QUESTION IS SETTLED

America Will Take Over the Philippines.

NOT ONE, BUT ALL OF THEM

If Spain Refuses, Hostilities Will Be Resumed and We Will Seize the Archipelago.

The Paris exposition has granted America extra floor space, and the allotment now amounts to $10,000 square feet.

A dispatch to the Herald from San Diego, Calif., announces that the protocol on the Puna de Alcalá dispute has been signed. This settles the Chile-Argentine dispute.

The former Spanish cruiser, the María Teresa, which was sunk during the battle with Cervera's fleet and raised under the direction of Naval Constructor Hobson, has sailed from Callao to Hampton roads.

In 1897 Spain issued, by royal decree, the sum of $40,000,000, to which were pledged the revenues of the Philippines, and to which the Spanish national guarantee was added. From these $40,000,000 of obligations, Spain realized $36,000,000 in cash. These $40,000,000 represent the Philippine debt, which is entirely outside of the $500,000,000 of the so-called Philippine and Spanish debt.

The conditions also differ, the Philippine debt having been created by royal decree because of the want of money, while the so-called Cuban debt was created by law. The difference raises the question of the non-responsibility of the Philippines when removed from the sovereignty under which its resources were pledged.

Should the United States absorb the Philippines, none but officials yet know whether they will assume a part or all of this debt, or more than the Philippine debt. The Americans have declined to assume the Cuban debt because Cuba is not theirs; but in depositing Spain in the Philippines, the Americans acquire the territory, and it is believed there will be some financial assumption by the United States.

At this point arises the question of how much financial relief might compensate Spain for her loss of the Philippines. Some well-informed persons believe that Premier Sagasta has determined to rid of the Philippines, and would direct his commission to sign a treaty by which the United States should take the islands and assume $40,000,000 of debt. This proposition finds support in the Parisian press, which today declares that resistance is impossible, and that Spain should abandon the archipelago.

Spain Will Resist.

Washington, Oct. 31.—During the past two years the department of agriculture has conducted a series of experiments in the use of a serum as a remedy for hog cholera affected by cholera or swine plague.
