

WINDBREAK PLAN
LARGE PROJECT

Efforts To Control Wind and Climate in Plains States Is To Be 10 Year Job

One of the most extensive and possible far reaching projects yet to be originated under the New Deal forces at Washington, D. C. is the 1000 mile windbreak to be planted in 100 rows through the central state from the Canadian to the Mexican borders.

Although the tree planting program will not include the Pacific coast states, residents of Oregon and all other states in the Union will eagerly watch this huge undertaking as it progresses during the 10 years estimated as the time required to complete the project.

By direction of the president, Secretary Wallace has authorized the Forest Service to make expenditures for the present of only $10,000,000 of the total sum of $15,000,000 provided in the executive order. The ultimate cost of the project is estimated at $75,000,000 of which over 90 per cent will go to farmers largely for labor, for plowing, fencing, planting and caring for trees.

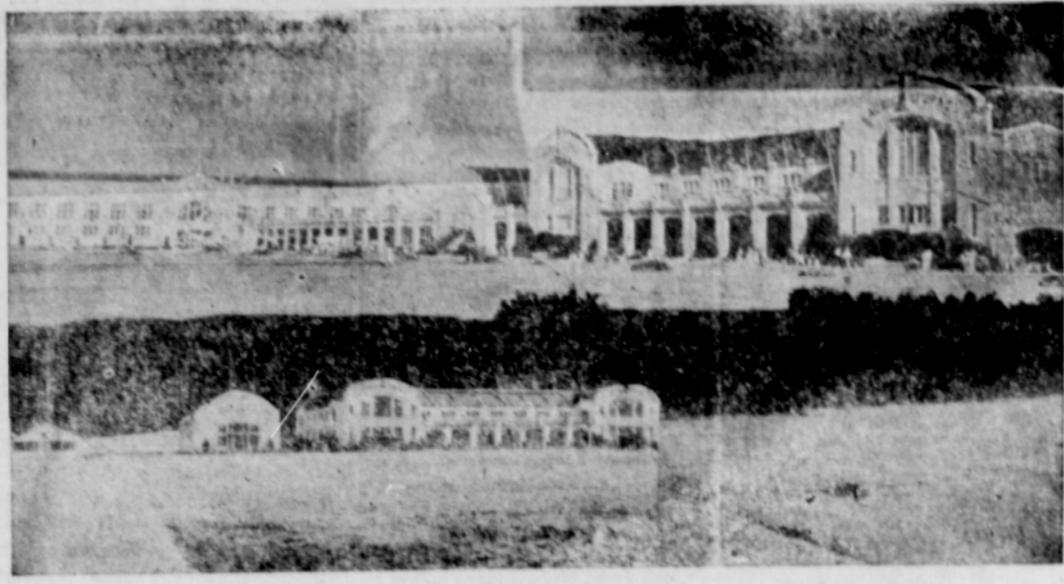

To Have 100 Rows of Trees Beginning at the Canadian border, this protection forest belt will stretch down through the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and into the Panhandle of Texas.

The area immediately affected approximates 20 million acres. Of this, about 1,820,000 acres will be planted to trees. According to the plan of the project, windbreaks running north and south will be planted one mile apart, making approximately 100 parallel windbreaks in the 100-mile wide belt. Each windbreak will be 7 rods wide, covering 14 acres out of each square mile or approximately 2 per cent.

Expect Less Wind Velocity The western border of this belt will follow approximately the line of 18 inches annual rainfall.

Will Control Tree Areas Only the land planted to the shelter strips will be acquired by the Government through purchase, lease, or cooperative agreement. Mr. Silcox explained. The areas in between these shelter strips will remain in private ownership, and consequently, farmers on this land will be able to produce crops and livestock under the most ideal conditions.

Fencing of the windbreaks is essential for protection of the woodlands against cattle. In many cases

"BEFORE AND AFTER"—Quadrate at state fairgrounds, Salem, planned and started in 1915. Just completed and will be dedicated Labor day September 3, the opening day of the state fair. The building of the wings on each end of the agricultural building, and of the 370 foot long concessions building turns an unobstructible grassy plain into a beautiful avenue of flags and flowers. A rain proof fair is assured by this 1,000 foot long "Indoor Trail" connecting principal exhibits buildings. Come to the fair if it rains.

existing fences will be utilized.

Will Establish Nurseries One of the first steps will be the establishment of a chain of nurseries where the seedlings will be grown for planting. Seed collection and a limited amount of planting will start this year. Large-scale planting of the windbreaks will be underway by 1936, and the entire area, it is expected, will be planted within the next 10 years, at a rate of about 180,000 acres per year.

Trees of native origin will be used.

DENTIST OWNER ANCIENT COINS

Recent Purchase Contains Hand Carved Bronze Money Dating To 123 Years B. C.

An unusual collection of old coins, most of them dating back to the early Roman era is now in the possession of Dr. W. N. Dow, Springfield dentist. Dr. Dow also owns many more modern coins and boxes of paper money.

Included in a recent collection which he purchased from New York dealers was a $3 gold piece minted in 1878. Another one minted in 1854 was in almost perfect condition.

A silver trade dollar minted in 1873 has the woman's head facing to the left. It contains 420 grains of silver or 900 fine grains.

The early day coins were all hammered out by hand and in most instances, especially among the Romans, the coins contain a likeness of the emperor at the time they were made. They are disk shaped and most of them are made of bronze.

One old Greek coin contains the face of Mithradates II and this was in circulation from 123 to 87 B. C. Another by Parthia Artabanus was issued in the year 80 A. D. One coin was put out by Alexander the Great and was circulated during the years 336 to 332 B. C.

Roman coins include one from the reign of Vesparsian from 69 to 79 A. D. Others include those by Roman Luxeris 161-180 A. D., Philip II, 244 to 249 A. D. On the reverse side of this coin are pictured the fabled wolf and twins.

Other emperors from whose reigns Dr. Dow has coins are Hadrian, Commodus, Maximus I, Trajan Decius, Severus Alexander, Philip III, Marcus Aurelius, Claudius, and Elagabalus.

Among the most interesting of the coins received in the latest shipment is a Bryan silver dollar, which was put out by the opposition to the Bryan silver mintage plan of 1896. It is dated September 16, 1896. A government silver dollar contains 412 grains and the Bryan dollar, almost twice the size contains 823 grains of coin silver.
