

GOING FOR WARNER'S SAFE CURE

Color Photography.

Amateur photographers are now experimenting extensively with the new process of color photography. The nature of the chemicals used is a secret, although the method is very simple. Over forty shades may be produced from the three primary colors used. The photographic plate is developed in the usual manner, after the color fluids are applied. Most of the colored photographs seen heretofore have been painted by hand. The new automatic process gives much finer results. Pictures of landscapes and marine views are very satisfactory. But the most striking are those taken of soldiers of the French army. Gorgeous red, blue, both light and dark, gold, and silver, and many other colors, are shown with great brilliancy. Even precious stones have been pictured clearly by the new process. It is so delicate that not only tints but actual differences in complexion show.

Your picture may be taken in all the colors of nature, giving color of hair, nose and skin. Spotted, leucoderma, and new growths may be treated to best advantage. It is thought that at last satisfactory photographing of oil paintings may be accomplished.

London's British Parks.

Some loyal Britons have decided that the city of London needs a defender and comes to the front with the following claims: Since the year 1829 the city has paid toward the improvement of the whole municipality about $10,116,400, or a daily expenditure of over $5,000. As for the claim that the city is stuffy and early in need of breathing space, he insists that, exclusive of private gardens, close upon 25 per cent of the whole area of the city is given up to the public for recreation grounds; thus, within the five-mile radius of Charing Cross there are no less than 53 ground areas, apart from the cemeteries, the private grounds and square gardens, nearly all of them exceeding 20 acres in extent.

A New Engine of Death.

Military journals are at present interested in a new self-moving car, which is to be a veritable carriage of death. It is to be driven by a 16-horse-power engine at the rate of 40 miles an hour over a country reasonably level, and, of course, free from fences. It has four broad-tire wheels. But the climax and purpose of this remarkable machine is to carry two rapid-firing cannons, arranged on pivots, to sweep the entire horizon. One man only is needed to run this terrible wheeled weapon of war and this same man also attends to the firing, loading, etc.

An Engineering Feat.

Working plans for a tunnel to connect Sicily with the mainland of Italy, under the Strait of Messina, are on exhibition at the University of Pavia. A tunnel is thought more feasible than a suspension bridge, as the narrowest part of the strait is two miles wide, and the least span possible, 10,500 feet, is considered dangerous on account of the prevalent high winds.

Italy's Marriage Problem.

Italy is a country where marriage will always be popular, for it is government has a special fund for providing marriage portions for poor young girls. Without a dowry it would be almost impossible for a girl to be married, and this form of charity is said to be highly appreciated. The annual sum available for this purpose and distributed every year among the marriageable young girls is $500,000. To be a recipient it is necessary for the applicant to prove her good reputation and character by several witnesses, to show that she has no means available, and that the young man who wishes to marry her has a trade.

West Point's Oldest Graduate.

General George S. Greene, the oldest living graduate of West Point celebrated his 96th birthday recently in New York. He was a lieutenant in the Mexican war, and at the age of 64 served in the Civil war, receiving a wound in the jaw at the foot of Look-out mountain. General Greene was chief engineer of the Croton aqueduct, and later consulting engineer of the Central Park commission. He is as vigorous as a man of 60, and it is said that his advice as a consulting engineer is still in demand.

A New Anesthetic.

A Polish scientist is said to have invented an anesthetic which volatilizes rapidly upon exposure to the air, rendering the persons near unconscious for a long time. It is calculated that if a warfare bomb exploded in the midst of putting the enemy would have the effect of putting the entire body to sleep. A pellet of the substance broken under a man's nose put him to sleep for four hours.

A SURE DELIVERANCE.

Not instantaneously, it is true, but in a short space of time, persons of a bilious habit are freed from the tortures which a tormented liver is capable of inflicting by Hostetter's Stomach Balm, an all bilious medicine and aperient of the first rank. The pain in the right side and through the right shoulder blade, the sick headache, nausea, constipation, and a sallow hue of the skin, are entirely removed by the use of this medicine, composed of the organs of secretion and digestion.

