

REACH SUMMIT ON SKI OUTING

Harold Soleim and Harry Wright Spend Week at Cabins on Highway

FORTY FOOT DRIFTS SEEN

Four Feet From Pole Bridge Within Three

Winter sports fans who skied across country last week another record hung up for them to shoot at in the nature of a ski trip from Lost Creek ranch to the summit of the McKenzie pass and to spend one whole week making this trip and taking snow readings at each mile post.

When Harry Wright, Springfield, and Harold Soleim, state highway employee, at McKenzie bridge, reached Lost Creek ranch last Sunday afternoon they had completed just such a trip and brought back with them many valuable observations of conditions on the high Cascades at this season of the year.

Pass Heavily Blanketed
Indications that the McKenzie pass opening will be considerably delayed next spring were contained in their findings which showed that huge drifts of hard snow 15 to 40 feet deep now lay across the highway where it winds its way across the lava beds.

Heavy snowfalls and storms which raged across the mountain during the week made the outing exceptionally difficult. These also made the trip more valuable as a fact finding expedition.

Leaving Lost Creek ranch on Monday morning, January 23, Wright and Soleim spent nine and one-half hours making the trip to Pole Bridge shelter where they found the cabin door snowed in and snow banks reaching to the eaves on each side of the building. Nine feet of snow were found on the roof and the chimney had been smashed by the weight.

Nine Feet on Roof
On the way up they made careful readings of each mile and found several large drifts across Dead Horse grade. The snow was very soft and skiing was difficult.

The next day, Tuesday, they shoveled the snow from the roof, finding four feet on the ridge, nine feet on the east side and eight feet on the west side.

Snow fences at West lava were the two decided to remain indoors Wednesday and Thursday. They recorded 10 inches of new snow Wednesday and 20 inches the following day. Thursday was very stormy and the snow became very wet in the evening causing it to settle and pack somewhat.

Shelter Almost Crushed
Friday morning they awoke to find it very windy. They put on their skis and started for the West Lava cabin which they found almost crushed by the weight of the snow on the roof. Outside they found 12 to 14 inches of snow on the level places where the wind could sweep it without making drifts.

The wind quit blowing during the afternoon but the going was difficult as some of the drifts were hard and others soft and the snow between them wet.

Snow Fences Are Aid
Snow fences at West lava were heavily covered by the large drifts which had been formed back of them. They proved, however, that they are advantageous in preventing cuts from filling in quickly.

There was a nine-foot drift over West Lava cabin and the roof of the cabin was sagging almost to the breaking point from the heavy wet snow.

Saturday measurements were taken on up to the summit. A heavy wind and storm was raging which they had to fight going in both directions. It was here where they found the heaviest blanket of large drifts some as deep as 40 feet.

Shovel Snow from Roofs
Returning to the cabin they shoveled the snow from the roof and went down to Pole Bridge cabin where they found four feet of new snow on the roof which had fallen since Wednesday. They removed this again and Sunday returned to Lost Creek ranch taking a new set of readings on the descent which took only five and one-half hours.

Five feet of snow fell while they were on the mountains and their readings show an average of more than two feet more snow on the down trip than the first readings made going up.

All the readings taken by Wright and Soleim are now in the possession of Raymond Walsh, resident highway engineer, in Eugene. He also has a diary of the trip which the two wrote. The highway department in no way sponsored the trip, declared Walsh Wednesday, but they are interested in the findings of the party. Measurements were taken at the mileposts and in the center of the road.

There is now four feet of snow at Lost Creek ranch and two feet at McKenzie bridge.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR LIBRARY OUT

Civic Institution Continues to Gain Popularity Despite Curtailed Service

An increasing use of the facilities of Springfield's public library is noted in the annual report released this week by Mrs. David Saltman, librarian.

The report shows that a total of 9187 volumes have been loaned out during the past year. This includes 8798 books of fiction and 383 non-fiction works.

A total of 1496 magazines have been loaned.

New books added to the library total 132 volumes. An additional increase was made to the library in the form of a donation of a set of commercial law books for reference purposes. This was given by Mrs. Eliza Winzenreid.

Mrs. Milton V. Walker and Mrs. Walter Scott were added to the membership of the library board the first of the year. Mrs. N. W. Emory is president of the board. Other members are Mrs. L. K. Page, Mrs. C. E. Wheaton, Mrs. William Rouse and Mrs. E. E. Potter.

The library was recently moved from Second and Main streets to the Winzenreid building between Fourth and Fifth. The building is open only two days a week, Wednesdays and Saturdays; during the hours from 2:00 until 5:00 and from 7:00 until 9:00.

Unemployment, which means a great amount of leisure time for many people, has caused a great increase in the use of the library. Mrs. Saltman. This increase in the number of patrons coupled with the elimination of one of the open days made necessary by financial conditions, means that all these people have to be served during two days.

The chamber authorized the secretary to draw up resolutions and forward them to the newly organized rural telephone association and to the Lane county legislators.

The Chamber of Commerce concurred in a resolution by the Tillamook Chamber of Commerce asking the congress to pass legislation authorizing lower interest rates on farm loans held by the Federal Land banks. There are two farm loan associations in Lane county and many federal land bank mortgages are held on property here.

The chamber received communications and copies of a bill authorizing chain banks in Oregon sent by Representative McCormack and Huntington. Both said that if chain bank legislation were passed they would try to make the law suited to the Springfield situation.

A highway committee consisting of Harry Stewart, John Pyle and M. B. Huntly was appointed.

U.H.S. TAKES FAST GAME FROM S.H.S.

