LUMBER INACTIVITY KEEPS OUTPUT DOWN

Maritime Strike, Building Inactivity Cited As Causes Of Production Decline

A general slackening of building throughout the country coupled with the longshoremen strike are blamed for the drastic reduction in the output of fir mills of the north-west says the West Coast Lumbermen's association.

The losses as seen in studies of lumber orders received in the West Coast area effect principally sales decreases in waterborne business. Rail trade, which averaged approximately 27,000,000 feet weekly for the seven weeks preceding the longshore strike, averaged about 21,000,000 feet during the seven weeks since the strike went into effect. Domestic cargo orders for the week ending May 5, just before the strike, amounted to 30,960,000 feet. The week ending June 23 the total domestic cargo new business received was 8,664,310 feet. Domestic cargo shipments during the week ending May 5 amounted to 24,579,922 feet, compared to 639,239 feet during the week ending June 23. Export orders have dropped from an average of about 20,000,000 feet weekly just prior to the strike to 2,150,000 for the last week shown.

Lumbermen are of the opinion that in the absence of the strike the loss in the domestic water markets during the period would be somewhat in proportion to the decrease in the rail trade.

A total of 556 down and operating mills in Oregon and Washington which reported to the West Coast Lumbermen's association for week ending June 23, produced 49,251,953 board feet of lumber. This was approximately 1,400,000 feet under the preceding week. The average production of this group in sawmills in 1934 has been 51,251,685 feet; during the same period in 1933 their weekly average was 65,235,055 feet.

The new business reported last week by 551 mills was 46,672,324 board feet against a production of 49,016,405 feet and shipments of 38,233,096 feet. Their shipments were under production by 22.1 per cent and their current sales were under production by 7 per cent. The orders booked last week by this group of identical mills were under the preceding week by about 1,400,000 feet.

TILLAMOOK TIMBER VALUATIONS SHRINK

"The assessed value of mature timber in Tillamook county in 1931 was $15,169,180," states Mr. N. S. Rogers, valuation engineer for the state tax commission in a report just completed. "In 1932 it was $10,206,830, and in 1933 was further reduced to $6,841,970. In 1931 Tillamook had the largest assessment on timber of any of the 74 timbered counties in the three northwest states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

"These enormous reductions in valuation are not due to depletion by logging in any considerable amount, but have been caused principally by the following: (1) The removal from the tax rolls of dead timber resulting from a hemlock looper attack of several years ago, which is now beyond the period where salvage is possible; (2) a general reduction in all assessments which was made in 1932 to meet, in a measure, the general trend of depressed values; (3) the so-called Cochran fire of October, 1932, which raged through the northern end of the county; and (4) that holocaust of 1933, known from coast to coast as the Tillamook fire."

Camp Along River—Dr. and Mrs. W. N. Dow and family spent the Fourth of July camping out at Government camp near McKenzie bridge and at the Boy Scout camp where their son, Billy is enrolled.

WORLD TROUBLES WILL BE STUDIED

National Political, Social, and Educational Problems Will Be Talked at U. O. Meet

Eugene, Ore., July 5—The first practical conference on higher education in relation to present national and world conditions, scheduled for the University of Oregon for July 11, 12, 13 and 14, will not only draw a number of authorities in political, educational and economic fields, but has already attracted national attention. It was announced here by Dr. C. V. Boyer, president of the university. Proceedings of the meeting have already been requested by a number of periodicals and by educators and others in many parts of the United States.

A special invitation to attend this conference and take part in discussions has been extended to the readers of the Springfield News by Dr. Boyer. Many of the meetings will be open to the general public, and interested persons are urged to attend.

Will Talk on New Deal One of the outstanding speakers will be Dr. James W. Angell, professor of economics at Columbia University, who will talk on "Gold, Banks and the New Deal."

A new note in both higher education and politics will be sounded by Dr. Frederick M. Davenport, congressman from New York, who will speak on "The Importance of the Educated Politician in the New Order." Throughout his long career in politics, Dr. Davenport has sought to interest intelligent, university trained young men in the public affairs of this country.

From his position in Washington as chief of the higher education division, Dr. F. J. Kelly has had ample opportunity to observe this field and its developments in all parts of the country. For this reason his address on "Present Educational Trends" will be watched with great interest by experts all over the United States.

Minnesota Experiment Up An experiment that may vitally affect higher education in this country, the general college of Minnesota, will be described by Dr. F. L. Hoyde, assistant director of this institution. The work of this liberal school in being watched closely by educational authorities throughout the country.

The conference will bring together a number of outstanding men from the Northwest, who will deliver addresses, act as chairman of meetings or head discussion groups. Included are Dr. Boyer, Dr. W. J. Kerr, chancellor of higher education for Oregon; Dr. Norman F. Coleman, Reed College; Burt Brown Baker, vice-president of the university; Willard L. Marks, chairman of the Oregon State Board of Higher Education; George W. Peavy, president of Oregon State College; J. A. Churchill, president of the Oregon Normal School; Dr. Frank M. Erickson, acting president of Willamette University, and Dr. John P. Dobbs, president of Pacific University.

Copies of the condensed program for the session may be had at the public relations office at the university.

EVAN HUGHES TAKES WORK IN COLORADO

Does the Shadow of HOUSEWORK haunt you? EVEN in hours of diversion this shadow can lurk in the back of your mind—if housework to you means a tiresome round of hard duties. But it needn't. Electrical appliances can miraculously shorten and lighten nearly every household task. Woman's work, modern style. Is soon done and off her mind. An electric range in your kitchen is the key to economy and convenience. Electricity is as clean as sunshine, there are no blackened pots and pans to scour and clean—no wood to buy, split, carry in and clean up after. Hours of your time now spent in the kitchen over a hot stove can be saved for more congenial and worth while things than "pot watching" and "oven peaking." The fuel range belongs with the antiques of the horse and buggy age. Electric cookery is the modern way—the healthful, happy, joyous way for housewives to avoid unnecessary kitchen drudgery. This company in cooperation with electrical dealers has solved your financing problem for the installation of the electric range of your choice. For a limited time it will be possible for you to buy almost any standard make of electric range, completely installed with all necessary wiring and water heating facilities for as low as $3 a month. Do not delay. Investigate this marvelous offer at once. You cannot afford to get along the old fashioned way any longer. MOUNTAIN STATES POWER COMPANY
