Clothes and Dog Tied to Post Lead to Investigation Ending This Morning

The lifeless body of D. C. England, former resident of Springfield. now of 761 East Twentieth street in Eugene, was taken from the waters of the millrace at Judkins point at 10:45 this morning by four men, carrying on a search which began late last night when clues indicat ing a drowning were found and his failure to appear became alarming. He wore a bathing suit.

Clothes hanging on a nail at the Judkins point swimming hole and a small dog tied to the post, but no swimmer in sight, caused the first suspicion of an accident. The clothes were all dry,but the shoes and socks were reported to have been wringing wet.

Some change, a wateh, and initials in his hatband, afforded the fues as to the identity of the owner.

Officers who then began investigating questioned Mrs. England and found that her husband had left his home at 11 o'clock to go to the University library for a book, and a walk as had been his habit for
