He has business interests in Portland, Oregon City and up the O. C. & E. R. R.
Shelburn celebrated Christmas in the "good old way," by having a fist fight. The rules which governed, were: "no fair hurting." John Vernon and Shelly Cornell were the principals. They fought three hard rounds, without a blow being landed, then they clinched. Cornell goes down, but quickly turns his big antagonist. Vernon secured both Cornell's hands, so there would be no chance of getting a "foul" in the face, and after they had changed the cold gray of Christmas day into a deep blue, Vernon's seconds threw up the sponge.
Mr. Geo. Phillips and Miss Anna Worrells, of Albany who have been visiting in Silverton returned to this city Wednesday evening. The people in general and the "boys" in particular thought things looked suspicious, so about 9 o'clock a party of serenaders called on George. After this party left, "the boys" began their shiveree in a their own peculiar style, by discharging four sticks of giant powder, which caused a skylight to fall in on G. W. Phillips, sr., and of course, he got up at once. This continued for about an hour, before George could convince the "boys" that he was not married. With another parting shot the "boys" retired.

Death of a Linn County Pioneer

James E. Ennis, a pioneer resident of Linn county, died at Salem Sunday. December 25, 1897, of Bright's disease, age 68 years. The deceased leaves a wife in Salem and a brother and three sisters in Missouri. He came to Oregon in 1852, driving a team across the plains for the McKinney caravan. In 1861 he enlisted in the war. When the war was ended he purchased a farm near Scio, Linn county, and resided there continuously for thirty years In October last he went to Salem and bought property.—Herald.
The many friends of his, in this place will be sorry to hear of his death. He was always a pleasant companion, good charitable neighbor and an industrious upright farmer. His death will be much regretted.

Insulting Spaniards.

Captain George L. Kelsey, of the schooner Wallace Ward, which has just arrived here from Barcelona states that the American council at that port fears mob violence, and is unable to keep the American flag upon Uncle Sam's vessels. He put into port there September 16 remaining three days.
At first the stars and stripes floated proudly from the masthead, but Spanish loiterers were attracted by it and gathered by the vessel, threatening violence. The American consul heard of the rumor that the crowd purposed burning the vessel, and he sent word to Captain Kelsey to haul down the flag. Captain Kelsey defied the Spaniards, but the next day the consul repeated his advise, and Captain Kelsey was reluctantly persuaded to store the stars and stripes below decks during the remainder of his stay. Spain will find herself on her back in a ditch, one of these days. Such things sureley cannot be brooked much longer by the United States.

The Christmas Ball

The Christmas ball given at the Houston Hall was a success. Mr. Homer Bilyeu received first prize for the best gentleman dancer present, also the prize for the best sustained gentleman character, that of "Ireland," for which he received $4.00 in cash. Miss Ella Bilyeu received $2 50 given for the best lady dancer present, and Mrs. Ella Wilson received $1 50 for best sustained lady character, being dressed in a suit made from copies of the SANTIAM NEWS. An elegant supper was served at the Scio Hotel.

State Board of Agriculture.

The annual meeting of the State Board of Agriculture was held at Salem last week. They found the debit side of their ledger $1,805.98 larger than the credit side of the page Hereafter the price of admission to the fair grounds will be 50 cents for gentlemen, and 25 cents for ladies, and no free passes will be given out at all.
Mr. Baker introduced the matter of the publication of several thousand and more copies of the pamphlet known as the "Resources of Oregon." He deemed this the most important part of the board's work, especially at this time when so many people are talking of the Alaskan gold fields and are desirous of coming to the Pacific Northwest. He suggested that the publication be revised and modernized and made more attractive in many ways. The board stood as a unit in favor of the proposition and Mr. Baker, Mr. A. J. Johnson and Mr. Albert were designated to act in the preparation of the copy for such a pamphlet. It is expected that 40,000 copies will be printed.

