

LEGION TO ELECT OFFICERS SOON

First Fall Meeting Called For Taylor Hall Tonight; Reports Will Be Heard

Activities of the Springfield American Legion post will be started again Thursday evening, September 13, following the summer vacation when members of the post held their first fall meeting.

Principal business for the meeting will be the annual election of officers according to Oswald Olson, adjutant. Other officers of the post are Verne Caldwell, commander; Maxell A. Pohl, first vice-commander; Frank J. Emerich, second vice-commander; J. M. Larson, finance officer; P. J. Bartholomew, chaplain.

Members of the executive committee are Dr. W. H. Pollard, H. O. Dibblee, F. B. Hamlin, and Messers Caldwell, Olson, Pohl and Larson.

The meeting will be held at the Taylor hall starting at 8 o'clock. Other business to be taken up will include hearing reports from delegates who attended the state Legion convention at Astoria last month.

GELHAR CLOSING FINAL STATE FAIR AT SALEM

All Previous Attendance Records Broken Every Day This Year; 180,000 See Show

Attendance records were shattered at the 73rd Oregon State Fair, which was brought to a dramatic close late Sunday afternoon. Attendance for the week was 180,579, almost double the marks of 95,751 and 93,926 for the respective boom years of 1928 and 1929. The 1934 fair attendance was greater by 75,388 than the previous high mark of 105,491 set in 1933.

Attendance records for each day of the fair were also smashed this year, with Monday's patronage hitting the all-time peak of 37,378 persons through the gates.

During the midst of the fair just closed, Director Gehlar made public announcement of his intention to retire at the end of the year as Director of the Department of Agriculture, by virtue of which office he is also Director of the State Fair. He will give his time to operation of a fruit products plant and fruit farm with his son in Salem.

O. S. C. CHILD SPECIALIST GOES SOUTH FOR SEASON

Miss Flora Thurston, until recently executive secretary of the National Council of Parent Education, has been added to the home economics staff at Oregon State college for one year to replace Mrs. Sarah W. Prentiss, acting head of department of household management, who has taken leave of absence for a year to join the extension staff in home economics in California.

Mr. Prentiss is one of the most widely known members on the O. S. C. home economics staff, having conducted many extension classes and radio clubs in child development and parent education. She established the first nursery school in the northwest. Miss Thurston is an educator of national prominence who was obtained for the year only to do part-time teaching while she completed work for an advanced degree.

MUCH ACTION PROMISED ON ARMORY MAT CARD

To finish a feud between Harry Elliott, referee-wrestler, and "Rod" Fenton, which started last Thursday night, Promoter Herb Owens has matched these two grapplers in the main event of tonight's mat show. This bout should prove a good rough one.

The supporting matches on the card will bring forth plenty of action. They are Bulldog Jackson and Ben Sherman in the 45 minute semi-final event, and Don Sugta wrestling Marine Jacobs in the 30-minute preliminary. It was reported this morning that Costello may referee the matches tonight.

NEW PARK SERIES OF POSTAGE STAMPS DUE

The new series of national park postage stamps will soon be on sale at the Springfield office according to Harry M. Stewart, postmaster. The postoffice is now offering one cent stamps bearing pictures of the falls in Yosemite park. The new stamp will be in five-cent denominations and will bear pictures from Yellowstone park. No Crater Lake stamps have been received at the local office yet.

IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE AT EGGIMANN'S

Several smaller painting and cleaning jobs are under progress at the Eggimann Kandy Kitchen this week. Mrs. Eggimann and Miss Eva Louk are in charge during the absence of Mr. Eggimann.

Newberg People Here—Mr. and Mrs. George Crites of Newberg are here visiting at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. Chaffenberg.

This Week IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13—The first organized opposition to the new Deal that is taken seriously in Washington is the American Liberty League. This is a non-partisan group of industrial leaders and political experts which has as its avowed purpose the stopping of further encroachments upon the constitutional rights of the taxpayer, property-owning classes.

The caliber of the League may be gathered from the character and reputations of the men who organized it. These include two former candidates for the Presidency, John W. Davis and Alfred E. Smith; two former chairmen of the Democratic National committee, John J. Raskob and J. P. Morgan; such Republican leaders as Representative James W. Wadsworth and former Governor Nathan L. Miller of New York; a powerful industrialist of independent political standing, Irene Du Pont, and several others of national reputation. In its set-up it certainly cannot be classed as a Republican organization. If it were, it would not be worrying the Administration so much as it is, for even the most ardent Republican here concedes that the "Grand Old Party" thus far has shown few signs of being on its job.

