SOLUTION FOR PERMANENT RELIEF

Back to the land is our only solution to the unemployment problem. Small acreage tracts, to our mind, is the only long time solution. It is evident that industry and business can not keep all people employed all the time. The result will be that there will be either no work for a great share of our population or we will all be on short shifts. Industry can not support people on short shifts or through long layoffs. There must be some supplementary income and the only available method is for those working part time to take the rest of their living out of the soil—raise their vegetables, fruit, milk, meat and eggs.

Rich river bottom soil is the land best adapted for small tract farming because of high productivity and fine quality of its products. Valleys like the Willamette must ultimately support dense populations while marginal lands must go back to pasture and stock raising.

All relief given by both state and nation so far is only temporary and is not a solution of the unemployment problem. Instead of pouring out so much money into an endless method the government should recognize soon that it must look toward a sane solution for all time.

Good roads, schools, electricity, automobiles, radio and other conveniences give the rural dwellers more conveniences and makes life more attractive in the country than a few years back even the rich enjoyed in the cities. Why not go back to the land?

Will someone tell us what is the difference in effect of corporations writing up "watered stock" and the U. S. Treasury's write up on the gold content of the dollar. The $2,800,000,000 gain reported from the devaluation of the dollar is only a means of confiscating private wealth—getting something for nothing. Selling watered stock is also getting something for nothing. In any operation of this kind there is always a day of reckoning and that is what private investors fear.

Some relief measures strike us like trying to bail out a boat with a sieve.

What we need most at election time is a code regulating the hot air industry.

The government is in the market for 800 airplanes, we do not ever seem to have anything the government is buying.

Business failures are fewer according to statistics. Probably because there are now fewer businesses to fail.

After two days in the mountains we have come to the conclusion that deer are scarcer than hens' teeth.

NUMBING GRIP OF ANCIENT CREEDS

Ask any ten people what Jesus meant by His "Father's business," and nine of them will answer "preaching." To interpret the words in this narrow sense is to lose the real significance of his life. It was not to preach that he came into the world; not to teach; not to heal. These are all departments of His Father's business, but the business itself is far larger, more inclusive.

If human life has any significance it is this—that God has set going here an experiment to which all His resources are committed. He seeks to develop human beings, superior to circumstance, victorious over Fate. No single kind of human talent or effort can be spared if the experiment is to succeed. The race must be fed and clothed and housed and transported, as well as preached to, and taught and healed.

Thus all business is His Father's business. All work is worship; all useful service prayer. And whoever works wholeheartedly at any worthy calling is a co-worker with the Almighty in the great enterprise which He has initiated but which He can never finish without the help of men.

It is one thing to talk about success, and quite another thing to win it. Jesus spoke of crowns and died on a cross. He talked of his kingdom, and ended his days amid the jeers and taunts of his enemies. "He was in all points tempted like as we are," says the Epistle to the Hebrews. We have read it often, heard it read oftener, but we have never believed it, of course. . . . The conception of His character which Theology has given us makes any such idea impossible.

He was born differently from the rest of us, Theology insists. He did not belong among us at all, but came down from Heaven on a brief visit, spent a few years in reproving men for their mistakes, died and went back to Heaven again.

A hollow bit of stage-play. What chance for temptation in such a career? How can an actor go wrong when his whole part is written and learned in advance?

It is frightfully hard to free the mind from the numbing grip of ancient creeds. But let us make the effort. Let us touch once more the high spots in this finest, most exalted success story, considering now the perils and crises of success.

He was not at all sure where he was going when he laid down his tools and turned his back on the carpenter shop—unless we can believe this, his struggle ceases to be "in all points" like our own; for each of us has to venture on life as on an uncharted sea. Something inside him carried him forward—the something which has whispered to so many small town boys that there is place for them in the world which lies beyond the hills.

STATE SCHOOLS SHOW LARGE STUDENT GAINS

State College Shows Gain Of 33 Percent; U. Of O. Has 19 Percent and Monmouth 18

Enrollment in the combined Oregon institutions of higher learning had increased by 1152 students or 21 percent over the same period last fall it has been announced by the state division of information.

