SCHOOLS READY TO OPEN SEPT. 19

Five New Teachers Join High School Faculty at Opening of Fall Term Here

BOARD RAISES TUITION

Marion Hall Faces Task of Developing Football Team From Green Material

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the new school year here a week from Monday members of the school board announced following their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening.

Tuition rates for high school students living outside of the district were raised from $20 to $30 by the board Tuesday evening. The raise brings the fee up to par with that charged the Waverly district for the students sent here. The grade school tuition fee of $20 was not increased.

Offices at the high school will be open the last three days of next week, September 14, 15, 16 and some faculty members will be present to discuss future study courses with both old and prospective students. No actual registering will be done before September 19, however, grade school buildings will not be open before that date.

No new faces will be found among the grade school faculty lists, but the many changes at the high school will bring new people to the city. The first of these, Miss Juanita Demmer of Medford, arrived here early this week. She will have charge of the Romance Language department.

Another new addition to the staff this year will be Miss Ina Clement who succeeds the former Miss Hanson as secretary. She has become familiar with her duties, having spent some time at the school last spring before the close of school.

Miss Helen Chaney of Spokane Washington, and a member of last year's class at the University of Oregon will succeed Miss Lucile Holman as English instructor.

Domestic science instruction and home economics will also be in the hands of a new arrival, Miss Ruth Morrison of Portland. She succeeds Miss Leone Elliott in this department.

Perhaps the one new faculty member who will find himself faced with the most difficult task this fall will be Marion Hall upon whose shoulders will fall the responsibility of developing a strong football team from much new material. Many members of Norval May's strong team last season have graduated and will be missing from the lineup this fall.

WALTERVILLE FOLK TO BUILD CHURCH

Work on Presbyterian Structure Started on Tuesday, Is Incorporated

Construction work on a new Presbyterian church at Waverlyville to replace the one which was destroyed by fire recently was started at that place Tuesday morning according to Rev. Ralph Clark, pastor.

According to Rev. Clark the new church will be located on the same site as the old building and will contain about the same amount of space. The design of the building will be changed considerably, however, to meet the changed requirements of the church people of that community.

The incorporation papers for the church were taken out in Salem last week by C. K. Jennings, L. D. Scrode, and D. E. Benson, as incorporators. These were filed for record in Eugene Wednesday.

Insurance in the neighborhood of $3,000 was carried on the former church building which was completely destroyed by fire which spread from a farm house and also destroyed the lodge hall.

OLD MAN FINDS FARM SUCCESS

Peach Orchard Held Profitable by Man Who Begins Over Again at 80 Years

Building up of a successful business as a farmer even after passing the 80-year mark is not an impossibility as is being demonstrated on 29 acres of land near Natron by B. S. Prather.

Selling out his ranch at Molalla three years ago Mr. Prather came to Springfield and purchased a small tract of land. The first year he planted a portion of the land to tomatoes, cantaloupes, and watermelons.

The second year Mr. Prather purchased 150 peach trees, five Golden Delicious apple trees and a dozen cherry trees which he set out a year ago last spring.

This summer the peach trees have developed and grown remarkably well, each tree bearing fruit.

Strong Tree Bearing
The peach trees are strong stock shipped here from the Stark Bros. nursery in Missouri. Every one of the 150 are living and growing. There are two varieties of them, the Red Bird and the Halberta. These are both varieties of the elberta peach. The Red Bird ripens early in the summer and the Halberta is a later variety. This peach is noted for its large size, averaging a pound each when the trees are three years old.

The trees are planted 27 feet apart in the rows and will reach each other during the next year, thinks Mr. Prather, despite the fact that he was advised to plant them only 20 feet distant. The careful working of the ground and richness of it is credited for the unusual growth.

Next year will find the trees bearing a strong crop of fruit and will begin to be worth real money to the owner, he thinks.

Apple and cherry trees grow slower, but are all looking strong and healthy on the farm.

To Expand Orchard
To-date only about ten acres of the land is in orchard, the other being cultivated for corn and watermelons. Next year the entire farm will be planted to orchard trees as the owner feels that this is the quickest way to develop a real dependable income from the farm land.

During the early years the space between the trees is planted to tomato, cantaloupe and watermelon patches. The production of these three garden products has been a lifelong business for Mr. Prather, and he has developed some very unusual varieties as well as being very successful in his ventures, but he expects to quit the melon work soon and devote his time to his orchard and strawberries.

More than 200 bushels of the Bonnie Best and Early Anne tomatoes have already been sold from the tract, and there are at least 1000 more bushels on the 2500 plants he has.

His cantaloupes are the J. H. Hales and the Eden Gem varieties and are now at their best.

LEGIONNAIRES ON WAY TO PORTLAND

Springfield Delegation Leaving Today and Friday for State Convention

NATIONAL MEET FOLLOWS

Wide Variety of Recreation and Entertainment to Be Provided for Veterans

Thousands of veterans and high officials of the Federal government are now answering the call to the Fourteenth annual American Legion convention to be held in Portland starting Monday for four days. The leaders of this vast vanguard have already reached the convention city and thousands of others are swarming across the borders of the state on all sides to take in the big meeting.

Oregon people appreciate the great opportunity to boost their state and spread good will among the visitors, and themselves are migrating to Portland today and tomorrow for the two-day state convention.

This is the first time a National Legion Convention has been held in Oregon and it is the first time that most of the communities of the state are going to be represented at such a gathering.

Springfield is no exception. Probably 20 members of the local Legion post and auxiliary will attend one or more of the sessions at both the state and national conventions. There are many others who are planning to take advantage of the state holiday proclaimed by Governor Meier to attend the big parade Tuesday.

