

OREGON BUTTER GAINS QUALITY

Check of Four-Years' Scoring at Agricultural College Shows Enhanced Values

A four-year report of butter scoring and analysis service carried on by the department of dairy husbandry at Oregon State college, has just been issued showing that quality improvement has been so marked over the period that the increase in market value because of higher grade amounts to more than $88,000 for the volume of butter represented by the scorings during the past year.

A total of 438 samples of butter from 64 Oregon creameries were received and scored during the past year, the report shows. These creameries received milk and cream from approximately 17,500 producers and made 20,000,000 pounds of butter. The report is issued by Dr. G. H. Wilster, head of dairy manufacturing.

Low Grades Drop Out

Records of the grades made during the four years show that the percentage of extra grade butter of 92 score and above has been more than tripled during the period, while the percentage of butter scoring below 90 has been more than cut in half. The percentage of butter scoring 91 or better has been increased more than 50 per cent. High quality is vital to an expanding export trade, dairy leaders point out.

Figuring the volume of production from the 64 creameries—amounting to 70 per cent of the total output—at current market prices for the various grades, the 20 million pounds produced last year brought $88,080 more than it would have with grades in the proportion they were during the first year the scoring service was offered. While not all Oregon butter is sold on such close grading markets, most of the butter exported to other states is.

Butter Keeps Better

Keeping quality of Oregon butter has been bettered nearly as much during the period, the report shows. During the first two years of the scoring the average grade deteriorated from .82 to .92 of a point during a 30-day storage period. For the fourth year the deterioration averaged slightly more than a half point.

Improvement in the past has been chiefly through closer cream grading and better manufacturing methods as recommended from results of the scoring and analysis. Additional improvement is possible, believes Dr. Wilster, and will come through better care of the cream on the farm, more frequent deliveries of cream, overcoming "feed" flavors and poor texture, and further betterment of manufacturing methods.

C. E. Workers Complete Plans

Winner of Lane Union Banner Known Tonight; Springfield Expects Victory

By Endeavor time Sunday night, 6:30, Springfield Christian Endeavorers will know whether or not their society will carry in the Oregon state Christian Endeavor parade a week from Saturday the Lane union banner which they carried home from the county C. E. convention at Waverlyville a few weeks ago. It is certain that William Cox, president of the society, will receive the C. E. pin offered as a prize by Lane union to each society registering a hundred percent of its active members or over.

The state convention "flag race" for the highest percentage of registrations ends tonight at midnight. Results will probably be announced at the special executive session of Lane union called for 3 p. m. Sunday, April 13, in the chapel of the Central Presbyterian church in Eugene.

To make Lane county Endeavorers "union-conscious," now that the competition between societies is over, is the purpose of the special executive committee meeting. William Cox, who is county Tenth Legion superintendent as well as president of the local Christian Endeavor, and Mary Hadley, who is county prayer meeting superintendent, are planning to attend. Every society president, adviser, and superintendent in Lane union is being urged to go. Officers of Lane union will also be present.

Stunts to be put on by the union at the convention will be worked out, and Lane songs learned. Plans for decorated floats to be entered in the parade by different societies will be discussed.

It is probable that the Lane union winners of the convention poster contest will also be announced at this meeting.

The executive session is to begin promptly at 3 o'clock, in order for most of the executive committee members to carry back to their home societies that evening what they learn in the afternoon. It is expected that forty or more young people will attend this special meeting.

Petitions put in circulation in Cottage Grove have many signers. On every hand expressions were heard against building an expensive secondary highway through the sparsely settled hill territory south of Alder street in Eugene. It is said that when beer goes on sale New York will see a celebration similar to that seen on Armistice Day at the end of the World war.

Grass was seen growing on a downtown street the other day and a newspaper commented upon the fact.

Very truly yours, Nelsons' Leghorn Farm, By Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Nelson.

YOUNGBERRY FAVORED BY O. S. C. SCIENTISTS

The Youngberry, the rather new popular small fruit which was developed by crossing a southern dewberry with the Phenominal berry (similar to a large loganberry), has proved more hardy in Oregon than the logan and may have a real place in Oregon berry industry, according to a new circular of information just issued by the Oregon Experiment station dealing with this berry.

A fairly large trial acreage with some commercial plantings are already in production in Oregon, resulting in many inquiries regarding the possibilities of the new berry in Oregon. The new circular gives a brief history of its origin and considerable information on planting, training and caring for the Youngberries.

The fruit is large, wine red in color, less acid than the logan and thus more popular for fresh use, processes well in the freezing and preserving trade, and is popular with pie makers. While preliminary observation indicates it is hardy and free from serious diseases and pests, much more study is needed concerning these and other points, the circular points out.

The Waverlyville Christian church gave a fine program in the evening with about 90 in attendance. Mrs. Grant Lattin conducted preaching service at the close of the program.

Fish Bite Best In Coast Water

Season Opening Slow as Cold Weather Returns; Many Eye 'Big Fish' Prize

The sudden change in the weather for the opening of the fishing season Saturday and Sunday did not prove very beneficial to fishermen on the Willamette and McKenzie rivers although many fishermen undaunted by the rain and threats of snow sought out their favorite spots and spent the day of days playing with their tackle.

Few good catches were reported from either of the two rivers the first three days of the season, even by expert fishermen who know the streams. Those who invaded the coast streams had better luck, however, and many of these persons brought home good strings of fish.

One party consisting of Matt Hart, Ken Neff and Hal Bryan report catching a 20 1/2 inch redeid in the Willamette river Saturday.

More than 20 boats were counted on the upper McKenzie during a half-hour drive Sunday. Sergeant Mulkey of the state police department had checked 69 fishing licenses by 2:30 that day being ordered here from Salem to watch fishermen on the McKenzie river.

So many stories about experiences have been related here lately that it is difficult to ascertain which are true and which products of the imagination. Dr. W. N. Dow tells one which he vows is the truth: It relates how he caught a large fish on the Siuslaw Sunday and placed it in his basket. While fishing for another fish jumped out of the basket into the water and swam away. He was fishing with Larson Wright.

Among the fishermen who went out for the season opening are Dr. W. C. Rehban, M. R. Irish and Veltie Pruitt on the lower McKenzie Saturday; I. M. Peterson and W. P. Tyson on Bear Creek in the Cloverdale country; Al Pohl and M. B. Huntly on the McKenzie; Dr. M. V. Walker and John Henderon on the Siuslaw; W. K. Barnell, H. O. Dibbles, and H. E. Maxey on the upper Siuslaw; and John Anderson and Ray Nott on the McKenzie.

The warmer weather of the past few days has cheered up river fishermen and they expect better luck in their favorite riffles soon.

Navy Man Meets Indian Tonight

Otis Clingman Set to Wrestle Yaqui Joe; Heibert Meets Tony Mareno

Another wrestler has shown up in Eugene who seems to be going out to defeat all of the boys in the game. He is none other than Otis Clingman, champion wrestler of the navy, who has overnight won the plaudits of the fans.

This man last week managed to emerge victor over Rex Mobley, and tonight is to have an opportunity to wrestle with an Indian, Yaqui Joe, who has a reputation for inflicting punishment with his legs. The match will be held at the Eugene Armory.

Harold Heibert of the St. Helens logger, and Tony Mareno, newcomer from the southland, will meet in the special event.

Business Visitor—

Mrs. Beatrice Shandoin, Corvallis, organizer for the Neighbors of Woodcraft, was here Tuesday to visit with Mrs. Marion Adams and confer on plans regarding the state convention to be held at Roseburg on May 15-16. Luck in their favorite riffles soon.
