FOUR-L IS A CHALLENGE

The Four-L is resisting the attack on it by the federal regional labor board which is attempting to call it a company union. This it seems is directly contradictory to what General Johnson said on his Portland visit when he told Four-L officials lumber workers had the right to be represented by the union of their own choosing, and the 4-L might be it.

The Four-L is the only union that has functioned successfully in the lumber industry. In fact it is a challenge to all labor and industry as a successful organ for dealing with the employee and employer problem. The regional labor board might well consider its methods for other industry rather than condemn it unjustly.

26 YEARS SERVICE

Twenty-six years of service to Lane county was recognized at the courthouse Tuesday when flowers were presented to Miss S. E. Skene, deputy county clerk and recorder of deeds and mortgages. In this day of change in government faithful service often goes unrecognized.

The service Miss Skene renders Lane county can not be bought and paid for. If she left the courthouse tomorrow her position would be taken by someone else but no one could give the service Miss Skene does without many years experience on the job. Her knowledge of deeds, mortgages and conveyances in Lane county surpasses all. Her willingness to be of assistance and furnish exact information exceeds the bounds of usual service. The country needs more public servants like her.

There are 16,659 city governments, 3,062 county governments, 128,542 school districts and 19,769 township governments and hundreds of other district governments and boards in this country. The question is whether democracy is not becoming top heavy with organization.

A mouse died in a radio in Junction City and now there is a discussion whether the election campaign orators or the crooners killed him.

We can never clean up the dance situation in high school until we supervise the youngsters and fumigate the minds of some of the oldsters.

Thanksgiving was originally a day of rejoicing over bountiful crops. We suppose it should be a celebration this year over the success of crop curtailment.

One of the easiest things to do in the world is to tell others about their mistakes.

Roosevelt is restoring the last federal pay cut. That should positively end the depression.

In the Psalms are love, hope, despair, the bitterest of sorrow, the most exultant delight, sweet affection and deep hatred, confession of sin and joy in forgiveness. But the major note is optimistic and believing.

THE ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY

David wrote many of the earlier psalms, and there are some that grew out of his personal experience; but no one man makes a hymn book. Some psalms were written hundreds of years after his death. The man who wrote

By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down, yea, we wept, when we remembered Zion. We hanged our harps upon the willows in the midst thereof, that man gave a page of vivid autobiography that dates itself five hundred years after David. When another singer wrote:

O God, the heathen are come into thine inheritance; thy holy temple have they defiled; they have laid Jerusalem on heaps. The dead bodies of thy servants have they given to be meat into the fowls of the heaven, thus telling of a time when Jerusalem was captured in a bloody battle followed by a massacre, and the temple was defiled but not destroyed, we know that the psalm was written in the times of the Maccabees. It may be that a thousand years separates the oldest of these songs from the latest.

Of the whole, a hundred and fifty songs, which are best worth knowing? First of all the twenty-third, of course. Nearly every child learns it; every child should. If, in addition to this, you would like to pick three others as a part of your children's education, you will be pretty safe if you follow the number nine—the nineteenth; the ninetieth and ninety-first.

Moses is credited with the ninetieth—the noble chant of an old man, who, seeing his own generation disappear and a new generation rise up to take its place.

Lord, thou has been our dwelling place in all generations.

Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou are God. . . .

So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.

The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firma-

TAKE NO CHANCES

Eyestrain is a very real danger. Few of us realize that we pay dearly for every hour we strain our eyes. The tragedy is that we seldom know that we ARE misusing our eyes. Attempting to read, work or study in poor or glaring light is the cause of most eyestrain. Often the penalty for eyestrain is not paid until later years. Then it is too late. The two or three pennies a day saved on your light bill isn't worth the risk of impaired vision.
