FOREST RULES EFFECTIVE NOW

Fire Permits, Bucket, Shovel and Axe Become Necessary Equipment After July 1

All campers entering the national forests of Oregon and Washington by automobile, vehicle, or pack train will be required to have a shovel, an axe, and a one-gallon water container for each vehicle or pack train, if they expect to get a campfire permit, after July 1, according to announcement just issued by the regional forester, Portland, Oregon. Campfire permits are free, and may be had at any ranger station. They are required where camp fires are to be built at any place except at designated campgrounds.

Even if a fire emergency never arises, the tools are useful about camp, according to experienced mountain travelers. The shovel is almost indispensable in making a safe place for the camp fire; and both shovel and axe come in mighty handy in case a car gets off the road or into a soft spot.

So "remember your shovel, axe and water bucket beginning July 1" is the timely warning now being issued.

Smoking in the national forests except on the designated highways or in the camp sites is prohibited. Throwing of lighted cigarettes or cigars from moving vehicles constitutes a serious infraction of the forest regulations.

No orders have been issued yet closing certain sections to entry such as has been done during the past two years.

SILVER does a stunt The British government paid a $10,000,000 installment on the war debt to the United States by giving us 20,000,000 ounces of silver bullion, which was accepted, under the new currency law, at 50 cents an ounce. It cost Great Britain only about $7,200,000 to pay this amount, since the market price of silver was 36 cents an ounce. But, on the other hand, Uncle Sam can coin that same silver into $23,790,000 silver dollars, since the silver dollar contains less than an ounce of silver. Thus a debt has been paid with less than the sum credited to the payer, and the creditor gets more than twice as much as the amount received!

Under the law the Secretary of the Treasury is required to coin at least 10,000,000 silver dollars from the bullion received from England, and he may coin the rest or not as the president directs.

Money is a funny thing, and few of the people who make a lot of fuss about it understand how it works.

nation on the globe. But there are 66 nations represented at the World Monetary and Economic Conference, and still there are a few which were not invited.

The sixty-six include, to be sure, Canada, Austria, New Zealand and India which are members of the British Commonwealth of Nations, but they do not include the tiny Republic of Andorra, the other miniature nation of San Marino, or the Danzig Free State. Neither is Monaco-Monte Carlo in the list; it is half the size of New York's Central Park and has 25,000 inhabitants. But Iceland has the same standing in the London gathering as the United States. It is about the size of New York and has a population smaller than Savannah. It has been an independent nation since 1918.

This is certainly the most completely world-wide representative convention ever held.

CONGRESS in a new role We used to think of Congress as the Board of Directors of the United States, with the President taking orders from it. The Congress just adjourned seemed more like a stockholders' meeting, ratifying the proposals and actions of the directors.

In this time of change, perhaps we are in for a new conception of the relations between the different branches of the government. As matters stand now, the President with his cabinet and expert advisers, have authority to do just about anything they please. In theory, Congress can withdraw the powers granted, but in practice nothing short of another general election is likely to have that result.

Just now it seems silly to think of anyone wanting to throw a monkey-wrench into the governmental machinery. Everybody realizes that the economic fate of all of us depends upon making the "new deal" work. But let anything approaching former prosperity return, and we'll see the "outs" trying to make all the trouble they can for the "ins." That's politics.

PRICES mild inflation As soon as the dollar was cut loose from its gold anchor, prices of all international trade goods began to rise. In other words, dollars used in foreign trade became cheaper. This is the only real "inflation" that has taken place so far. Our domestic dollar hasn't been cheapened much, if any, so far. But that is on the way down, too, and that will result in higher dollar prices for all commodity items and labor.

People who are scared of "cheap money" might ask themselves whether they wouldn't just as soon have silver certificates as any other kind of currency. There aren't any other sort of dollar bills in circulation, but everybody takes them as dollars, although they are worth only about 30 cents by the gold standard.

PHILOSOPHY look inside Dr. Hu Shih, China's foremost philosopher, is coming to America. He is the foremost exponent of the Confucian philosophy which has been the guide to living of the Chinese people for five thousand years.

Just now Dr. Hu is delivering lectures in Peiping urging the Chinese people to enter into a period of self-examination, to determine whether their present troubles are not their own fault.

That is a suggestion in line with the philosophy of all great religious teachers. It would be a good thing for most of us to do, right now; to consider whether our present troubles are not of our own making. Nothing is easier than to blame "capitalism" or "communism" or the other political party for what ails us. But until a man has learned to look first inside of himself for the cause of his troubles he has not achieved a working philosophy of life.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC GETS PERMIT TO CUT FARES

A new low fare for passenger service on the Southern Pacific lines in six western states has been granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission it was announced this week by Carl Olson, local agent. The low-fare program provides for a 45 per cent reduction from the present rate which is 3.5 or a basic fare of 2 cents a mile and became effective July 1. The fares are applicable only on the one-way coach and tourist sleeping cars, and do not affect present and future cent-a-mile round trips.

The rates are offered as a 90-day experiment seeking to build up patronage.
