

HEART FAILURE TAKES W. CLOVER

Hunting Trip in Eastern Oregon Proves Fatal to Springfield Barber Sunday

ALL-NIGHT SEARCH MADE

Large Crowd of Friends Fill Chapel for Funeral Service on Wednesday

A cloud of gloom quickly spread over residents of the city of Springfield Monday morning, as telegrams told of the death from heart failure of one of its best known residents, Wayne Clover, while on a hunting trip in Eastern Oregon. The suddenness of the passing coupled with the fact that the party had left Springfield on the trip added to the sorrow which the announcement received here.

Mr. Clover had left Springfield Sunday morning with his wife, P. Clover, uncle, Virgil Clover, another hunter from the McKenzie valley. They drove over near Prineville where they established a camp and prepared themselves a meal. It was not dusk yet so the men decided to hunt for a short while. It was after a short hike into the woods that Mr. Clover complained of feeling ill and decided to return to camp while the others went on.

Upon their return to camp he was missing and a search was started with flashlights. When the batteries failed they drove to Redmond for more and enlisted the aid of a state police officer and together the search was continued until early Monday morning when the body was found 7 1/2 miles from the trail a short distance from camp. It apparently had died Sunday evening.

Charles Poole drove across the mountains Monday and brought the remains to the Springfield Foote-Gray-Bartholomew chapel late that evening.

Wayne Clover was born at Harrisburg, Oregon, on May 29, 1888, and was 44 years old at the time of his death. He moved to Mabel in 1918 where he was store manager for the Coast Range Lumber company for several years. He moved to Springfield in 1924 where he has been engaged in the barber business.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Daisy Clover; one daughter, June; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Clover; two sisters, Mrs. Gerne Wilkinson, Springfield, and Mrs. Herbert Cox, Eugene; and many other more distant relatives.

Funeral services, which were held at the chapel here Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, were the largest held here in many years. Every available seat and all standing room in the chapel was occupied and more than 100 stood on the sidewalk outside. Beautiful floral tributes banked the casket on all sides. Business houses were closed during the service.

Rev. Dean C. Poindexter, pastor of the Methodist church preached the funeral sermon and Paul Potter sang two vocal solos. Interment was made in the I. O. O. F. cemetery at Coburg.

Prized Hand-Woven Table Linen Motive for Interesting Gathering Wednesday

A hand-woven tablecloth more than 75 years old and silverware and dishes imported from Sweden served as the setting for a unique dinner held here Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Emma Olson for a few of her friends.

According to old Scandinavian custom the tablecloth had been handed down from generation to generation, being used only at weddings and funerals. Mrs. Olson having received it from her mother when she was married. The last time it had been used as at the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Bruce Lansberry. Feasts were frequently held following the burial of relatives in the Scandinavian countries and the tablecloth was also used at such times.

Feeling that she might not use the tablecloth again during her lifetime in the usual manner in which it had been intended Mrs. Olson decided upon the dinner at her home.

Those attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Schaffgen and daughters, Phyllis and Elaine, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Pollard, and Oswald Olson and his mother.

SCHOOL BUDGET TOTAL REDUCED

Greatest Saving Is Made in Teacher Salary Reductions Ordered Last Spring

INDEBTEDNESS INCREASE

Meeting to Consider Budget Called for High School on November 16, 7:30 P. M.

The school budget for the year June 30, 1932 to June 30, 1933, for school district number 19 will be $1,133,26 less next year than it was during the past twelve months if the budget adopted by the school board and budget committee here Monday night is adopted. A regular school meeting to consider the budget and to hear arguments for and against the budget has been called at the high school on November 16, at 7:30 p. m.

Savings effected at previous meetings of the school board when drastic cuts in various appropriations and a 10 per cent cut in teacher salaries accounts for the reduced budget.

The total amount to be raised by taxation will be $33,330.74 this year, or approximately $3,000 more this year. Part of this is accounted for in the lower estimated receipts and the balance in unpaid taxes.

Revenues Are Less
The estimated revenues for the present year are $15,750 or $250 less than last year.

Bonded indebtedness of the district was decreased by $1000 from $70,000 leaving an unpaid balance of $69,000, but the warrant indebtedness climbed to $7,012.91 this year whereas there was no warrant debt in the last budget.

Each of the operation items of expenditure in the new budget show a substantial decrease. General control was reduced from $655 to $498; teaching instruction from $29,449 to $26,758.75; teacher supervision from $5585 to $4970; operation of plants from $4930 to $4391.50.

Debt Increases
The debt service item increased from $5,855 to $7,400. This is largely accounted for by the fact that the district has $3300 of bonds to pay off this year instead of only $1500 as was the case last year.

Fixed charges remain the same, $200. The only other two items to show increases over the past year is the auxiliary agencies item which jumped from $180 to $230, and the emergency fund which was increased from $1500 to $2732.49.

A complete copy of the school budget as prepared by the committee appears elsewhere in this paper.

Members of the budget committee are the school directors, F. B. Flanery, chairman, Dr. W. H. Pollard, E. C. Stuart, C. F. Barber, clerk, Wm. G. Hughes, W. C. Wright, and H. O. Dibblee.

Much Food Preserved
The summer was given over—with the exception of vacation camp—to emergency work. The chief activity along this line was that of assisting in the preparation of the plan and the schedule for the portable cannery. This plan was written by the County Agent and the home demonstration agent. Approximately 25,000 cans of fruits and vegetables were canned during September and August. Demonstrations of seven home evaporating driers were given and over 400 people called in person at the extension office to get help in preservation. Besides this the driers were on display at Cottage Grove where over fifty called to see them. The granges worked in cooperation with the agent in affecting much food preservation including the idea of drying prunes for emergency work. Mr. Crowe secured the