White House Comment The only comment that has come from the White House on the Liberty League is the president's remark to the effect that it seems to be an organization in the interest of property, with the Ten Commandments left out of its charter. To which one of the astute commentators here made the pat answer: "Better read the tenth commandment again."

The Liberty League is the most impressive phase, so far, of the growing wave of criticism of many of the features of the New Deal. Washington is hearing rumblings of protest from many parts of the country, from rural districts as well as from industrial centers. It would be going too far to say that the Administration is on the defensive, as yet, but there is a decidedly conciliatory tone in the public utterances of many of the president's supporters. Secretary of Commerce Roper made a speech the other day which was directly aimed at business men, and calculated to allay their fears. Even Donald Richberg made a speech in which he somewhat guardedly admitted that private profits might be permitted.

The Administration plans to reorganize all of the recovery agencies into one unit—putting NRA, AAA, ERA, PWA and all the rest into one bag, as it were, and said to be making headway, but there is wide diversity of opinion as to how to do it, and a great deal of dissent among the executives charged with making the New Deal go. This dissent is not merely in words. General Hugh Johnson got so mad the other day that he offered his resignation as head of the NRA, and was only dissuaded by a personal appeal by the president.

Richberg and Johnson Back of General Johnson's attempt to quit lies an interesting personal controversy between the General and Mr. Richberg, his chief assistant. It is no secret that Richberg wants to be the head of the five man commission that is to take the place of the one-man control of NRA. He has been working for a long time on a plan of reorganization. General Johnson beat him to it with a plan of his own, which he handed to the president as soon as Mr. Roosevelt got back from Hawaii. Richberg followed with his own plan. In a three-cornered conference between the two and the president, General Johnson suddenly walked out and declared that he was through.

Inside gossip has it that the president, who leans more to Mr. Richberg's point of view than to the General's, has been looking for a chance to slide the General out gracefully. But he didn't want him to go away mad and possibly make trouble for the Administration. So he sent for the General, who in the meantime had sent his written resignation to the White House, and suggested that he tear up the resignation and take a six-month's "trip to Europe, for a rest."

General Johnson smelled a rat. He wasn't willing to absent himself from the scene of action for six months, but he agreed to withdraw his resignation and take a two-weeks rest at the seashore. He will stay on the job until a more subtle way of shelving him is devised.

Look Toward Winter

What is worrying the Administration, perhaps more than the still scattered criticisms of its policies, is the mounting cost of food stuffs. The expectation is that the coming Winter will be the hardest yet, not only in the matter of relief for those without resources but in the strain upon those who have jobs or incomes. Out of this feeling arises growing talk of monetary inflation, "printing press money" to help the nation's debtors out of trouble. What may be done cannot be predicted, but there is a belief

Likes Her Shorts

NEW YORK . . . Despite the official golf frown and ban against women players appearing in shorts for tournament play, Miss Bea Gottlieb (above), appeared at a local course here and played her game attired thusly.

here that the new Congress, to be elected in November, will contain a much larger proportion of economic radicals than the last one did.

Rumor has it, though this cannot be verified, that a group of 23 conservative Democratic senators have made a private pact to stand with Republicans in opposition to any further radical legislation. Such a coalition would effectively block any move toward inflation.

Meantime, the first protests are beginning to come in against the first tariff agreement negotiated by the president under the blanket authority granted him by the last Congress. The new agreement with Cuba, which lets in winter vegetables from that island at greatly reduced duties, is not at all to the liking of Florida vegetable growers, who make their livings by shipping winter tomatoes, beans, celery and other agricultural products to the northern markets. For years these Florida farmers have been pressing for higher duties on Mexican tomatoes and Cuban peppers, and they don't like this new scheme at all.

All-Purpose Frocks

Pattern 8311: Everyone has a favorite dress and here is just the one to replace your "old love." You can look chic at any time of the day or evening. When undecided what to wear, this is the frock you will always slip into and feel well groomed.

The caplet and cowl neck are flattering—but not fussy. The V line of the skirt slenderizes the hips. If you are clever you will also make this up without sleeves and with long sleeves. See the small sketch.

Designed in sizes: 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 18 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material without sleeves. With sleeves 5 yards.

For pattern, send 15 cents in coin (for each pattern desired), your name, address, style number and size to Patricia Dow, Springfield (Oregon) News Pattern Dept., 115 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Will Start School—Miss Violet Inman left Monday for Alivador where she will stay while teaching at the Upper Fern Ridge school the coming year.