Among those who have signified their intention of attending either the state or national convention, or both, are Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Huntley, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Caldwell, Walterville; Dr. and Mrs. W. N. Dow, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Quiney, Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Gosler, Miss Edna Swarts, Victor Fogle, Maude Bryan, Crystal Bryan, Clayton Barber, H. E. Maxey, Mrs. Grace Schall and her niece, Winifred Hagerman, both of Dexter; M. A. Pohl, Mrs. Emma Olson, Oswald Olson, H. H. Schafelberg, Milton Ashley, Walterville; Rodney William, Dexter; and Leroy Payne, Vida.

The National Convention sessions start Monday morning at 9 o'clock and close Thursday with the election of officers and a meeting of the executive committee. A complete program covering all activities of the Legion has been prepared and is printed in the last issue of the Oregon Legionnaire, a copy of which has been received by all post members.

Entertainment and recreation for all visitors has been provided by the city of Portland at a minimum of cost to the veterans. Two fees of $2 each providing tickets for all major activities in the city during the convention.

To Ben Dorris, Lane county man, goes much of the credit for the successful manner in which the convention details have been prepared. He has spent the entire past year in Portland making arrangements for this great gathering.

DR. KERR NAMED AS CHANCELLOR

Action Effective Immediately; To Move to Eugene Campus, Salary is $12,000 Yearly

Dr. William Jasper Kerr, president of the Oregon State college at Corvallis is chancellor of the Oregon system of higher education.

Selection of Dr. Kerr was made late Tuesday by members of the state board of higher education following months of investigation and discussion relative to the position. His election was made known after the board had voted 4-5 against the employment of Dr. Zook, who came here recently from the east to inspect the schools. The vote for Dr. Kerr was not made public.

The new chancellor will come to Eugene to make his home at the site of the University and will receive a salary of $12,000 annually.

He has asked that no new presidents be appointed for either the Agricultural school or for the University until the end of the year as he felt that he could handle the necessary work. His appointment is effective immediately. The Corvallis post becomes vacant with the promotion of Dr. Kerr, and the University position has already been vacated effective at the end of the year by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall who announced his resignation late Saturday as president.

Considerable interest now centers on the effect which the selection of Dr. Kerr and his moving to the University campus will have on the fate of the so-called Zorn-McPherson bill which proposes to combine, at Corvallis, the University and State college, to consolidate all normal school work at Eugene, to establish a law school at Salem, and to create junior colleges at Ashland and LaGrande.

Freshman registration at the University and State College will start Monday, September 19. Advanced students will register the latter part of the same week, and all holidays at the two schools will be uniform.

LEGION TO SEEK GREATER VOTING

Post Members to Cover Entire City in Canvass for Non-Registered Citizens

MANY FAIL TO REGISTER

Captain Appointed for Each Precinct; Drive to Follow Portland Convention

A house-to-house canvass of the entire city of Springfield, with a captain for each precinct, will be launched here soon by members of the American Legion to sign up all voters who are not now registered for the general election to be held November 8.

Final plans for the registration drive have not been made, and will probably be held up until after the national Legion convention to be in Portland next week. The drive in Springfield will probably begin the latter part of the week of September 19, according to I. M. Peterson, post adjutant and in charge of the drive.

Captains appointed for each of the precincts are W. N. Dow (1), J. M. Larson (2), Oswald Olson (3), and C. A. Swarts (4). Each of these men will name their assistants for the drive.

Each worker will carry registration cards with him and will be prepared to register voters at their homes. These cards will later be turned in at the City hall where they will be checked over by Mr. Peterson who will also maintain a registration service at the city hall until October 8, the final day on which registrations can be made.

This drive is part of a county movement being launched by W. B. Dillard, county clerk, with the assistance of local groups. Mr. Dillard estimates that there are several thousand non-registered eligible voters in the county, and probably 400 such in Springfield.

More than 400 have been registered here this year prior to and following the primary election by Mr. Peterson at the city hall.

EGG TAKING ON AT FISH RACKS

Nearly Million Eggs Taken Daily from Salmon at Commercial Fish Racks

Egg taking from salmon at the fish racks at Hendricks bridge is progressing rapidly now and nearly 100 million are being taken each day. Workmen are also saving all of the fish carcass this year to be used as food for the young fish at the salmon hatchery and at the trout hatchery.

The completion of the cold storage room at the game hatchery provides ample space for storage of all available salmon flesh which is ground and fed to the small salmon later in the year. Only one Indian family has arrived at the hatchery so far to dry salmon for winter food. Usually there is a large influx of these visitors from across the McKenzie pass.

Taking of these eggs is a technical problem requiring considerable skill. Only a limited number of the salmon are fully ready to spawn each day and the others are kept penned until they are 'ripe' as the workmen at the racks speak of them. The eggs are taken in milk cans to the hatchery where they are hatched by artificial heat. This requires 5000 units of heat. If the water is kept 50 degrees it usually requires about 45 days for this process.

The young salmon are then kept in pens at the hatchery and fed until there is sufficient food and chances are quite good that the young salmon will reach the ocean. They are fed on the old salmon and are usually liberated into the river in June. The average size of the fish is three inches. On the coast the fish grow faster because the water is not so cold as that in the McKenzie river.

After spending several years in the Pacific ocean the salmon return to the stream where they were hatched to spawn. Many of them are caught in the fish racks and the process is repeated again. Egg taking has been going on for days now. How much longer this will require depends on the rapidity with which the eggs ripen.