The largest wolf ever killed in the northern part of Montana was roped and dragged to death near Nashua, Valley county, recently, and measured seven feet from tip to tip.

HOME PRODUCTS AND FERE FOOD.

All Eastern sheep, especially very light colored and heavy body, is made from ginseng. The ginseng drug is made from the root of a plant which grows in the mountains of the Pacific coast. It is for sale by the Pacific Coast Sheep Co. All genuine ginseng has the name of the manufacturer's name lithographed on every can.

When last heard from that book agent who recently invaded Mississippi with a work on "Irrigation" was only a few rods ahead of the mob.

WEEKLY MARKET LETTER.

Doubling, Hopkins & Company's Review of Trade.

It was a quiet week in the wheat market last week. The bulls continue to have the benefit of the statistics; the bears of the speculative dullness and of the relative cheapness of all the other grains. The crop news was about equally divided. Complaints came from abroad, particularly from France. On the other hand, the advance from the Northwest were exceedingly bullish. The extreme South-west had also a great deal to say of an early harvest. At the opening of the week there was a considerable shipping business, and the seaboard did a fair export trade from Monday up to the Saturday close. Here there was a loosened demand during the latter half of the week. The net movement, however, as the result of sales made the week before, was very large; sufficient to lead to the expectation of a reduction in the Chicago stock Monday of 1,000,000 bushels. Prices continued to show "borderline" instead of "straggling charges," the fact unquestionably which troubled the bears more than any other. May be let over July at the close and July 15 over September. That sort of relationship left no room for any of the usual philosophizing about "borderline." It was apparent from the quickness with which shorts took alarm on any news unfavorable to them that they recognized that they were granting all the advantages at the start.

There will this week probably be floating announcements of harvesting in Indian Territory and Texas. It will not be many days before the crowd begins to anticipate the June 10th government report, which will give the first announcement as to spring wheat area and condition. The former will show a large increase and the latter will be high.

WHEN TRUSTS RULE.

BALLOT WILL BE WORTHLESS AND THE PEOPLE ENSLAVED.

Magnates Must Be Taught a Lesson—How Corporations Dodge the Government—If Bank Notes Are Good Money Government Notes Are Better.

Curb the Trusts.

The New York Journal says that if the issue should be put in this form, "Shall the trusts run the Government or the Government run the trusts?" it needs no special foresight to predict the popular answer.

The people cannot afford to allow the trusts to become so powerful that they will practically rule the country. When the trusts rule, they will not merely control the necessities of life, but the people. They will have it in their power not only to limit production and raise prices, but to throw out of employment the masses of producers. By closing some factories and opening others during a political campaign and by shifting bodies of workers about the country they could disfranchise large numbers of voters. By secretly spreading rumors of threatened shut downs they could intimidate and coerce thousands of voters.

If they are allowed to become powerful enough, they will have on their side all the armies of ignorant partisans, with nothing but the fear of losing their "bread and butter" in mind. They can turn these men and defy local authorities. They can put in operation a system of blacklisting that will terrorize the body of workers. As they will have more to fear from the voter than from the striker, they can place upon their blacklists every man who dares to vote against their interests and reduce him to the ranks of the pauper and the tramp.

When the trusts rule, where will the Government be? When the trusts rule, what will the ballot amount to? The people must elect attorney general in every State who will fearlessly put in effect the antitrust laws. Trust magnates must be taught the lesson Broker Chapman has learned.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Escaping Taxation.

There are two methods resorted to by the unscrupulous officers of a certain class of corporations to evade taxation, says the New York Tribune. The first, and that which is generally practiced, is to mark down the value of their assets to the lowest possible figure. They allege a depreciation in value for all their property. The officers of one corporation lately carried this trick to its extreme when it was discovered that they had actually marked their cars on hand as depreciated in value from $10,000 to $3,000. When this was discovered they endeavored to explain by saying that they had placed the other $7,000 in a real estate investment.

