SPRAY-WINLOCK BALL GAME

Amid a downpour of rain the contestants battled on for victory

LONE ROCK'S DEFEAT.

July 6.—The game played by the Spray-winlock Base ball teams, at the close of a two days celebration at "The Notch," was a draw. The game was to have begun at 2 o'clock, but it was long passed that hour before the players assembled on the diamond. About noon a slow steady rain set in and continued all afternoon, notwithstanding the rain, the game proceeded, witnessed by a large crowd of enthusiastic spectators.

Spray was first at the bat, and made one score. Winlock made three points, the last half of the first inning. This certainly begun to look bad for Spray. At the end of the sixth inning the score stood 3 to 6 in favor of Winlock. At the end of the seventh the score stood 3 to 6 in favor of Winlock. It was here that Spray awoke and began to play ball. In the ninth inning Spray tied the game the score stood 7 to 7. The tenth inning was played without changing the score and as it was getting late, both sides agreeing, it was called a draw and the money equally divided between the players.

Lone Rock and Spray crossed bats the first day of the celebration which resulted in Lone Rock's defeat, the score standing eleven to nothing in favor of Spray.

Fixing Up an Election.

A curious incident once occurred at Patton an election for parliament Sir Mark Wood, who had been one of its members for several years, had as his colleague in the parliament of 1812 Sir William Congreve, the inventor of the famous "Congreve rocket." The latter resided in 1816, and the baronet wished his own son to fill the vacancy. There were only three voters in the constituency—Sir Mark, his son and his butler, named Jennings—but as the son was away and the butler had quarreled with his master an opportunity was afforded for a singular revenge. Jennings refused to second Sir Mark's nomination of his son and proposed himself, and a deadlock was averted only by Sir Mark coming to terms with the refractory butler, whose nomination he seconded in order to induce him to act as a second to his son. Matters being thus put formally in train, Sir Mark arranged with Jennings that the former's vote should be alone given, and the final state of the poll at Patton's only known contest stood thus: Wood (Tory), 1; Jennings (Whig), 0.—Westminster Gazette.
