every line of business. Portland has been run by a gang of political thieves until it now finds itself just on the eve of bankruptcy.

By the retirement, through the age limit, of Rear Admiral Bruce, the honor was fittingly bestowed upon one who had bravely earned it.

You should read carefully your insurance policies. They contain clauses which if ignored or not understood by you will make the insurance valueless. A man gave a deed of his place as security to a man he borrowed money of. His home was burned and he could not collect his insurance because he had not notified the company of his transaction in conveying the property to another.

The Independence West Side says that a law creating a board of "commissioners" needs watching. Too true. A board of "commissioners" appointed in fulfillment of some political pledge, seem to have a perfect right to steal every thing in sight and then put in a bill to the state for a deficiency. Look at the board of commissioners—self constituted—which is composed of the highest officials, who have had charge of that stove foundry steel.

The movement recently inaugurated in this city to raise a fund with which to purchase gray English pheasants for the Willamette valley has proved considerably of a success. Nearly $250 was raised, and Attorney Milton W. Smith, one of the promoters of the enterprise, sent an order for 48 pairs of birds this morning. The birds which will be turned loose at different points in the Willamette valley are expected to arrive about the latter part of January.—Portland Evening Telegram.

It is reported in Washington that Lieut. Hobson has been notified by Secretary Long that he was imperiling his reputation by his kissing exhibitions, and that he should be more discreet. What Secretary Long should have done was to have re-called Hobson and dismissed him from the service of the United States navy. He has disgraced himself, and it is safe to say that if he belonged to the navy of any of the foreign lands his resignation would be asked for on short notice. Such conduct as he has been guilty of is certainly unbecomingly a gentleman, and doubtless so for a soldier.

Spain has a peculiar way of going into mourning as a nation. The Madrid government has provided black stamps to be attached to each piece of inland mail matter. In order that every citizen shall do his share of the mourning it is further provided that the stamps must be used for by the user, the amount to be in addition to the regular postage.

Some people especially so, the more sanguine of the Confederate veterans, think that President McKinley's address at Atlanta, in which he made reference to the caring for the graves of the Confederate dead meant that ex Confederates will be admitted to National Soldiers Homes and pensioned by the general government. In this they are mistaken. The nation can and do admire the Confederate valor displayed on the many fields of sanguinary strife, but it cannot admit that their cause was right. The nation forgives their errors, but it cannot condone their sin.

La Grippe Successful Treated.

"I have just recovered from the second attack of la grippe this year," says Mr. Jas. A. Jones, publisher of the leader, Mexico, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being laid a little over two days, against ten days for the former attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down.' An editor who knows says that the dreams of prosperity differ with the individual. The boy's idea of perfect happiness is six pieces of pie at a meal. The darkey dreams of good ripe watermelons. The farmers richest feeling is to mow over the fifty bushels of wheat—that he didn't plant. The bicyclist's most prosperous idol is a smooth track around the world. The confidence man has a vision of green horsebacks coming to town in droves. The country editor's most extravagant dream is how nice it would be for a dozen or more to come in and pay up in one day.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

You are perhaps aware that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of la grippe. During the epidemic of la grippe a few years ago when so many cases resulted in pneumonia, it was observed that the attack was never followed by that disease when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was used. It counteracts any tendency of a cold or la grippe to result in that dangerous disease. It is the best remedy in the world for bad colds and la grippe. Every bottle warranted. The Carlisle school, he says, has done more good in proportion to its sphere than any other educational institution in the United States. The wisdom of the methods adopted by its founders has been proved by decades of experience. The basic idea of the Carlisle institution was the removal of the pupil from every stimulation and surrounding of his barbaric life. It took him from the wilds of the forest and placed him in the midst of civilization. In that respect it far excelled the reservation schoolhouse, whose work was hampered by the conflict between its aims and the barbaric tendencies and associations of the pupil. However, Dr. Montezuma was ready to agree, the good results of five or six years' training at Carlisle would count for naught if no better future than a return to his tribe opened to the pupil.

"Yes," said Dr. Montezuma, "let the tribal relations be forever severed, let the Indians lose their identity as a people, and let them become a part, instead of a ward, of this great nation. Why," he continued, laughingly, "some of the best families of Chicago are proud of their descent from Pocahontas. Perhaps a hundred years hence direct lineage from 'Spotted Tail' or 'Little-Man-Afraid-of-His-Horse' will be the boast of some of our first citizens."

Dr. Montezuma was born in Arizona and was captured from his tribe by the Pumas when five years old. The captors sold him for $30 to Mr. Gentile, of Chicago, and he was reared in this city, attending the public schools. Residing at the state university and later acquiring his technical training in Chicago Medical college. The civilization of his people is his highest wish.—Chicago Post.

HE KNEW MISS FILKINS.

How a Little Salt Became Commander Marix's Messenger on Board the Maine.

That charming favorite, Grace Filkins, is the wife of Lieutenant Commander Adolph Marix, the judge advocate of the naval court of inquiry which investigated the destruction of the battleship Maine. Lieutenant Commander Marix was formerly the executive officer of the Maine, and was continued as such until within three weeks of the time the battleship was sent to Havana, when he was detached for shore duty. When the Maine was first assigned to the Maine he and Miss Filkins had just become engaged to be married, and the naval officer was much in love with the lady. Commander Marix desired a ship's messenger, and ordered a second lieutenant one day to range up all the lads in the ship that he might select a messenger from them. A dozen youngsters soon stood in Commander Marix's cabin, all eager to be examined, for to be messenger for the executive officer was a coveted honor.

It is the now of lads Commander Marix noticed one little fellow starting with wide-open eyes at a picture of Miss Filkins on his desk. This somewhat surprised him, and it pleased him, too. When this youngster's turn came to be interrupted he stepped forward, but did not remove his eyes from the photograph. He answered intelligently, but somehow his gaze could not be diverted from the lady's picture.

Finally the commander asked: "Do you know this lady, young man?"

"Yes," piped the little salt, "that's Miss Filkins."

"How do you know Miss Filkins?"

"My mother washed for her for nine years, sir."

It is needless to say that the little apprentice was given the post of messenger to the lieutenant commander. This boy's name was Kogel, and about 18 months ago he was lost overboard in a storm off Cape Hatteras. A great wave boarded the ship and sent the lad into the sea. Four or five men sprang overboard in the midst of the storm to rescue the lad, and all were saved but poor little Kogel, who was sucked down by the heavy sea and never seen again. It is a noteworthy fact that two sailors of those who went overboard in the storm after this boy were lost from the ship for over two hours, and finally were saved, after having been almost washed aboard of her by a great sea.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