The second method is to fix the salaries of its officers at a high sum, which is fictitious, while the real salary, which is actually paid, is much lower. The difference appears in the tax return as salaries unpaid.

These corporations make two distinct and separate reports at the time they file the stockholders, in which all the property owned by it is marked up to the top notch, and another to the tax department, where the statement appears so utterly lacking in tangible assets that it would be base flattery to call it a report.

These two reports in these two reports are prepared within a few weeks of each other.

These tricks and devices are conceived by men who claim social recognition and who walk in the paths of life that are trodden by honorable citizens. As Mahometans make their yearly pilgrimages to Mecca to pray at the birthplace of Mahomet, so do these unbelievers in taxation make their annual visit to the tax office to prey upon the community.

A Nation's Night.

Well may we mourn, my loving friends, Or shake at trusts alarm, For 'tis a voice the golden sends To rob us of our farm.

To make us toll both day and night, And shed our tears like rain, We startle at the whip's sharp crack, And wear our master's chain.

Equality is now achieved— The white man and the black— They both may work all day and night, But sure for bread will lack.

Keep on with murder, steel and burn, Through village, field and plain, The tolling bell, in ruins turns— To rage, to want and pain.

Oh, give the goldbugs all the rights But take the laborer's breath. A nation's soul goes down at noon! Draped in the shroud of death!

Chandler's Unpardonable Sin.

There is ground for that Senator Chandler has committed the unpardonable sin. His bill for the seizure of the works of the Carnegie and Bethlehem steel combine and the operation of the same until sufficient armor for our unsharpened weapons has been produced gives a terrific shock to Republican sensibilities. Amazement is expressed that a Senator of the party of Hanna and Morgan and Rockefeller should have ventured to be disrespectful to the trusts, and the logical conclusion is drawn that he favors the wrong side of the political fence. Traitor, socialist, anarchist, demagogue and all the pretty names which the defenders of the trusts, manufacturing and financial, keep in stock for application to such as question the right of capital to do as it pleases, are being hurled at the heretical Chandler. His expulsion from the party is demanded by the more ardent organs of wealth, while the temperate among them beseech him to reform. But he never will be forgiven, no matter what he may do by way of penance. He has taken the name of the trusts in vain.—New York Journal.

Why Not?

If the Government can create money for the bankers, why not for itself and the people?

If the greenbacks are money how can the power of the Government to create money be denied?

If the greenbacks are not money why did the bondholders ever lend the Government any money, having lent nothing but greenbacks?

If the greenbacks are not money why have the soldiers ever been paid, having received nothing but greenbacks?

PHYSICIANS BAFFLED.

Professor R. S. Bowman, Instructor of Natural Science in Hartsville College, Cured of a Severe Illness by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People After Physicians Failed.

From the Republican, Columbia, Ind.

Professor R. S. Bowman, the able instructor of natural science in the famous Hartsville (Ind.) College, is well and favorably known, not only as an educator, but also as a minister of the gospel, as for a number of years he was pastor of the Unitarian Brethren church at Charlotte, Mich., before coming to Hartsville.

The appointment of McKenna would be a disgrace to the McKinley administration and to the country, McKenna was known at the California bar as a corporation attorney, and when on the bench he was known as a corporation judge.

If President McKinley should have the opportunity to change the complexion of the Supreme Court of the United States, he should do it in a manner favorable to the public right and interests. That tribunal has made several decisions lately that tend to the hope that it may be brought back to the old path.

Mr. McKinley can do much either to encourage or to defeat this hope. The appointment of McKenna will certainly be proof of his determination to keep the corporation entrenched in the highest court in the land. And it will be so understood.

Hold On to Free Speech.

There is much disposition of late in the United States to attack and vilify the Senate because it does not subject itself to the same despotic rule as that which prevails in the House of Representatives under the name of the floor rules, which absolutely gag the minority and makes freedom of speech in that branch of Congress a thing of the past.

