Nothing can be substituted for the Royal Baking Powder and give as good results.

No other leavening agent will make such light, sweet, delicious, wholesome food.

If some grocers urge another baking powder upon you, it is because of the greater profit upon it. This of itself is evidence of the superiority of the "Royal." To give greater profit the other must be a lower cost powder, and to cost less it must be made with cheaper and inferior materials, and thus, though selling for the same, give less value to the consumer.

To insure the finest cake, the most wholesome food, be sure that no substitute for Royal Baking Powder is accepted by you.

A NOBLEMAN OF SPAIN

By ALFRED BALCH.

The village or town they had taken

was a collection of huts made of upright huts. The open front showed the shape-side was the heap of gold ornaments torn

She had heard of Spaniards ever since she could remember, as brutal, cruel, pitiless, and she saw around her abundant evidence of it all; but this man was not brutal. He treated her as no Indian woman she had ever heard of had been treated by a man. And when he urged that she be baptized and become a Christian in order that they might be married she assented with a gladness she could never have put into words. Frey Raphael Quevedo, who had been Don Francesco's tutor, welcomed the convert with an almost holy joy and visited the little home Francesco had put her into to talk and reason with her. The girl was taken on a charge of conspiracy, and it was probably in-tended she should die by poison. It was the feeling that anyopen violence would result in a rupture between Don Francesco and his father that alone saved her from a more speedy death. How word was sent to Don Francesco, or by whom, I cannot tell; but it is not impossible the news may have traveled from slave to slave.
