

NEW BANKRUPTCY LAWS AIDS FARMER

Act Prevents Selfish Creditor From Taking Property Of Debt-Ridden Farmer

Interest in the Frazier-Lemke amendment to the bankruptcy laws of the United States is indicated from various parts of the state, according to L. R. Breithaupt, Oregon State college extension economist, who has supplied each of the 250 state and county farm-debt adjustment committee members with a copy of the amendment.

The Frazier-Lemke amendment is in accord with the program of the Farm Credit Administration "since it attempts to prevent occasional selfish creditors from foreclosing a distressed farm debtor," according to W. I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

It is believed, however, says Breithaupt, that perhaps only one farmer in several hundred will be unable to reach an agreement with his creditors, either directly or through the farm-debt adjustment committee or the county conciliation commissioner. Consequently, the number of cases which are likely to be appealed from conciliation commissioner to the court under the provisions of the Frazier-Lemke amendment is not likely to be very great.

Refinancing Aids

The farm mortgage refinancing program of the Federal Land banks has been a powerful factor in cutting down the number of distressed farm debtors, according to Breithaupt who is secretary of the state farm-debt adjustment committee. During the past year the Farm Credit Administration loaned almost a billion dollars on farm mortgage security and made commitments for $700,000,000 more. The F. C. A. will soon hold $2,500,000,000 of farm mortgage notes, or more than 30 per cent of the total farm mortgage indebtedness in the United States.

The county farm-debt adjustment committees and county agricultural agents have been well supplied by the state farm-debt adjustment committee and the college extension service with information of value to farmers who are in need of assistance in the refinancing and adjustment of indebtedness.

WILL ROGERS OPENS SUNDAY AT McDONALD

Will Rogers is uproarious in "Handy Andy," which opens at the McDonald theatre Sunday for four days, according to reports from the coast previews. In the picture his wife, Peggy Wood, wants him to play—and he does! And thereby hang most of the hilarious situations that go to make this his funniest picture.

Things run smoothly as long as Rogers is in his drug store. But when he sells out and starts to play, he finds life complicated. First he raises pigeons, until they escape into the house. Then he tries golf, with screamingly funny results.

But the climax comes when he goes with his wife to New Orleans to attend the Mardi Gras. He refuses to attend the ball with her. Later, however, wandering around alone, he encounters a fellow drugist and his lovely girl friend, Conchita Montenegro.

Mellowed by a few cocktails, Will decides to attend the ball after all, and he chooses a leopard skin as his costume. A few more cocktails lend him the courage to try an adagio dance with the lithe Conchita. Then the fun begins. His rough and tumble dance starts a fight that ends in a riot. And there's a surprise ending that hasn't been divulged in advance of the showing.

Party Held For Wedding Events

Friends Honor Anniversaries For Hughes, McElhany, And Van Valzah Tuesday

Two wedding anniversaries and two birthdays were the occasion for a large gathering held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McElhany in Garden Way district Tuesday evening.