This desire on the part of the mouthpieces of plutocracy to choke off public debate and discussion of the fiscal legislation which the money power is trying to force through Congress is quite natural. These same defenders of monopoly, who are anxious to choke off freedom of debate in the Senate, would choke off freedom of speech on the public rostrum if they dared. As Governor Cleveland said in his New York speech, "None can forget the doubt and fear of that boisterous campaign," meaning the last one, when there was fuller and freer and healthier discussion of public questions than ever before. The Senate will do well on no account to limit the freedom of the regular organization of free government, but go steadily on its way and discuss all measures fully and freely.—Knights of Labor Journal.

"Not So Fast, Senator."

The dispatches say that Senator Butler told a reporter referring to the proposed conference at Nashville on July 4: "And you may quote me as saying that any Populist who does attend defies the regular organization of the party." Not so fast, Senator. We know of a number of Populists who will attend that conference, if they can afford it, and they don't propose to defy the regular organization of the party either.—Milwaukee Advance.

The Hide Ape Not in Yet.

About the only objection we have heard urged against the calling of a conference at this time is that we will be unable to determine whether to fuse with the Democrats, the Republicans, or to put out a straight ticket. That is to say if the pie hunters of our party can't agree on a price with the pie dispensers of the old parties we may have a straight ticket.—Morgan's Buzz Saw.

For the Referendum.

If the People's party is to be organized on the same basis as the two old parties and is to be bossed by an office-holding clique, just as the old twains are, we had as well shut up shop now. Our folks believe in the initiative, referendum and the imperative mandate, and it is their purpose to test the workings of all these this year of grace, 1897.—Frank Burkitt.

HE WAS MEAN.

And His Wife Is Waiting for Next Christmas to Get Even.

"Men can be awfully mean when they try," said the wife of a commercial traveler. She was discussing Christmas and the presents it had brought to her neighbor across the hall. "My husband," she continued, "thinks he is mighty smart, but you just wait; I'll get even with him if it takes a thousand years."

"What did he do?"

"Well, I suppose he thinks he has a good joke on me, but you just wait until next Christmas. You see, for the last three years I have bought him a beautiful smoking jacket. It has all ways so happened that it was a trifle too small—he is such a big overgrown thing—and a few days after Christmas he would go out on the road and I would take the smoking jacket back and exchange it for something I wanted."

"So he never got one?"

"Not until this year. I told him I was going down to buy him a Christmas present, and he just waited until he saw me go into the store, and then he followed. Just as I was picking out a beautiful garment he stepped up and asked me if it was for him. All the clerks were looking on and I had to say yes, for I had just told them it was for my husband. Well, what did that hateful thing do but say that I had tried for three years to get one that would fit and in order to avoid any mistake this time he would have one made to order."

"What did you say?"

"What could I say? I had to acquiesce, and ever since he has been telling our friends how he got ahead of me."

"What did you get?"

"Well, the smoking jacket cost so much that I did not dare very well. I had intended to exchange it for some lovely thing, but you just wait. Just wait until next Christmas."

$1000

for those who find it.

What is the missing word in the following sentence:

Schilling's Best tea is not only pure but it is.....because it is fresh-roasted.

Get a package of Schilling's Best tea at your grocers; take out the Yellow Ticket, send it with your guess to Schilling's Best Tea, San Francisco, by August 31st.

One guess allowed for every yellow ticket. If your guess reaches us before July 1st, you are entitled to two guesses for each ticket.

If only one person finds the word he gets $1000. If several find it, the $1000 will be divided equally among them.

Every one sending a yellow ticket will get a set of cardboard creeping babies at the end of the contest. Those sending three or more in one envelope will receive a charming 1898 calendar, no advertisement on it.

In addition to the $1000 offered we will pay $100 each to the two persons who send in the largest number of Schilling's Best yellow tickets before June 15th.

Cut this out. You won't see it again for two weeks.
