New President Tells Teachers To Train Students As Leaders, Not Mob Followers

College students of today should be trained as the leaders of tomorrow and not become an undisciplined mob following the red flag of Communism, and faculty members have a responsibility in this training aside from the formal teaching of their respective courses.

President George W. Peavy told the staff of Oregon State college at the opening of the fall term now under way there.

Comparative Study Approved President Peavy said this in no wise precludes the proper classroom study and examination of any system of government, but said that a clear distinction should be drawn between the examination of any governmental or social doctrine and its advocacy.

At the beginning of this, his first full year as head of this institution, President Peavy reviewed the general educational situation in Oregon and said that the skies have cleared as far as peaceful and orderly administration of the system is concerned, but that a serious threat hangs over all education from the grades to the colleges in the proposed 20-mill limitation amendment.

Sees Year of School Harmony "Those who believe that an educated citizenry constitutes the bulwark of free institutions have a battle ahead," the president pointed out. "Much more is involved in the fight against the reactionary measure than the jobs of a few teachers and professors."

The executive pointed out that there is a decided increase in understanding, confidence and cooperation between the faculties of the state's two largest educational institutions and that they are presenting, more than ever before, a united front of adequate opportunity for youth of Oregon.

NEEDLECRAFT MEMBERS CHOOSE NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. H. Schaffenberg was chosen president of the Needlecraft club to succeed Mrs. Clayton Barber at the meeting of the club held last Thursday afternoon at the Barber home.

Insist on high quality paint both inside and outside the house. It washes and wears much longer. Incidentally, an interesting note by Dr. J. S. Long, recently appointed head of research for Devco and Reynolds Paint and Glass company: It requires a full acre to grow the linseed oil for two coats of paint for the average seven room house and garage.

Thurston

The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Gosler Wednesday for an all day's meeting. A covered dish lunch was served at noon.

Mrs. Ted Turel from Portland spent the week-end at the John Edmiston home.

Fred Gray, Jr., underwent an operation at the hospital in Eugene last Friday. He was hurt at Oakridge several days ago.

Monte Rountree, who has spent most of the summer at Thurston left Sunday for Grants Pass where he has employment with an oil company.

Ed Whitaker is giving his home a new coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Edmiston and family motored to Newport last Friday for the week-end.

MARINE CORPS TO TAKE MEN AT PORTLAND

The United States Marines at Portland, Oregon, will have vacancies for the enlistment of thirty men during each of the next three months.

These new marines will be selected from the states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming, and will serve as replacements sent from the West Coast stations to China, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, and to the battleships of the fleet.

Interesting booklets describing service with the United States Marines and enlistment application blanks may be obtained from the U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Station, 208 U. S. Court House, Portland, Oregon.

DROUGHT BOOSTS FARMERS PRICES

Cash Farm Income One Billion More Than 1933; Oregon Rural Income Gains

The general level of farm prices advanced about 10 per cent during the last two months, according to information given in a report on the agricultural situation just released by the college agricultural extension service. This boost in farm prices is attributed more to the drought than to stronger demand conditions.

The general exchange value of farm products has advanced 10 per cent since a year ago, having reached nearly three-fourths of the prewar parity level, the report shows. Wool, oats and corn have climbed above 90 per cent of parity, while hay, wheat and barley have been moving toward that mark.

Production Down 18 Percent Indicative of the general reduction in crop production, the estimated combined yield of 33 of the principal crops will be 18 per cent less than last year and 22 per cent below the 12-year average, the report says. A late potato crop approximately equal to 1933 but 26 million bushels below average was indicated on September 1.

Cash farm income for the whole country is estimated at about six billion dollars in the year 1934, approximately one billion more than in 1933 but nearly four billion under the 1926-1930 average. Oregon farm income is expected to total around 20 per cent greater than last year, but will fall short of the 1926-1930 level about 40 per cent, according to the circular. For the whole country, from 10 to 12 per cent of the total 1934 cash farm income will be derived from agricultural adjustment rental and benefit payments, and the rest from marketings.

MCDONALD TO PRESENT SECOND DRUMMOND PLAY

Ronald Coleman returned from a year's vacation to bring an old friend back to the screen of the McDonald theatre, where "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" begins a 4-day showing Sunday.

Drummond holds a fond place in Coleman's heart, for it was in the creation of this character that he scored his greatest screen hit. The story is based on the latest novel by H. C. McNeile, depicting the further exploits of the lovable adventurer. The excitement starts when Drummond attempts to unravel a completely baffling mystery for a beautiful young girl whose uncle disappears strangely in the London house of a sinister Oriental prince.

Loretta Young portrays the girl, Warner Oland plays the Prince, Charles Butterworth is seen as Drummond's not quite bright friend Algy, and Una Merkel appears as the bride Algy deserts on her wedding night to dabble in mystery with Drummond. C. Aubrey Smith plays Inspector Nielson of Scotland Yard who contributes complications.

