and fishermen. It will also open up many summer home sites on the McKenzie river north of Belknap Springs.

Completion of the Skyline Trail to be made possible through additional relief appropriation to the Cascade and Santiam national forest was announced yesterday by Mr. Thompson.

The new trail will make it unnecessary to follow the McKenzie highway for nine miles, as at the present time.

The Cascade will receive $2000, with which the trail will be built from Obsidian camp around the foot of Collier glacier, past the Cinder cone and then north along the summit to the highway. The Santiam allotment will take it north from there around the east side of Belknap crater, the west side of Mt. Washington to Big Lake.

Final location work for the trail will be done this week, with a crew of ten under Dee Wright to be sent out next week.

BUS FARES CUT ON 60-DAY TRIAL

Transportation Company Offers 20 Tickets for $1.00; Old Rates Are Unchanged

SALEM GETS REDUCTION

Eugene Runs Shifted, Change in Springfield Schedule Is Said to Be Considered

Regular patrons of the Eugene-Springfield bus line are now offered the privilege of purchasing 5-cent bus tickets if they buy their tickets in strips of 20 for $1.00. These strips were placed on sale Wednesday and may be obtained from the drivers, from the garage, or from the office at the Oregon hotel.

Rates on the line were not actually lowered, however, as the old 7-cent single fare still remains, as does the four-for-a-quarter strip for those who use but few tickets.

The entire reduction plan is being made for a two months' period as an experiment, announced Reed and Lemon, owners of the bus system. If the lowered fare increases the use of the bus lines sufficiently they will be maintained, otherwise the old rates will be taken up again. This is the same plan which has been used in both Portland and Seattle to build up greater volume of street car business by offering lower fares. Salem bus rates were also put on the 20 for $1.00 basis this week.

Several changes in the routing of the bus lines in Eugene were also made this week. Some change in the Springfield line is being considered but was not announced. Announcement of these will probably be made about the middle of September.

At present the bus schedule here is as follows: Half hour service from 6:30 to 8:30 a. m. and from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m. with hourly service during the remainder of the day. The bus leaves Springfield every hour on the half hour.

STUDENT COSTS LOWER IN CITY

Annual Per Capita Expense of Educating High School Student Lowest in County

The per-capita cost of educating high school students in Springfield compares very favorably with those costs in other cities an investigation of annual reports indicate.

In Springfield the cost per student for the past year was $37.45, the lowest of the Big-Four high schools of the county. Eugene, a class A high school with $102.15 per student headed the list, and Cottage Grove with $103.90, and Junction City with $98.80 were next on the list.

A comparison of cities in other large cities of the state where class A high schools are maintained shows costs much greater everywhere except at Corvallis where the figure was $92.48. North Bend was highest with a cost per student of $160.25, and Bend second with $155.75.

Higher costs of the class A high schools is accounted for in some measure by the fact that teachers in those systems are usually better paid than in other districts.

The fact that Cottage Grove is a union high school district and has a Smith-Hughes instructor there may be partially responsible for the increased cost there.

FALL BALLOT TO BE LONG AFFAIR

Thirteen Measures to Be Put Before People for Final Decision in November

MANY OF VITAL IMPORT

School Moving, Prohibition, Limitation of Voting, Bus Bill, and Others There

It looks like another long ballot in November. The advance copies of the publicity pamphlet being prepared by the Secretary of State show that there will be 13 measures placed before the people for their approval or rejection, aside from the candidates for the various parties, and a goodly number of independents.

Whether or not the number 13 is lucky or unlucky remains to be seen. It is certain that it will be both for different groups or factions of people after the ballots have been counted.

The ballot will contain three measures referred to the people by the legislative assembly, three referred by the people, and seven initiated by petition of the people.

Limitation of voting rights, trials without juries, oleomargarine tax, closing of Rogue river to commercial fishing, moving of University to Corvallis, release of higher education appropriation, repeal of prohibition law of state, creation of tax board, higher fees for bus and truck owners, state water power and hydroelectric enterprise, and increased personal income tax, are the more important things which voters will have to consider between now and election time.

Undoubtedly the one measure which will create the greatest fight in Lane county if not in the entire state will be the school moving bill. Many pages in the publicity pamphlet are devoted to arguments for and against the bill.

What the Measures Are
Titles of the various proposals to be voted are as follows:
"Taxpayer Voting Qualification Amendment"—Purpose: To permit the enactment of laws limiting to taxpayers the right to vote upon questions of levying special taxes or issuing public bonds.

"Amendment Authorizing Criminal Trials Without Jury by Consent of Accused"—Purpose: To authorize accused persons except in capital cases to relinquish right of trial by jury by consent of judge and be tried by judge only.

"Six Per Cent Limitation Amendment"—Purpose: Constitutional amendment basing the six per cent limitation upon the levy for any of the three years immediately preceding instead of the last preceding year.

"Oleomargarine Tax Bill"—Purpose: To levy 10 cents per pound tax on sale of oleomargarine and require $5.00 annual license fee of all who distribute or sell oleomargarine.

"Rogue Fishing Up Again"
"A Bill Prohibiting Commercial Fishing on the Rogue River"—Purpose: Closing Rogue river and tributaries, and within three miles of the center of its mouth, to commercial fishing, and prohibiting the sale of fish therefrom.

"Higher Education Appropriation Bill"—Purpose: Appropriating $1,181,173, of which $500,000 was vetoed by the governor, for the Oregon State Agricultural college, University of Oregon, and the three state normal schools.

"Bill to Repeal State Prohibition Law of Oregon"—Purpose: To repeal the general prohibition law of Oregon and thus do away with prohibition and its enforcement in and by the state of Oregon.

"The Freight Truck and Bus Bill"—Purpose: Information and recommendation for redistribution of motor vehicle highway charges; licensing and regulating contract haulers; increasing charges on certain carriers for compensation.

"School Moving Bill There"
"Bill Moving University, Normal and Law Schools Establishing Junior Colleges"—Purpose: Consolidating State University with State college at Corvallis; all normal schools at Eugene; moving Law school to Ashland and LaGrande.

"Tax and Debt Control Constitutional Amendment"—Purpose: Making the power to levy taxes and incur indebtedness in all cases subject to such limitations and control as may be provided by general law.

"Tax
