

CAKE SHOP MOVES TO LOCAL BAKERY

Springfield Bakery Installs Large Oven, Big Volume Of Business Handled

Moving of the McKee Cake shop from Eugene to the plant of the Springfield Bakery, also owned by Carl J. McKee, was completed this week. Much of the detail work of adjusting the new department into the local bakery still remains to be completed, but is being carried forward as rapidly as possible without delaying production in any department.

Included in the department being opened here are all the various sizes and flavors of cakes including angel food and such bakery specialties as butter horns, doughnuts, maple bars, and a large assortment of cookies. The usual array of cinnamon rolls and other dough foods are being made in the bread department along with an ever increasing amount of white, wheat, half and half, and raisin bread.

Included in the full equipment of cake making machinery moved here is a large master baker oven, gas operated and with a capacity for 180 large or 250 small loaves of bread. This oven is one of the most modern of its kind. Three smaller ovens are also in use at the bakery.

The volume of the local bakery has grown to such proportions since the bakery was first established as a home bakery by McKee that he now employs 13 people and has a fleet of three modern trucks to make his deliveries. One new route is now being opened which will serve all of the surrounding area on the Mohawk, McKenzie and Willamette highways. The route truck will also make trips west of Eugene to Crow, Veneta and Elmira.

Other new additions added to the bakery include a special room for handling cakes, icing or frosting them, and enclosed room for raising the bread.

Mr. McKee is planning to hold an open house in the near future after he has his various departments arranged.

Samuel Insull's Return

IN LITTLE OLD NEW YORK by CARL H. GETZ

Many a mid-town tenement kid will miss the sheep that used to graze in Central Park. And since they've sent them over to Prospect Park there'll be many a kid who'll grow up, live and die in Manhattan without ever knowing how a lamb looks in real life—gamboling on the green. For there are loads of native New Yorkers who never leave the city of seven million. The window-washer in our office building is one of them. "Forty-two years in New York," he boasts. "And never been out of it yet!" . . . And probably he didn't even know that there were sheep in Central Park!

There's still money in New York. . . . A friend was telling of her sister's wedding reception. "Mother was a little startled," she said, "for the bill for the champagne punch alone, was $248 . . . And poor Sis—she could do with a little of that money!" . . . Our friend didn't mention the luxurious wedding gifts, however.

Look! He holds that cane oddly. . . . Oh—he's blind. . . . "Going across?" I asked. It was up at Columbus Circle—southwest corner of Central Park. . . . "I don't have a complete mental picture of the streets," he replied to my question, "just certain landmarks. . . . I ran right into a traffic marker on the sidewalk this morning. Hit it pretty hard. But you have to expect accidents like that if you go outside at all. If you haven't the courage to meet them—you stay cooped up in the house." . . . Just another argument for "The Seeing Eye," that New Jersey institution that trains German Shepherds—erroneously called "Police Dogs"—to lead the blind intelligently, avoiding just such accidents my chance acquaintance mentioned.

New York telephone calls average 7,500,000 a day!

The cops in this town are brave lads, ordinarily. But they're camera shy; General O'Ryan, you see, who's head of "New York's Finest," has issued orders that blue coats must not pose for news camera men. "It's undignified," says the General.

Walk along Park Avenue or the residential parts of Fifth at mid-night and you're bound to see people "taking the dog for a walk." . . . They haven't trained their dogs (or don't own very smart ones) the way to take care of themselves. For there are dogs in town that will wait patiently for an elevator to stop at their floor, get aboard, wait for the doorman to open the outside door on the ground floor, take themselves for a walk, wait for the outer door to open, get aboard the elevator and get off at their very own floor. Then they scratch at their apartment door till the master lets them in.

To bleach wooden kitchen drain boards that have become stained and dirty looking apply a hot saturated solution of oxalic acid and let it stand overnight. Wash well and when boards are thoroughly dry, soak them with a mixture of three parts linseed oil and one part turpentine. When the wood has absorbed all it will take, wipe off the surplus and polish.

Moth flakes are powdered clothes scattered at spots where ants are frequently will drive them away, because they do not like the odor of ether. There is also a thalate ant trap, now on general sale, which should be used for bad infestations.

When stipling a wall with flat paint do not attempt to work entirely across either the upper or lower half of the wall before doing the other half. To prevent overlaps of paint from showing, five foot squares is about as large area as should be worked, catching the edges before the paint has time to start setting.

Arizona Kidnapping

Fire Monday afternoon destroyed a barn belonging to Sandy Jacobs who operates a filling station between Trent and Dexter. The wind carried burning timbers setting fire to the covered bridge just east of the filling station. One side of the roof was badly burned but the bridge was saved by a bucket brigade of Pleasant Hill high school girls and boys. The Eugene fire department sent a truck but the fire in the bridge was under control when it arrived.

BALL TEAM DROPS FINAL CONTESTS

Hill Billies and Eugene Easily Conquer Lethargy Of Local High School Ball Players

Springfield high school ball players lost their stride during their closing games of their schedule and were defeated Friday by Pleasant Hill 10-4 and Tuesday by Eugene high, 19-0. The local team had already defeated those teams in previous games, having established a record of 9 straight victories before Friday's game.

Both of the winning teams easily outplayed the local team, both on the field and at the bat. Likewise both teams had exceptional strength in their pitching staff. Parks for the Hill Billies, and Dunn for Eugene high, and they were given almost perfect support. The Springfield players failed to give their pitchers, Russell and Carson the support they have been accustomed to, and the pitchers were hit more times than usual.

Johnny Dunn drew the admiration of supporters of both teams in the cool, almost tantalizing manner in which he kept up his pitching for Eugene high. Those who remained for his final period of the game saw Dunn exhibit more speed and drive with his ball than he had used in any previous inning, proving that his arm was still strong.

The Eugene game closed the season for Springfield. They have played and won games from every near-by town except Junction City where they have been unable to secure an open date. Whether the boys play any more games before the school term ends is doubtful.