Roy Del Ruth, who directed "The Terror," the talkies' first mystery thriller, handled the megaphone on this hair-raising sequel, which Nunnally Johnson, who was responsible for the brilliant screen version of "The House of Rothschild," prepared for the screen.

BANKERS SUPPORT SOUND EXPANSION

By R. S. HECHT Vice President, American Bankers Association

BANKERS universally recognize that the prime economic need of the nation is the stimulation of sound industrial and commercial activities and recent travels over a wide stretch of the country have shown me that they everywhere are making all effort possible to lead constructive financial support within the scope of their proper banking functions to promoting the expansion of business activity.

Frequently in times past when our country suffered from an economic depression and consequent unemployment on a large scale, the rise of some broad new industrial development, such for instance as a new industry like the automobile industry, has been a powerful factor in stimulating a return or an accelerated growth of national prosperity. Such a movement means the creation of new wealth, the employment of large groups of people on useful lines and as a consequence the production and distribution of sound, effective purchasing power, which is a form of wholesome economic stimulant that has none of the evils of monetary inflation.

A New Force for Improvement Perhaps we have at hand, if not the rising of a wholly new industry, a measurable equivalent in the potentialities of a widespread rebuilding and modernizing movement such as home renovating, plant remodeling, the putting of our railroads on a high speed air conditioned basis and other valuable developments in the construction field. The effects of such activities on employment and many lines of business would be most beneficial and I can repeat without reservation that we bankers are willing and eager to play our full economic part in any such constructive developments.

It has been made to appear that money has not gone to work because of the timidity of bankers rather than what is a true explanation, because business men have not had enough confidence in the business outlook to borrow the dollar from the banker and put it to work. The basic requisite to the expansion of commercial bank loans is sound, normal business conditions on which to conduct sound, normal banking operations. The best business a bank can wish for is the opportunity to loan money to successful business men and manufacturers imbued with confidence to enter upon aggressive business enterprises and endowed with the ability to bring them to successful conclusions. Such loans mean business activity for the community, growing pay rolls and prosperity, and the banker wants to make them because to identify with such activities not only means profits to him but, additionally, brings him the reward of community good will.

There is no better proof of the great desire of bankers to take care of the short term requirements of the business world than to point out the abnormally low rates at which this demand is being supplied at the present time.

Put wax paper over watermelon that has been cut. It will keep fresh and moist for a long time.

Fresh berries keep much longer if they are turned out of their boxes into a plate so that the air may circulate about them freely.

Beef, especially steaks, should be chosen by tests of elastic red meat and firm, white fat.

Lemons will not decay if they are kept in cold water that is regularly changed every day.

Announces Candidacy For Re-Election as Recorder

"In announcing my candidacy for re-election as City Recorder, I am causing this statement to be published in the local press in order that the citizens of our city may better understand my objects and purposes in seeking re-election. I believe that the City of Springfield, at the present time, is being operated on a sound, economical and business like basis. I have served in this position during the most trying years of depression, and although the city has been quite badly financially embarrassed by heavy warrant debt and defaulted bond debt, I believe we have now passed the crisis in municipal indebtedness. If during the next two or three years, careful and pains like effort is at all times exercised in management of city finances."

"The greatest problem that falls upon the shoulders of the City Recorder is the problem of the city's finances. It may not require any great amount of skill or experience to handle many of the routine matters pertaining to the office, but it undoubtedly does require skill and experience to cope with the financial problems which confront the city. These matters naturally fall more to the lot of the Recorder than to the lot of any other city official. It is expected of him that he lead and point the way to the solution of such problems."

"I have in mind certain well defined plans for refunding the bond debt, which I believe can be worked out successfully, whereby the city can meet its debt as the same falls due without again becoming in default, and at the same time, keeping in operation a reduction of the warrant debt to the end that the city may eventually be practically on a cash basis. The city has succeeded in keeping all bond interest paid, even in the face of adverse conditions and our default bond debt is being taken care of and paid off quite satisfactorily to our creditors. Of course, taxes have been and still are too high, but this is due not to operating expenses, but is due to indebtedness. According to our 1934 budget, the city tax levy is in excess of $35000. More than $25000 of this goes for debt and interest and about $10,000 for operating expense. While it is essential to hold operating expenses down to the minimum consistent with efficiency, it is evident to anyone from these figures that the only way to reduce taxes to any appreciable extent is to reduce and pay off the city debt. Then the city tax rate may be lowered to a point where it will be no longer burdensome to the taxpayer. If re-elected to the Recorder's office, I expect to constantly work for this end. I have been in daily touch with all details of city finances in Springfield for years, and this experience I will use in an effort to relieve the city and taxpayers of the financial embarrassment in which we have been placed."

I M. PETERSON, Recorder, Springfield, Oregon.