D. D. Prettyman Heard From.

We received a copy of The Oakland Enquirer, last week, which published an article on the front page, of a pioneer love feast given at the home of D. D. Prettyman, who at one time lived here, is and now located in Cal. He came to this coast 50 years ago, The Enquirer went on to say, "but there are two men here who beat him to this coast from one to five years, so when in their company he keeps rather quiet about pioneer days, as they consider him almost a tenderfoot." That all may be so about pioneer days, but they can't get any the start of him about other days, and he can talk as fast and as long as any old man.

Say! Say!! Say!!!

We give you Lion Coffee and we give you Arbuckle's Coffee for a bit a pound And beside we give you good Rio Green Coffee 12 lbs. for $1 —that beats the world.
R. E. Hibler.

T. J. Munkers and S. I. Shore have asserted positively that their boys were not in the Confectionery store Sunday night. What is this country coming to when fathers uphold their children in their meanness?

CHRISTMAS JEWELRY

I have just received a fine lot, of all kinds, some cheap and some the very best.
Come and see; and you will find something you want.

Home Boys at Dyea

David Horsburgh and Wm. Sheriff have written to Thomas Small from Dyea, and by permission, we print the following extracts from the letter:

DYEA, Dec. 14, 1897.

We write you to let you know we are O K and still alive. We got into Dyea yesterday. There is not much work going on here now, on account of the scarcity of lumber. There are lots of men waiting for the lumber and things are at a standstill till it comes.....A good many are cutting wood around here, but I think it will be hard to sell before Spring. We can't afford to work at anything we can not get money out of..... There will be lots of work here in a month or so. Wages now are 40c an hour, but the days are short, day break at 9 a. m. and dark at 3 p. m. .....A boarding house would pay .....Packers made $100 per day here last fall, single men $10 to $20 per day packing on their back..... A team like Ben and Prince would bring, with a wagon, $1000.....We shall go to Sheep Camp soon. We are only fifteen miles from the top of Chilcoot Pass. We think a man can do well at days work up here.

A Nervy Ferryman.

Fred Blumhart, the Corvallis ferryman, narrowly escaped what might have been a fatal accident last week. He was taking two college students across the river before daylight, when the fog was thick on the river. The Albany, which was pulling out and backing around in the ferry course, struck the small boat, knocking one of the oars out of Blumhart's hand. The rowboat was going under the wheel, when Blumhart grabbed the wheel and beam and hung on, pushing his boat and its two occupants out into the river. He hung on until the Albany was below the sawmill, when he was helped on deck, and then he was put ashore. It was a close call.

Anyone who has been a victim of the affliction, knows too well the annoyance and pain attendant upon frost-bite or chilblains. I can vouch for the good effects of the following remedy: To one pint of cider vinegar, add from one-half to three quarters of an ounce of oil of vitriol, and wash the blains or frost-bitten parts for two or three evenings on going to bed.—Faith Cameron In Popular Science News.

A Narrow Escape.

Blacksmith Zumwaldt, while on his way from Mehama to Stayton, in Marion county, last week, reined his horse up at the watering trough by the roadside, near the David Johnston home, and got out of the wagon to let down the overchecks, leaving his little boy, 5 or 6 years of age, on the seat. It is supposed he approached the animals without proper warning. At any rate, the horses wheeled and struck him a blow full in the chest, that felled him to the ground. The horses ran to the old Mulkey farm, a mile or so below, at a frightful gait, the little fellow somehow holding to the seat. There it was stopped by men working in a field. The lad was not injured in the least. As soon as the father regained consciousness he ran after the fleeing team, and overtook it some minutes later.—Stayton Mail.

Five small boys, of from 10 to 16, years of age, broke into A. Montgomery's confectionery store Sunday night and took most of the stock of candies, cigars, nuts, chewing gum etc. The leader of the gang is about 16 years old, and has served time in the reform school. He will return at once. One of the younger boys, who is about 10 years of age, and was influenced by the larger boys told his father of the robbery. The boys hid the goods. This is the second time they have broken into the store.
