The Track Was Gone—They Stopped the Train

The cloud which opened the heavens in a downpour that washed out a railroad track had a silver lining for these six youngsters, all members of an Orphan's Home at Passaic, N. J. ... Seeing the embankment give way, from their windows, they rushed down the track waving raincoats and flagging a commuters' train carrying 500 people, the engine stopping 50 feet from the racing waters. ... Their reward is to be Babe Ruth's guests at a ball game and a trip to the World's Fair at Chicago. ... the Erie R.R. They are; bottom row (left to right), Frank Mazzola, Douglas Fleming, Michael Kuzola; at top, John Murdock, Jacob Merinizek and Rudolph Barsche.

This Week in WASHINGTON
BY RADFORD MOLEY
ADVISOR, MONTAG RANGE

Washington, D. C.—The trend of the Roosevelt policies, if not their ultimate outcome, is beginning to become clear. Everybody has been asking what the "New Deal" is going to be like. Well, the preliminary shuffling of the pack has been finished and enough cards have been dealt to give a pretty good idea of what the rest will be.

Summarizing the opinions of several of the men closest to the president, it can be said quite definitely that the program on which the administration has embarked is one of complete social reorganization. It is based upon what is, so far as practical applications are concerned, a new idea in American history. It involves new conceptions of the relation of worker to employer, of debtor to creditor, of the government to the people.

The theory of the "New Deal" is that the day of individualism has passed; that under the old American system some people got too much and some too little out of life; that it is the government's business, as Secretary Ickes of the Interior Department put it, to set up a social control over the sources from which men get their living, to make it certain that all do get a living.

A Nation of Equals
The "New Deal," according to Professor Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state and the president's closest confidant, conceives the relationship of worker and employer, debtor and creditor, government and people, as a common effort to unify the people of the nation into a genuine nation of equals. Mr. Moley refers to America's earlier economic development as having been actuated by what he calls a wrong concept of the right of one man to profit at the expense of another.

Mr. Moley is the leader of the so-called "brain trust" of the administration. He spends nearly every forenoon with the president, and so may be regarded as voicing, in large part, the president's own ideas. Another member of the "brain trust," Professor Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, said the other day that what happened last fall was not so much an election as a revolution. And the first purpose in the measures which the president has put through, Mr. Tugwell holds, is to make the government a more flexible instrument for translating the wishes of the people into action.

Other Cabinet Interpretations
Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture talks of the "New Deal" as "social justice," and an effort to bring about cooperation between the government and the people to make the new social order work in a precise and well-balanced way. Secretary Roper of commerce used similar language recently when he spoke of government collaborating with business in essential planning, and in national controls of private endeavor, to the end of greater justice and broader happiness for all.

Assistant Secretary Dickinson of commerce, who has had a great deal to do with the railroad bill, amplifies this. Denying that the purpose of the "New Deal" is to take labor and the farmer wards of the nation, he says they should be given the same protection granted to "those on the top." And Henry Morgenthau, Jr., head of the Farm Board, declares that the "New Deal" involves the readjustment of old ideas of commercial freedom and freedom of contract.

Evidence that the president's program and policies, as thus disclosed, are receiving overwhelming support from the mass of the people of the United States leads many observers here to the belief that, if the plans laid down work out in practice, as well as they do in theory, the "New Deal" will be recognized generally, a few years from now, as a genuine revolution. American style.

President's Going Swimming
Very much depends upon President Roosevelt's continued good health. Senator Copeland of New York, who is a physician, looked him over the other day and reported Mr. Roosevelt "One hundred percent." Because of his physical affliction, the loss of the use of his legs from infantile paralysis in 1921, when he was 39 years old, the only form of exercise which the president can indulge in is swimming. The new swimming pool in the White House basement, paid for by subscriptions raised by several newspapers, is about completed and soon the president will be able to take the daily exercise which all of his predecessors have found necessary to keep them fit for their arduous duties.

Mr. Roosevelt has the "happy faculty of being able to shake off all worries when he goes to bed."

Washington Shorts
The appointment of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College, to head up the Muscle Shoals administration, is not merely another case of a "professor" being put into an executive job. Dr. Morgan is one of the most experienced and practical engineers in America, having made a great reputation in hydroelectric engineering and flood control before he was called upon to succeed Senator Fess as president of Antioch.

Whether Bernard M. Baruch actually heads up the industrial control organization of the government or not, evidence of his influence increases daily. His close associate, General Hugh S. Johnson, is now talked about for the post and certainly will have some sort of administrative post, most people think.

Former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, who was a strong contender for the Republican nomination for president in 1928, is the most prominent Republican to date to cooperate with this Democratic administration. Gov. Lowden has been brought in as an adviser in Farm Relief matters, and is thoroughly in sympathy with the program.

Silver advocates are rejoicing at the outcome of recent conferences between Secretary Hull and delegates from silver nations to the economic conference at London. There is said to be full agreement on remonetizing silver.

PRISCILLA MAKES PLANS FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

Members of the Priscilla club will hold their picnic at Fall Creek on June 22 it was decided last Thursday afternoon at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. John Tomseth. Each member of the club will be invited to bring one guest with her for the affair.

CHILDREN ENJOY PARTY OF KENSINGTON CLUB

Children of members of the Kensington club were guests of honor at the club meeting held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. E. Buell with Miss Evelyn Buell as assistant hostess. Following a period of games the following girls played piano solos, Nadyne Neet, Peggy Wright, Mary Alice Bartholomew, and Marilyn May. Richard Bartholomew sang a vocal solo. Prizes for the game contest winners went to Maxine and Mollie Chase.

The next and final meeting of the Kensington club until the fall season in September will be held June 30 and will be a picnic dinner at the home of Mrs. Paul Basford.

HEALTH CLUB MEMBERS MAKE BEST OF TASKS

In the 4-H health project, members are required to have monthly weighings. In one district in the county it was impossible for the members to reach a scales all the time for these weighings, and through the assistance of one of the local patrons of the school, a pair of steelyards, with a chair attached, and through this ingenious method the members were weighed each month.

The idea was carried still further with smaller children in order to secure the proper weights of them, those up to 50 pounds were placed in a gunny sack and placed on the steelyards.