The total number of students enrolled in the six institutions of the state system on Saturday noon, October 6, was 6523 compared with an enrollment of 5371 the same time a year ago.

Enrollments at the schools of the state and their percentage increase were as follows on Saturday: University of Oregon, 2449, 19; Oregon State college 2508, 33; Medical School: School of Medicine 243, 4; Nursing Education 293, 5; Oregon Normal School 469, 18; Southern Oregon Normal School 311, 24; Eastern Oregon Normal School 250, 04.

Totals 6523, 21. The big jump in enrollment in the freshman classes, although substantial increases were reported at all levels. The following table shows the enrollment and percentage increase in the first year class at the five institutions which enroll freshmen:

FROM THE EDITOR OF THE AMERICAN BOY

During the coming year, the boys of America will get a half-rate rate to adventure and fun! THE AMERICAN BOY—YOUTH'S COMPANION, the nation's leading magazine for boys, formerly $2.00 a year, now costs $1.00. A three-year subscription, previously $3.50, costs only $2.00.

Griffith Ogden Ellis, editor of THE AMERICAN BOY, brings boys the hearty assurance that the new prices will in no way affect the editorial contents of the magazine. It will be as large, as beautifully printed, as full of high-spirited adventure as ever. "THE AMERICAN BOY'S leadership has been no accident," Mr. Ellis states. "We publish the magazine on the firm belief that boys deserve a magazine as good as any publication for grown-ups. So we use the best illustrators obtainable—well-known artists who work for the biggest magazines. We send our staff writers all over the country digging up the interesting facts of science, interviewing world-famous explorers, talking to coaches and athletes.

"We encourage and assist our writers to go everywhere for material—to Haiti, Africa, the South Seas, China—and bring back adventure for American boys. We hire experts on hobbies and boy problems to advise boys and young men. These steps account for our position as the quality magazine for boys, and we shall continue to take them."

Twelve issues of fun and excitement for $1.00! Three years for $2.00! Spread the news among your friends—and send your own subscription direct to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Service on your subscriptions will start with the issue you specify.

LUMBER STOCKS FOUND TOO HIGH

Fourth Quarter Quota Reduction Explained By Mill Men; Market Was Lighter

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 11.—Reduction of lumber stocks on hand at the mills was the aim of the Lumber Code Authority in decreasing sharply the production quota recently approved for various regions, according to the West Coast Lumbermen's Association.

The quota allotted to the Douglas fir region for the fourth quarter totaled $68,900,000 feet, out of a national softwood quota of 2,596,000,000 feet. The second-quarter allocation amounted to 1,285,000,000 feet, and the third quarter to 1,100,000,000 feet. Allotments were made to each mill in terms of allowable hours of operation during the last three months of the year, with permission to concentrate production in a shorter period if desirable.

In 1929, consumption of Douglas fir totaled approximately 10 billion feet, with stocks on hand at the end of the year amounting to about 1,634,000,000. Consumption of Douglas fir during the first half of 1934 was estimated at about 2 billion feet, with June 30 stocks on hand totaling a billion and a half feet.

Lumber quotas in the earlier part of 1934 were allotted in anticipation of a heavier demand than has materialized. While this expected demand is believed to be definitely in the making, authorities do not look for it to attain large enough volume this year to warrant any further increase in stocks. Reliable indications point to a continued low demand for lumber during the remainder of the year. It is the belief of the Code Authority that the market situation of lumber will be strengthened if part of the fourth-quarter total of orders is filled from stocks accumulated at the mills.

Several unforeseen factors slowed down lumber demand during the summer months. Shipments from the west coast during the second quarter were sharply curtailed by the longshoremen's strike. Drought conditions also were a factor in reducing demand in a wide section of the country. Still another early summer factor, which delayed orders from the retail trade, was the long delay in authorization of anticipated reduction in minimum prices at the mills, an uncertainty which was not removed until July 16, when the Lumber Code Authority was permitted to announce a reduction of 10 per cent as an aid to stimulating demand under the liberal financing provisions of the Federal Housing Act.

These summer market factors, in the opinion of the association, have caused a delay in lumber demand rather than a total market loss. Farm market observers predict that farm income during 1934 will be about 29 per cent greater than in 1933 and 60 over the 1932 income.
