

MOUNTED POLICE TELLS LIFE STORY

Canada Unemployment Plan Explained; Many Curios Placed on Exhibit

A crowded auditorium, filled largely with school children and some of their parents gathered at the Methodist church Tuesday evening to view the unusual exhibit of skins, garments, and implements of warfare and defense which Major G. H. Schoof, Alberta, Canada, displayed.

Major Schoof is a former member of the Canadian Mounted police, having seen active service in the slave trade disturbance in Africa, in Mexico, and in the Far North, in the Peace River county. His interesting collection of mementos were gathered during his travels to the different parts of the country.

Among his exhibits were the hide of an alligator which was 12 feet long, the skin from the largest Polar bear ever killed which stood 10 feet high when alive, a leather suit made for him by an Indian squaw, and numerous other robes and blankets also suits of armor and fighting weapons of the various countries.

One of the most interesting parts of the lecture and exhibition was a demonstration of the handling of a sword while on a horse. "I do not believe in war, and I do not want the boys listening to me to think I paint a glamorous picture of life as a soldier," said the speaker. "Our work requires that we master the tricks of crooks and killers, and become just a bit more proficient with their type of weapon than they are," he concluded.

No Use for Tobacco

The Major is an ardent enthusiast for the outdoor life. He maintains a camp for young boys in Canada where the only restriction to admittance is smoking. He cited his experience during a campaign in Africa when the sun beat down on his men and many died on the march. Everyone who perished did so because he had reduced his resistance to a point below that which was needed to carry on under the strain of the heat.

Another interesting statement made by the speaker was that regarding the unemployment situation in Canada. In Alberta there are few unemployed single men wandering the streets of the cities. The government early adopted a plan of placing these men on farms, where they could find homes, at the same time paying each man $5 monthly for clothing, and the farmer $5 monthly for taking the man into his family group.

Now Senator Clark

Bennett C. Clark, (D) Missouri, son of a former Speaker, Champ Clark, was sworn in as the new Senator from his state, February 3, succeeding Sen. Hawes, and thus gaining seniority.

Girls' Carnival Is Well Received

Many Enjoy Carnival Atmosphere at High School Friday; Receipts Please

An auditorium filled with students and townspeople greeted the Springfield high school students Friday evening when they presented their big carnival for the benefit of the Girls League treasury. Students opened the evening with a group of entertainment features in the auditorium which was followed with a number of side show attractions in the various classrooms.

Featured on the program in the auditorium were "Magic Pills," a skit by the high school students; novelty trio, Jack Williams, Morris Stewart, and LaMar Brattain; tap dances by Bobby Rebhan; novelty number by Wilma Lewis, vocalist; and hula hula dance by Miss Patricia Anderson. Miss Ann Vogel, Girls League advisor, was in charge of the entertainment.

Receipts from the evening's entertainment totaled about $40. This will be used to meet expenses of the Girls League and to build showers and a dressing room for the girls in the basement.

SCOUTS SEEKING NEW PLACE FOR MEETINGS

Springfield Boy Scouts are looking for a new place to hold their meetings. The boys are meeting at the Methodist church at the present time but would like to have a room of their own some place where they would tack up their banners, pennants, and other handwork, making permanent displays which would not have to be taken down each week, said Glen Martin, scoutmaster.

The boys are now working on tests, and are practicing stunts which they will contribute in the annual Boy Scout round-up to be held at McArthur court in April.

POISON DISTRIBUTED TO LOCAL FARMERS

O. S. Fletcher, county agricultural agent, spent Wednesday calling on farmers in the area east of Springfield between Jasper and Lowell leaving poison for squirrel killing projects. Farmers in this particular area have been conducting an eradication campaign for the past three years with a great deal of success.

FEW CHANGES IN INDUSTRY REPORT

Large Engineering Contracts Let; Crude Oil Advances Slowly in Month

Industrial activity of the Twelfth District was about the same in January as in December. This lack of change in the volume of production conforms with the seasonal expectation. Employment and payrolls decreased somewhat and trade activity declined.

Heavier than usual snow and rainfall during January in most parts of the District improved the prospects for adequate irrigation water and soil moisture to meet ordinary needs of agriculture in the coming season. Unusually cold weather together with driving storms damaged certain crops, however principally wheat in the Pacific Northwest and citrus fruits in southern California. Livestock generally were kept in good condition by the use of supplemental feeds, but the growth of early lambs in California was hampered to some extent by poor feeding conditions resulting from freezing temperatures. The volume of agricultural products marketed was smaller in January, 1933, than a year earlier and prices were much lower.

Lumber Pickup Steady

Crude oil production, after decreasing considerably in late January and the first few days of February, increased in the two weeks ending February 18. New orders for lumber continued larger than production and output of lumber declined less than seasonally during January. The value of engineering contracts awarded increased greatly during January, reflecting principally construction to be undertaken by the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California. Building permits also increased in value because of the inclusion of permits for construction on the Golden Gate Bridge, contracts for which were awarded last November.

Electric power production, which affords a measure of activity in a wide variety of industries in the Twelfth District, is estimated to have changed little during January, after seasonal adjustment.

Merchandise Business Hit

Considerably more than the usual post-Christmas drop in department store sales took place in January this year. Loadings of freight on District railroads did not change, but intercoastal traffic declined, allowance being made for seasonal factors.

Several District banks failed during the last half of January and the first half of February, the most important of which were in California. These suspensions were accompanied by a substantial increase in demand for currency, especially during the week ended January 25, when banks found it necessary to increase their use of Reserve Bank credit considerably. In the following three weeks local banks recalled fairly large amounts of balances previously kept on deposit in New York. This inflow of funds enabled banks not only to meet additional withdrawals of currency and to reduce their borrowings from the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, but also permitted them to build up their reserve deposits to the highest level in more than a year, thus further increasing their liquidity.

It was also decided to continue the hot lunches at the school at least through the month of March. Preceding the business meeting a covered dish luncheon was held at the home of Mrs. W. O. Burch, president.

A Pole-Cat Pet

Jensen-Yakui Matched Again

Weekly Card Set to Friday Night; Indian Seeks to Regain Championship

Another full armory is in store for Herb Owen, matchmaker for the Eugene Wrestling Commission Friday night when he presents: two of his best drawing cards in a match.

It will be more than a match, however, it will be a re-match for both Yakui Joe and Thor Jensen as they recently were billed on a main event card. And it will probably be a mean match.

When the Sonora Indian returned to Oregon recently he brought with him the middleweight championship. Jensen won his match with the Indian and claims the championship. Yakui Joe says he was tricked into losing the match, that he can handle Jensen, and that he needs to retain the championship to fulfill engagements in other parts of the country. So you see there is really quite a bit at stake for each player.

Art O'Reilly will return to the ring after an absence to tangle with Danny Buckley of Los Angeles in the special event.