Springfield Team to Invade Eugene Saturday for St. Mary's Contest

PLAN LOWELL TRIP NEXT

Local School Has Five "A" League Games Scheduled; Stays in Fourth Place

Springfield high school basketball players lost a very interesting game to University High school on the local floor Tuesday evening and with it went the hope of crowding the campus school out of third place in the percentage column.

The U. H. S. regulars were too much for Springfield's team, and piled up an early lead which caused Jean Eberhart, their coach to pull out his first string men and send in a second squad. With these players on the floor Springfield launched a furious drive which moved the score from 19-18 at the quarter to 27-24 for the finish.

Lineups for the game were:

U. H. S. Springfield
Graham 9 F 9 Hartman
Robbins 4 F 10 Hawke
Igoe 3 C 5 Thurman
Morris 2 G 5 Squires
Mans 5 G 5 Wilson

Subs: U. H. S.—Tingle, Ray Soward, Booth, Stafford 5, Rex Soward, McKenzie 1, Carson, Ray Murray—Referee.

Springfield now has a percentage of 250 with one victory and three defeats so far this season. The locals have five games yet to play on their "A" league, schedule and have a chance to defeat Cottage Grove again and possibly Roseburg here. The Roseburg boys are said to play a winning game on their own floor and stopped U. H. S. when they invaded the Douglas county city. The other two games with Eugene high will be interesting but it is improbable that Springfield will garner a victory in either of these.

The percentage column for each team in the league today is:

Team	W	L	Pct
Eugene	3	0	100
Roseburg	2	1	667
University High	3	2	600
Springfield	1	3	250
Cottage Grove	0	4	000

The team with the highest percentage will represent this district in the state tournament to be held in Salem about the middle of March.

Another game which will be interesting to watch is the one between Springfield and St. Mary's to be played on the Eugene school's floor Saturday night. St. Mary's has already defeated the Springfield team here and nosed out a victory last Saturday night over the U. H. S. team at McArthur court. St. Mary's is out after the "B" league championship and from her performance so far this season she could become a leading contender for the "A" league championship as well.

Next Tuesday the Springfield field will travel to Lowell for a return game, and on Friday will entertain the Cottage Grove boys here.

STREET DEPARTMENT CLEANING OUT SEWERS

MANY PLAN TRIP TO SNOW SUNDAY

Eugene Junior Chamber of Commerce Outing to Bring Fifty to Mountains

Sunday will be another big day in the mountains as many people drive up there to participate in the snow sports. Members of the Eugene Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold their big winter outing at Lost Creek ranch Saturday night and Sunday and approximately 50 are expected to attend in that party.

Many Springfield people have also indicated their intentions of driving up to the snow sports Sunday.

Last Sunday a total of 65 automobiles were counted at Lost Creek. The road was quite narrow. Passing vehicles ahead usually meant getting stuck in the snow last Sunday as the road was not opened wide enough for two traffic lanes. There was also a shortage of parking space at the ranch.

Chains are advisable in making the drive up the river. The road is in good condition, but from Blue River bridge on up there will be considerable snow which reaches a depth of four feet at Lost Creek ranch and two feet at McKenzie Bridge. These measurements are snow depths on open level ground, not the height of the banks along the sides of the road.

Observers who were to have held a ski trip last Sunday gave up the idea when they were unable to drive beyond the Lost Creek store and had to hike and pack their supplies into the cabins about two miles away. None of the party made the trip over to the bowl which is three and one-half miles beyond the store, and which would have to be covered on foot or with ski.

The Observers will hold their annual winter snow carnival and outing on the upper McKenzie a week from Sunday.

CHARLES W. ALLEN PASSES AT VIDA

Prominent Lane County Resident Succumbs to Illness; Funeral Held Monday

Charles W. Allen, one of the McKenzie valley's most outstanding residents, died at his home at Vida last Thursday evening following a lingering illness of several months duration.

Born at Roxbury, New York, in September 1862, Mr. Allen lived there for eight years until he moved with his parents to Scranton, Pennsylvania where he graduated from high school.

He attended Keystone Military academy for his preparatory work and graduated from Bucknell college in 1882 with a bachelor of arts in languages degree. While there he acted as captain and coach of the football team which was undefeated.

With the opening of the University of Chicago in 1893 he entered the Divinity school, also doing post-graduate work and playing football. Upon graduation here he became professor of English and athletic director at Alma college, Alma, Michigan. He later taught ancient languages and coached at Whitman college, Walla Walla, Washington.

In 1904 together with W. D. Barnes, later judge of Deschutes county, Mr. Allen established White Rock ranch on the Deschutes river. He later took up lands in the forest reserve and established a ranch known as Allendale. This he sold in 1919 to settle near Vida where he developed a fine herd of Jersey cattle.

Mr. Allen married Miss Florence E. Stabury, a native of Vermont and teacher in a private seminary, on February 14, 1909.

Survivors of Mr. Allen include his widow, and the following children: John Allen, Metola Allen of Eugene; and Louise Allen of San Diego, California; and several brothers and sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Travis, Mrs. Minnie Wagner and Mrs. Sara Beideman of Scranton, Pennsylvania, and George Caswell of Binghamton, New York.

While at the University of Chicago Mr. Allen became a lifelong friend of Alonza Stagg, athletic director and was given All-American football honors one year.

In Lane county he was president of the county fair board and active in many other community enterprises. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge, a vice-president of the University of Oregon club, and a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Veatch chapel in Eugene at 2 o'clock. Rev. Bryant Wilson, pastor of the Baptist church of Eugene officiated and the body was sent to Portland for cremation.
