HOW ABOUT YOUR CHILD?

One child in every five has defective vision. In most cases these children do not know that their vision is at fault and handicapping them. They find it hard to study. They have frequent headaches. They are graded as dull. Naturally they do not get ahead as well as their parents and teachers would like to have them. So it is wise to get their eyes tested and know, not guess, their true condition.

The outlook as this is written is that any measure for direct farm relief and in aid of the unemployed will not be acted upon until Congress convenes again in April. The president and his advisers are working hard and carefully on the form of legislation they want in both those matters.

The belief that some plan for taking so-called marginal lands out of cultivation will be adopted, is growing. Just how far this will follow the domestic allotment plan which was considered by the last Congress remains to be seen.

Mr. Roosevelt's program for unemployment relief is still in the shaping. It is understood that it will involve something like military enlistment of the unemployed, or of to be put to work on public improvements, such as waterpower dams, flood protection works and
